Housing projects at Morgan, former VFW building advance

Plan Commission recommends approvals amid opposition

By Tom Ekvall
HERALD CONTRIBUTOR

The Oshkosh Plan Commission recommended approval of two housing developments despite neighborhood objections at its June 19 meeting.

The proposals included a 400-unit development when fully built on 11.5 acres for the Morgan District at the northwest corner of Oregon Street and West 6th Avenue, along with a 16-unit proposal for the former Veterans of Foreign Wars property at 129 W. 17th St.

Plan commissioners agreed with city Planning Services staff that both projects would not have an adverse effect on the neighborhoods and would positively contribute to housing developments on unused land.

With regard to the Morgan District property, petitioners had sought a conditional use permit and general development plan for the multifamily project with Phase 1 including two multifamily buildings, a clubhouse and pool. The Plan Commission voted 8-0 in favor of the project.

Commission member Ed Bowen stepped away from his official role to present the proposal on behalf of the Morgan District, accompanied by architect Joseph Lee. Bowen abstained from the vote.

Once fully built, the project would have four five-story buildings, each with 54 units, as well as six townhouse projects with five to seven units each. The larger apartment complexes will have first-floor enclosed parking.

Bowen said the project would be sensitive to needs of neighborhood residents. During the meeting several had expressed opposition and noted the building designs seemed too similar to "factory style" on what was once a major factory site.

Sara Stichert, 416 W. 5th St., said the "aesthetics do not match the area" and also questioned the increased traffic from the housing development.

Lee said the buildings would be situated so that the maximum line of sight for the riverfront would be available to all residents in the development. The architect said he has designed more than 7,000 units built in Wisconsin and elsewhere and would use high-quality materials.

Bowen said the company is also working on plans for commercial use of property at Oregon Street and West 6th, which was not part of the development plan and the focus of a recent hearing for a combination Class B liquor license before the Common Council. The property is within a tax increment financing district.

Residents near the former VFW building site also attended the Plan Commission meeting.

Running Water City's community built on sole

By Karen Schneider
OSHKOSH HERALD

Alex Hummel returned to Oshkosh looking to start a running group that masqueraded as a social group similar to one he experienced in Madison.

Hummel's group was his introduction to the community and he was able to explore areas of Madison he would have never seen.

"When you run routes, you get to see what is going on, are able to point out what is happening and see parts of the city you wouldn't normally experience," he said. "You become an ambassador of the city."

This is what Hummel wanted to create in Oshkosh.

At the end of 2016 and early 2017 Hummel posted on Facebook his idea to form a running group. Meredith Scheuermann responded, wanting to know what he had in mind. Scheuermann was already

Veterans Parade brings in 4th

The annual Fourth of July Veterans Parade launches at 9 a.m. Wednesday from the corner of Otter and Main streets.

The parade route will continue down Main Street to Irving Avenue where it will turn east. The parade will continue east on Irving to Menominee Park where Sawdust Days will be underway.

The parade is organized by the Vietnam Veterans of Post 437. The post assists with staging the entries and will be showcasing parade chairman Rick Wing for his service and dedication. Wing has been involved with the parade since helping launch it in 1991 as a welcome home for Operation Desert Storm veterans.

Wing, who became parade chairman in 2005 with the assistance of a few "background workers," has been organizing the

Sawdust Days family festival back at park

You know it's Fourth of July in Oshkosh when the Sawdust Days boardwalk returns to Menominee Park. Now in its 46th year, Sawdust Days serves as the midpoint of summer entertainment for many.

Sawdust Days returns to its original layout this year with the main stage inside the Budweiser pavilion.

Johnny Wad is featured Tuesday night; Mason Street Band, Rhythm Kings, Black Frog, The Now and Hells Bells perform Wednesday; Ruckus, Reload, Bad Habitz and Road Trip are featured Thursday; Fork in the River Band, Copper Box, Rising Phoenix and Mad Man's Diary Tribute to Ozzy is on Friday's schedule; and Eclectix, the Del Ray's, The Friends and Vic Ferrari close out the festival Saturday.

Sabor A Mexico, billed as the largest

Latino festival in the upper Midwest, also returns with Latino bands, deejays, Mexican food, fireworks and a jalapeno-eating contest among the activities.

The festival kicks off at 4 p.m. July 3 and wraps up by 10 p.m. July 7.

Sheridan Amusements will provide family entertainment with rides and attractions in the midway.

Other features include a flea market, children's area, Corvette Club car show and 1700 fur trader encampment. The Historic Village encampment will have vendors and people demonstrating handmade native drums, Cheyenne-style tipis, canoes, French and Indian games, storytelling and tribal dances.

The holiday kicks off with the Veterans Parade, which will begin at 9 a.m. at Otter and Main street and ends at Menominee Park. Festival Food 4th of July Fireworks will light the sky at 9:45 p.m. from Millers Bay in Menominee Park.

procession along with Dee Scheatz and Anne Hauch for the past 13 years, according to Hauch, parade coordinator.

The Veterans Parade has more than 70 entries and lasts about an hour. It is the largest in the region and attracts more than 20,000 people, according to the Sawdust Days website. Food, entertainment and refreshments are available at Sawdust Days after the parade.

Because of construction east of Main Street, a new staging and lineup area is being established where parade participants will access the area using Waugoo Avenue to Broad Street to Ceape.

North Main will be closed northbound beginning at 7 a.m. and a full closure at 8:30 a.m.

Living With Wonder

Relationships Across Generations Provide Positive Impact On Society

Special moments with an older person are often some of our fondest memories. Whether you learned your way around the kitchen, went fishing, planted a garden or worked on the clunker in the garage, you enjoyed spending time with someone special, someone across the generations. Often in the glow of these memories, we think of how wonderful we felt and how the time spent together made us happier. This happiness flows into improving emotional and physical wellness of both the young and old. Both are more optimistic and hopeful for the future. Knowing relationships across the generations are a strong, positive part of our social fabric, Miravida Living has introduced programs and activities involving children, students and volunteers.

One activity that encourages intergenerational relationships with community members is Cycling Without Age. This program matches volunteer pilots with our residents for a rickshaw ride. It creates opportunities for sharing stories, being outside and enjoying the companionship of someone across the generations. One volunteer pilot enjoyed being with our residents and sharing stories so much she decided to make a career change. She is in the process of obtaining her certified nursing assistant license and will soon be a resident assistant at Gabriel's Villa.

Strengthening The Social Fabric Of Our Community

In our work with the special needs students from Oshkosh West High School, one young man with cerebral palsy regularly visited with an older resident living with similar challenges. Neither spoke, but both understood. With spirits soaring, their relationship was filled with grace and genuine affection. Another special needs student comes daily to visit with residents and learn valuable skills for entering the workforce. Before she gets to work resetting the Bethel Home dining room between lunch and dinner, she rushes to the elevator, presses the button to go to the basement and bursts into the human resources suite to visit with Bella, one of the many dogs spending the day with our residents and team.

The power of intergenerational relationships is evident monthly when first grade students from Roosevelt Elementary hop on a bus, enter Bethel Home single file and are obviously excited to spend time with the elders they have come to know and love. The chapel is filled with the joyful sounds of elders and kids playing games, coloring, and practicing math and reading skills. Animated smiles, a certain silliness, and the wonderful blending of learning and play across the generations create remarkable experiences and lifetime memories.

a member of a group of 10 friends that met weekly to run. As the unofficial ringleader, she sent out a group message about when and where they would be launching from.

In a collaborative effort, Hummel and Scheuermann joined forces to create Running Water City and become Facebook official by promoting the first run at Dublin's Irish Pub on Feb. 2, 2017.

Hummel and Scheuermann's goal is to promote inclusivity. The group has grown from fewer than a dozen to nearly 30 runners showing up at the weekly launch site.

"We don't have roles, or leaders," Hummel emphasized. Those who participate range from walkers to intermediate runners to a few elite runners – with the middle-ground runners doing a 9- to 10-minute mile.

The group gathers at a different local business every week. The routes are posted on Facebook before Thursdays and labeled with names like the "windshield wiper" or "bridges" based on the shape of the run or where it will be taking them. The routes are discussed and Hummel or Scheuermann will explain how to shorten routes for those walking or running at a slower pace.

SCHEUERMANN

Word of mouth and Facebook has helped Running Water City grow organically, recently surpassing more than 380 members on Facebook. Hummel shared that if you are a real person requesting to join the group it's "approve, approve, approve."

Hummel emphasized the group is totally inclusive.

"We want people to always feel welcome," he said. "The community of runners is a strong thing wherever you go."

Scheuermann said people shouldn't get caught up in it being a running group.

"When people ask what pace do you go, I ask, 'What pace do you want to go?' There's no judgment," she said. "No one asks what your time was. It's a good time, high fiving."

Scheuermann and husband Bill have a goal to run a half marathon in every state, so every month they are on the road. She also travels during the week for work but makes it home Thursdays – mostly to run. She travels to Chicago on Fridays. That's how important the group is to her.

When asked about children and family participation, "not enough" was the united response. Families and walkers are encouraged to join. "What can we do to encourage more walkers?" Hummel asked.

Both have similar goals for the group. Hummel, the route coordinator, loves the thought of someone looking to move into the area being told when they inquire on what to do or how to get involved: "Have you heard about RWC? They go to local places, they get a burger and beer, and they get to see what Oshkosh is."

Scheuermann, who picks the starting points and gives local businesses a heads up, is hoping other businesses reach out and ask to host RWC. She also welcomes invitations to meet with area service groups and businesses to speak on wellness and get them engaged.

Whether just starting out as a walker or looking to insert a medium-size mid-week run to regular weeklong training, Running Water City is there to start making new friends and goals.

The group will launch at 6 p.m. June 28 at Fletch's Local Tap House, 566 N. Main St.

Little fish surviving in the big radio pond

By Cheryl Hentz
HERALD CONTRIBUTOR

It's happening all over the country: Little radio stations easily being gobbled up by media conglomerates. Locally, however, there are a few who have managed to stay the course and not be absorbed into major network groups, remaining successful at the same time.

One of them is WBJZ, 104.7 FM, soon to be acquired by the Woodward Radio Group, a division of Woodward Communications. Woodward owns and operates several stations throughout Northeast Wisconsin, including WHBY and WAPL.

Woodward has been talking on and off with Caxambas Corp. for many years, but finally signed a purchase agreement March 9 of this year and a local marketing agreement May 1. The sale is now pending FCC approval, but on June 12, WBJZ and its active rock format started simulcasting with Woodward's other active rock station, Razor 94.7 FM. It now boasts a listening range from Green Bay all the way down to Fond du Lac, said Kelly Radandt, general manager for Woodward Radio Group and national sales manager.

BOYSON

The other local radio group not selling to the big guys is Hometown Broadcasting, owned by general manager Tom Boyson and his wife of nearly 42 years, JoAnn. Boyson started as a salesman for KFIZ in Fond du Lac back in 1979. Over his years of working with KFIZ, he managed to purchase a few radio stations of his own.

In 1999 he purchased AM 1090 WISS Radio; it is now WISS AM 1100. In 2000 he built 102.3 out of Wautoma, though it has a coverage area from Stevens Point all the way to the Fox Valley. Two years ago, he purchased AM 1600 in Ripon, while also acquiring 98.3 in Oshkosh.

Earlier this month he was granted an FM license in Ripon, which will be 93.1 FM. It should be up and running in the next 30 to 60 days, said Boyson, who left KFIZ in 2013 to run Hometown full time.

So how do these small radio groups manage to stay independent when stations all around are joining forces with bigger operations?

"We really focus in on localism. We're very much about the communities (we're in) and giving back to them," said Radandt, adding that being small can sometimes be challenging, but it has its advantages.

"We sometimes don't have the scale that the larger radio groups have. But while (a larger radio group) will have the same type of programming on all its stations throughout the United States, we really do leave our people to make their own decisions here locally as to what works best in their communities."

Boyson also believes that remaining true to community roots has been key in his group's success.

"Radio was the first social media. We focus on local things; we do local news, we focus on a lot of local sports, and people use us in our communities like Wautoma, Ripon, Berlin and now Oshkosh in the last couple of years as their news source," he said. "People always like to know what's going on in their community, so we stay involved in numerous community events throughout the counties we serve."

And in an age that can't get new technology fast enough, Radandt said they've had to change with the times and incorporate technology into their programming. They're offering things such as streamed podcasts and other specialized local programming, as is the case with "Hometown Brew," a streamed show featuring music by Wisconsin artists. The show also airs on WAPL Saturday mornings from 9 to 11 a.m.

"We're looking at starting to sell that (kind of programming) that helps us grow organically. But we also want to start doing more of the little niches like that that super-serve certain areas of our communities," said Radandt.

Boyson agreed it's been important to embrace the digital explosion.

"We do podcasts on our radio stations. We link our clients to our website. We use technology as a value-added feature in some cases or sell it as additional advertising for what's called gateway ads," he said. "So when people go to listen to our radio stations, there's an ad that (they hear) for maybe 15 seconds. Those are things we can sell. We also have banner ads at the top of our website which we can sell. To survive, I think you kind of have to be a one-stop shop and offer a lot of things to clients that add value to your properties."

These small radio groups have welcomed change, but resisted the need to sell out to media Goliaths. They believe that their success has come from embracing change, staying small and focusing on local people and the news and information that matters to them.

New neighborhood group forms

By Tom Ekvall
HERALD CONTRIBUTOR

The Sawyer Paine Neighborhood Association became the newest residential group in the city, organizing to serve the area in the vicinity of the Oshkosh Public Museum and the Paine Art Center and Gardens at an organizational meeting June 20.

Boundaries for the group include Congress Avenue to Vine Avenue, Elmwood Avenue to the Fox River; both sides of Algoma Boulevard from Bent Street to Congress Avenue, and homes on the west side of Algoma Boulevard from the block south of Vine Avenue to Woodland Avenue.

Pam Ruder, new executive director at Greater Oshkosh-Healthy Neighborhoods Inc. (GO-HNI) told those present that the "bottom line is to create a proud community through taking pride in yourself with others following."

RUDER

Steven Wiley, an assistant planner with the city's Planning Services Division, said his office is able to provide services to the association and has programs open to residents within recognized neighborhood association boundaries.

Membership in the organization is voluntary and open to all property owners, including homeowners, renters, businesses and organizations within the boundaries.

Jeanne Tondryk, newly elected chairperson, said her interest in forming the group started as a way to give residents an active voice in their neighborhood's future

Some of the performances coming to The Grand Oshkosh for the 2018-19 season include (from top) Ted Vigil starring in a John Denver tribute show Sept. 14, TV celebrity Tony Danza and his one-man show Sept. 15, and the Young Islanders bringing their Wild Atlantic Way tour here March 8.

Grand Oshkosh season revealed

The Grand Oshkosh has unveiled its 2018-2019 season lineup of entertainment variety for its 135th anniversary.

Opening weekend at The Grand kicks off Sept. 14 with a John Denver Tribute starring Ted Vigil.

The next evening, former "Taxi" star Tony Danza takes the stage for Tony Danza: Standards & Stories. Danza's Sept. 15 show will feature music and storytelling with soft shoe and ukulele performances.

The Grand will partner with the Menominee Nation Arena to bring Becoming Kareem: Kareem Abdul Jabbar with Roy Firestone on Sept. 8 at the arena.

JABBAR

Other headliners include Internet star Charlie Berens, "Cocktail Hour: The Show" and the Young Islanders. The schedule also has performances by the Oshkosh Community Players, Hysterical Productions and the Oshkosh Symphony Orchestra.

"This season, we've involved several staff in the research and show recommendations," said Joseph Ferlo, director of The Grand. "Their varied ages, interests and experiences had resulted in the selection of a season that is particularly diverse. I think there's something for all tastes and, I hope, more than one 'something' for all tastes."

Grand programs feature Suite Seat service, which includes maximum legroom, a complimentary first beverage and intermission service. Tickets go on sale July 9 and will be available at The Grand Oshkosh Box Office at 100 High Ave., by phone at 920-424-2350 or at thegrandoshkosh.org.

Golf outing raises $20,000

The 32nd annual Koepke Memorial Golf Outing drew 137 people to Utica Golf Course on June 9 to enjoy the weather and raise money for the Aurora and Mercy hospitals' cancer centers.

Close to $20,000 was raised through the title sponsor, Glacier Dental, along with more than 26 hole sponsors, individual donations, prize drawings and chances at a hole-in-one car, a Chevy Equinox donated by Bergstrom GM of Oshkosh.

Fit Oshkosh plans fundraising dinner

Fit Oshkosh, dedicated to improving racial equality and building a welcoming community, has announced its third annual fundraising dinner from 5 to 9 p.m. Aug. 9 at the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh Alumni Welcome and Conference Center.

Jordan Landry, associate professor of English at UW-Oshkosh, will reprise her role as emcee. Keynote speaker Robin Nicole Tinnon is a community activist and founder of Black Youth Alliance — WI, a program of the state Department of Health Services that focuses on youth drug abuse.

"The Color-Brave Photo Project: Black and Brown Faces," an exhibit that showcases the portraits and stories of people of color in the area, will be on display. The exhibit has been traveling throughout the region. Another highlight will be presentation of the Daisy Fraiser Social Justice Hero Award.

A silent auction and raffle will be held. Dinner prices are $55 until June 30, $65 between July 1 and Aug. 9, and $75 at the door. A table for eight can be reserved for $400.

Helicopter crash details released

By Tom Ekvall
HERALD CONTRIBUTOR

The National Safety Transportation Board (NTSB) has issued a preliminary report detailing the June 9 helicopter crash that took the life of Jonathan Bahr of Platteville after the aircraft hit a live power line and went into the Fox River.

The Robinson R44 helicopter, registered to and operated by MF Helicopters LLC, was engaged in aerial photography of the Four Horsemen Poker Run on Lake Winnebago, operating from a field next to the Dockside Tavern about a half-mile from the accident site, according to the report. The pilot and a photographer had been airborne for about 90 minutes flying to the west at low altitudes over a series of lakes and rivers while photographing boats in the poker run.

The report says the pilot had returned to the departure field with the photographer exiting the aircraft, and then took off to the south with the intent of flying to Witman Regional Airport to refuel.

“At some point the pilot turned and began flying to the northwest along the river. Shortly after the turn, the helicopter contacted a static line and a fiber optic line, which were the top two lines of a five-line array that crossed over the Fox River, subsequently impacting the river and sank,” the accident report stated.

The collision with the power lines occurred during the initial climb after taking off from the field at 12:29 p.m. Wind speed at the time was measured at 11 knots.

The NTSB investigated the scene of the accident along with a representative from the Federal Aviation Administration.

Bahr was the son of Glen Bahr and Lori Erschen-Bahr, graduating from Platteville High School in 2010. He joined the U.S. Army after graduating and became an Airborne Ranger with the 82nd Airborne Division, doing a tour of duty in Afghanistan.

After military service, he attended Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University in Prescott, Ariz., and served as club president of the Blacksheep Rugby Team while there, according to an obituary from the Melby Funeral Home and Crematory in Platteville. Bahr was an Eagle Scout and had earned his Certified Flight Instructor 1 rating.

New buses dedicated

Mayor Steve Cummings cuts the ribbon to welcome the first of seven new fuel-efficient buses that Oshkosh received this year to replace 2003 vehicles. The ceremony featured city staff, Common Council members and members of the Transit Advisory Board, as well as bus riders. The 10 older buses are considered past their useful life and experiencing mechanical failures. The city intends to replace the balance of those buses within the next year through additional grant funding with vehicles that have clean diesel technology that reduces emissions.

Glassdoor cites Oshkosh Corp.'s Jones

Wilson Jones, Oshkosh Corp. president and chief executive officer, was honored with a Glassdoor Employees' Choice Award for top CEOs nationwide in 2018, the only Wisconsin executive to be recognized.

Among chief executives praised by employees in the U.S., Jones received an approval rating of 93 percent based on anonymous and voluntary reviews from team members at Oshkosh Corp. shared on Glassdoor, one of the world's largest job and recruiting sites. The annual report recognizes leaders that employees enjoy working for in countries throughout North America and parts of Europe.

JONES

“On behalf of our Oshkosh Corporation family, we are honored to have an amazing leader in Wilson,” said Robert Sims, chief human resources officer. “He makes a difference in our company, our communities, and for our team members by focusing on growing our People First culture. We are especially proud of this award because it's based on feedback from our current team members and former team members.”

Team members are asked to rate factors such as their overall satisfaction and other workplace attributes like senior management. Among the 770,000 companies reviewed, the average CEO approval rating was 69 percent.

Oshkosh Corp. was also recently named a Glassdoor 2018 Best Place to Work. The list of top CEOs is at www.glassdoor.com/Award/Top-CEOs.

Motorcycle poker run set for veterans home

King Run Inc. is organizing its 12th annual motorcycle poker run June 29 and 30 for the Wisconsin Veteran's Home in King. The run includes stamps at every stop, raffles, lunch for purchase at King, and upon returning food will be available to purchase at Maple Pub in Menominee Nation Arena.

Preregistration is from 6 to 9 p.m. June 29 at Park Ave Bar, 358 W. South Park Ave. Registration is from 8 to 9:30 a.m. June 30 at the arena, a bike blessing 10 a.m., then lunch with veterans at N2665 County QQ, King, and a blood center drive from 2:30 to 5:30 p.m. back at the arena.

Coast Guard honors boating industry expert

Dick Snyder of Oshkosh was honored with a Meritorious Public Service Award from the U.S. Coast Guard for his contributions to recreational boating safety as a longtime member of the National Boating Safety Advisory Council.

Snyder has participated in 59 consecutive meetings of the council as a representative for Mercury Marine, from where he recently retired. He was praised by Coast Guard Commandant Rear Adm. John Nadeau in giving him the award last month through the Department of Homeland Security.

“The work Mr. Snyder performed in the area of propeller safety and research was groundbreaking and is still used today to answer questions about propellers or guards during investigations of propeller strikes,” the commendation states. “Mr. Snyder's willingness to share his marine engineering expertise and wealth of recreational boating knowledge has been invaluable to the Council and it has deliberated how to reduce the number of propeller-related boating casualties.”

Snyder's efforts were the foundation for testing and analysis by the American Boat and Yacht Council to develop its propeller guard test protocol used by manufacturers and dealers to determine performance tradeoffs on recreational boats.

Park playground to be dedicated

The new Sea, Sand and Sailorland playground in Menominee Park at Hazel Street and East Irving Avenue will be dedicated at 4:30 p.m. June 28 with a ribbon-cutting ceremony.

The Menominee South Neighborhood Association took the lead in getting the new playground equipment with a request to the city's Great Neighborhoods Program.

The neighborhood group agreed to fundraise a portion of the budget. It was

Menominee South's recommendation to work with Kids Around the World, an organization that refurbishes playgrounds in poverty-stricken countries

The Oshkosh Area Community Foundation provided support, Metzsig Conservation Fund donated a mature Swamp White Oak, Bella Vista provided meeting space and Eagle Scout John Konrad volunteered to raise money for additional landscaping as his service project.

Block grant funding aimed at housing, blight, shelter

By Tom Ekvall
HERALD CONTRIBUTOR

The city's Community Development Block Grant program totaling $815,197 was recommended for approval by the Plan Commission to be used for housing and public improvement programs serving low-to moderate-income families and reducing blight within the city.

The plan goes to the Common Council for approval before submittal to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development as part of an annual process to decide how the federal funds will be spent. The Plan Commission review helps determine whether the CDBG Action Plan is consistent with the city's 2005-2025 Comprehensive Plan, official maps or other planned city activities.

Darlene Brandt, grants coordinator with the city Community Development Department, told commission members that $331,397 of the funds would be used for housing and neighborhood initiatives, $280,000 for central city initiatives, $115,000 for public service improvements, and $89,000 for fair housing and city staff expenses.

She said the central city redevelopment costs include removal of blight ($100,000), acquisition of a vacant lot to assist a non-profit organization (Day By Day Warming Shelter) with construction of a permanent homeless facility ($150,000) and funds to assist a nonprofit organization with lead reduction for development of a day care facility.

No funds are being requested for the Great Neighborhoods program this year as there are sufficient carryover funds from previous years, Brandt said.

sion meeting to renew their objections to the planned development there, which has been modified by the applicant, Chet Wesenberg, to provide four duplexes on vacant land as well as modification of the existing facility, formerly a tavern, into an eight-unit apartment complex.

Wesenberg has requested a zone change from neighborhood mixed-use district to mixed use with a planned development overlay. The Plan Commission had delayed action on the proposal from its meeting in May so that the applicant could meet with residents and develop more plans, which were then acted on by the commission. The commission voted 8-1 in favor of the proposal with Tom Perry voting against the measure.

Bowen said the revised proposal would be more compatible with the surrounding environment. He had been critical of the project at its May meeting. Other commission members agreed.

At issue to some was what would happen if the applicant chose to develop the property based on its existing zoning classification. City Planning Services staff, which had recommended approval, said the property could be developed for commercial retail, personal services, vehicle sales, restaurants and bars, and apartments with limited commercial use among the eligible activities.

The proposal includes reconstruction of the existing building into an eight-unit apartment complex as the first phase and duplexes later on. The application permit states the building would be finished by October. The applicant would have to come back before the commission if there were any changes to be made and the duplexes could be constructed in subsequent years.

Mark Lyons, a principal planner with the city, said the department's support for the project as having a low-detrimental impact on the neighborhood was based on parcel size and density, which he said was nine units per acre and similar to single-family density in the area.

The project requires a base standard modification because only a four-unit apartment building is allowed under present zoning codes. The duplexes require the conditional use permit. A specific implementation plan would also have to be approved by the Plan Commission and Common Council before development could begin.

Six residents testified that they did not believe the proposal matches the neighborhood environment and objected to approving the proposal as submitted.

Robert Mackey, 122 W. 17th St., said the building is 66 years old and does not match the character of the neighborhood, and questioned whether there were ever any residents in the building other than it being a tavern.

In other action, the Plan Commission unanimously recommended approval of a final plat for creation of a 24-lot, single-family subdivision at the north 3300 block of West 9th Avenue, known as Pickart Estates Phase 1.

Elsa needs fresh start

Elsa's first meet-and-greet with potential adopters was held Saturday at the Oshkosh Area Humane Society, and two applications by people wanting to give her a new home are being considered. Elsa was brought to the shelter after being found injured and bleeding the day after a car-train accident in the city that claimed the lives of two people in December. She sustained multiple pelvic fractures. With support from the community she was able to get the orthopedic surgery she needed and has been undergoing therapy to regain mobility and strength, which cleared her for adoption. "Elsa has been the sweetest girl throughout everything. She just loves everyone. Dogs, cats, kids, everyone. Any family would be lucky to have her," said OAHHS Executive Director Joni Geiger.

Calls to Omro and Winneconne now local: Oshkosh residents will be able to receive and place telephone calls to Omro and Winneconne at local rates effective Thursday, June 10, it was announced by the Wisconsin Telephone Company. Addition of the two communities to Oshkosh's local calling area will eliminate long-distance charges on such calls on and after that date.

When this arrangement, known as "extended area service" becomes effective, telephone users in Oshkosh will be able to reach another 1,500 numbers in Omro and Winneconne without long-distance charges. To reach a telephone in either Omro or Winneconne after the expanded service arrangement goes into effect, an Oshkosh telephone user will ask the operator for the community wanted. The call will be routed to a second operator handling special circuits to Omro and Winneconne. The caller will tell the second operator the community and telephone number desired. The second operator will route the call to its destination.

People of the Waters exhibition honored

The Oshkosh Public Museum is the recipient of an Award of Merit by the American Association for State and Local History for its People of the Waters exhibition.

People of the Waters explores prehistoric and early life in this region that spans 13,000 years. The key storyline and interpretive elements of this permanent exhibition focuses on the study of the Ice Age, Native American cultures and the impact of the fur trade.

"People of the Waters is a huge draw to all K-12 students, educators and researchers," said Brad Larson, museum director. "Essentially, this innovative exhibition will appeal to anyone who is interested in discovering more about the region's cultural history and understanding how past events shape our lives."

The AASLH Leadership in History Awards, now in its 73rd year, is the most prestigious recognition for preservation and interpretation of state and local history.

Major exhibitions are evaluated by committees of professionals and judged against similar projects submitted by museums across the nation.

People of the Waters came about through the museum and city's strategic planning process. The decision to create the exhibition was strongly based on input and ideas from residents and teachers. Four years in the making, design and interpretive techniques and fabrication were done by Split Rock Studios.

People of the Waters features interactive media kiosks, a full-sized longhouse, a web-based interactive game on the fur trade, a walk-over archaeological excavation, and more than 1,000 artifacts from the museum's collection.

Rent Smart workshop set

The Winnebago County UW-Extension office runs a free Rent Smart program that will have a two-day workshop from 9 to 11:30 a.m. July 5 and 12 at the J.P. Coughlin Center.

The program provides practical education to help people find, get and keep suitable housing. Rent Smart sessions cover tenant and landlord rights and responsibilities, things to think about when looking for a place to live, how to read a lease, how to complete a rental inspection and a check-in/check-out form, and strategies to get a security deposit back at the end of a lease.

Schools offer free summer meals

The Oshkosh Area School District offers a free food program to children and teens during the summer months. No registration or application is needed; children 18 years old and younger can show up at participating locations during the designated times and eat on site.

The meals are similar to the nutritious school breakfasts and lunches offered in Oshkosh public schools during the regular school year. The link for locations and times: <http://bit.ly/2tc15KK> feeds thousands of children throughout the summer. Additional summer meal programs are also available throughout the state. If you need help finding a site, call 211 or text 'food' to 877-877.

The Summer Food Service Program

The program is funded by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and administered by the state Department of Public Instruction. People over 18 years of age who are determined to be mentally or physically disabled and also participate in a public or private nonprofit school program during the school year may receive free meals as well.

RAF Mustang auction to aid EAA education programs

From EAA

Ford Motor Co. is supporting EAA's youth aviation education programs by auctioning a one-of-a-kind vehicle that salutes an aviation legend as the RAF Eagle Squadron Ford Mustang GT is unveiled at EAA AirVenture Oshkosh.

The vehicle, specially designed and built by Ford engineers as well as drifting champion Vaughn Gittin Jr. and his RTR Vehicles group, will be up for bid during EAA's biggest fundraiser, The Gathering, July 26.

More information on the bidding process is available at Gathering@EAA.org or 920-426-6573.

The Eagle Squadron Mustang GT features a 700-horsepower 5.0-liter Ford V8 topped with a Ford Performance supercharger, an RTR carbon fiber wide-body kit and a tactical performance suspension package. The vehicle is inspired by the British Spitfire fighter planes that flew over the fields of Goodwood nearly 80 years ago. The Eagle Squadron included American volunteer fighter pilots before the United States' entry into the war.

After the car is completed in early July, it will make its first appearance at the Goodwood Festival of Speed in the United Kingdom on July 12.

After that appearance, the car will have its unveiling at AirVenture.

The high bidder for the vehicle will also receive an all-inclusive package for two to attend the 2018 Ford Woodward Dream Cruise in Detroit in August.

Innovations Day programs set July 24

From EAA

The cutting-edge technology and products that will drive general aviation's next generation come together at EAA AirVenture on July 24 with a full Innovations Day of programming and events on the AirVenture grounds during the 66th annual convention July 23-29 at Wittman Regional Airport.

The daylong series brings together the brightest minds in aviation innovation. Topics include electric and hybrid technology, artificial intelligence in the cockpit, future avionics and uses of unmanned aircraft. The day concludes with An Evening With Innovators program at Theater in the Woods, featuring the annual Founder's Innovation Prize judging and program. Aviation Gateway Park also has more than 20 new exhibitors demonstrating technology throughout the week.

"EAA members thrive on the 'what's next' - the new technology and innovations in general aviation," said Dave Chaimson, EAA vice president of marketing and business development.

"Many of the innovations seen at Oshkosh over the past five decades are now commonplace in aviation. There's no place better than Oshkosh, and its connection with the community's leading manufacturers and service providers, to provide world-class educational experiences to engage in aviation's future."

Innovation highlights

9 a.m.-noon: Lindbergh Innovation Forum, Aviation Gateway Park Forum Tent — Entrepreneurs, inventors and trailblazers involved in breakthrough work participate in presentations and panel discussions on technology shaping the aviation environment. Those scheduled to participate include representatives of Uber Elevate, Boeing, Insitu, Ampaire and Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University.

1-2 p.m.: Innovation Trends in GA Avionics Executive Roundtable, Aviation Gateway Park Forum Tent — This panel of GA founders and CEOs from the avionics industry will focus on ADS-B, open-source development and GA/UAV crossover technology.

8 p.m.: An Evening With Innovators featuring the Founder's Innovation Prize, Theater in the Woods — The third year of this competition, presented by Airbus, highlights the top five 2018 entries in a "Shark Tank"-style format, where judges from the aviation and aerospace world review the best ideas to lower the loss-of-control accident rate in general aviation. The winner receives a cash prize of $25,000, with additional cash prizes for second and third place.

Lynch, Maddie & Tae headline AirVenture's opening concert

From EAA

EAA AirVenture will have twice the star power for its traditional opening-night concert as country music stars Dustin Lynch and Maddie & Tae kick off the World's Greatest Aviation Celebration with a post-air show concert July 23.

The 66th annual Experimental Aircraft Association fly-in convention is July 23-29 at Wittman Regional Airport. The opening-night concert is included with all admissions.

In prior years, performers ranging from the Beach Boys to Dierks Bentley have provided the opening-night entertainment on Boeing Plaza. This year's concert begins with Maddie & Tae at 6 p.m., followed by Lynch at 7:15.

"We've had legendary performers at our opening-night concert in past years, and even some that have brought opening acts, but we've never had two current hit-makers here on the same night to open our week of aviation excitement and fun," said Rick Larsen, vice president of communities and member programs, who coordinates AirVenture features and attractions.

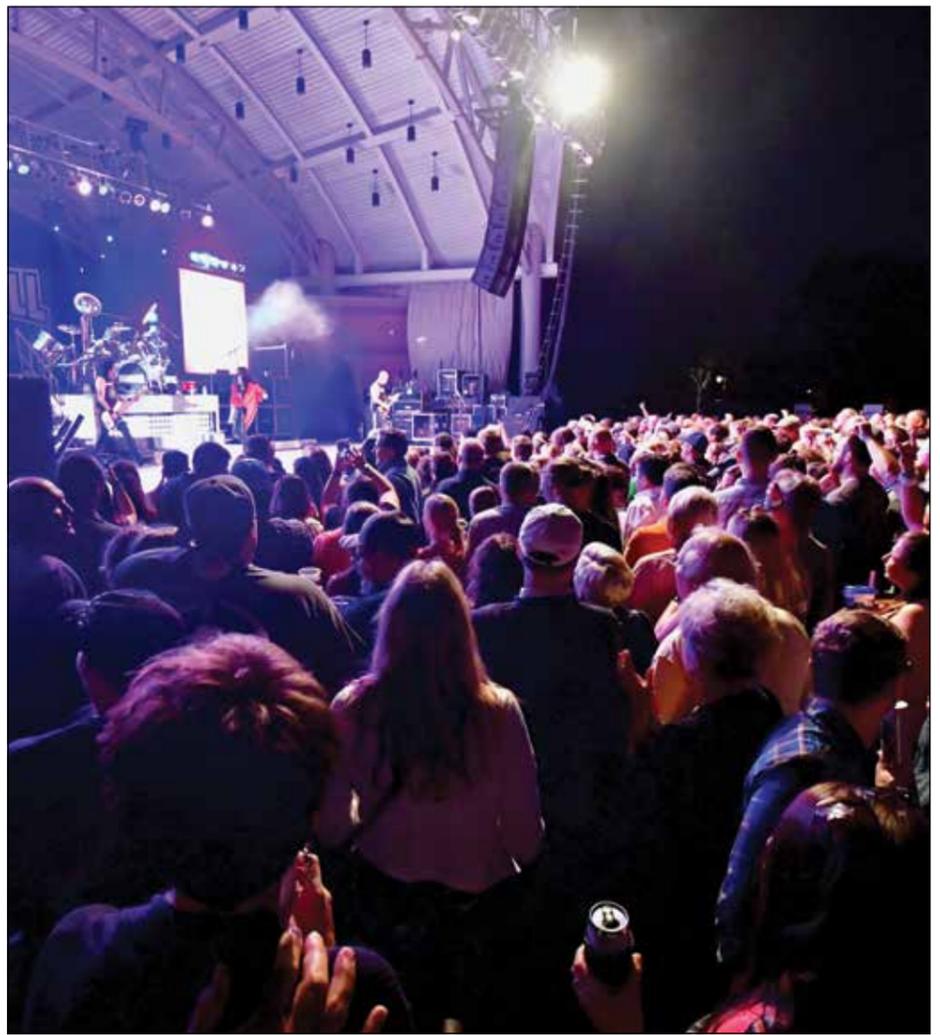

Lynch, a native of Tullahoma, Tenn., and home of EAA Chapter 458, has had five No. 1 singles. His song "Cowboys and Angels" was nominated for Single of the Year, while No. 1 song "Small Town Boy" earned Lynch his first Billboard Music Awards nomination for top country song. His latest album, "Current Mood," debuted at No. 2 on the Billboard Country chart in September.

Maddie (Madison Marlow) & Tae (Taylor Dye) met as aspiring singers in Dallas. Since 2014, the two have earned a No. 1 single – "Girl in a Country Song" – and a platinum album titled "Start Here." They have also been nominated for awards from the Academy of Country Music and the Country Music Association. In 2017, the duo was named to the Forbes Magazine 30 Under 30 list.

Community service awards presented to Kohn, Butts

The Oshkosh Chamber of Commerce Leadership Oshkosh program awarded Melissa Kohn, director at Fox Valley Technical College and a 2007 alumna from Leadership Oshkosh, with the Leadership Oshkosh Service Award.

Kohn has served on the Leadership Oshkosh Executive Committee and Education Planning Committee since her graduation from the program. In addition, she has served on the United Way board and on many nonprofit boards.

Marcus Butts, a graduate of the Leadership Oshkosh class of 2005, was given the Ed Williams Leadership in Action award for his service involvement within the community. He has been a Southwest Rotary member since 1999 and had served as president. He also has been a chamber ambassador for more than 16 years and recognized as Ambassador of the Year in 2004. He has a passion for working with youth and meets weekly at Roosevelt reading to kindergartners as part of the Rotary PAL program.

Lewis joins Madison police

Jennifer Lewis, an Oshkosh native and graduate of Oshkosh North High School, is a new member of the Madison Police Department after her recent graduation from the department's Training Academy.

She will be assigned the North District of Madison. Lewis is the daughter of Ronald and Teresa Lewis of Oshkosh.

Longtime Major League umpire Rennert dies at 88

Dutch Rennert, one of the most famous Major League umpires of all time and known for his charismatic strike calls, died June 17 at age 88.

Rennert, who was born and raised in Oshkosh, was known for his strike calls. He would take a step back, turn to his right and angle himself toward the dugout and get on one knee to yell "strike" so loudly it would be impossible not to hear him.

Rennert called more than 2,600 games – six National League Championship Series, three World Series and two All-Star games – in his 20-year career before retiring in 1992.

The longtime umpire graduated from Oshkosh High School and played semi-pro football with the Oshkosh Comets and on the semi-pro baseball team in Oshkosh. He graduated from the Al Somers Umpire School in Florida.

Grandparents University set at UWO

Grandparents University, a summer academy for youth ages 8 to 12 and their grandparents, is being offered July 12 and 13 at the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh. The young students participate in learning experiences that include aviation, art, science and animals.

The summer program originated at UW-Madison but will be at UW-Oshkosh for the second year. Offerings include:

Amazing Aviators: The Fox Valley Technical College Spanbauer Aviation and Industrial Center offers a program on learning about careers as pilots, airframe and powerplant mechanics, and aircraft electronic technicians.

Awesome Artists: Transform various materials into works of art. Learn how professional artists install and show their artwork, and have an art piece exhibited in the Gail F. Steinhilber Gallery in Reeve Union.

Spectacular Scientists: Follow a cheeseburger as it journeys through the digestive system, learn about different bacteria and viruses, and discover how animals have adapted to the world.

Participants have the option to stay on campus in the newest residence hall, Horizon Village. Dining will be at Blackhawk Commons.

For more information, contact conted@uwosh.edu or call 920-424-1129.

Friendly visitor

Sister Roselyn Nichols greets a camel that visited Franciscan Courts' annual picnic from Glacier Ridge Animal Farm on June 19. Nichols was noted for her longtime and courageous work in the Dominican Republic. The retirement convent for the Sisters of the Sorrowful Mother on South Westhaven Drive holds the event for its 35 residents along with staff, and Sister Sharon Rollings was credited for helping fund this year's event.

Motorcycle passenger killed in State 21 crash

A car-motorcycle crash Sunday morning at State 21 and County FF/Reighmoor Road in the Town of Omro claimed the life of a 47-year-old Lyndon Station woman and seriously injured her husband.

According to the Winnebago County Sheriff's Office, a car driven by Darlene Erickson, 73, of Oshkosh, was stopped eastbound on State 21 and preparing to turn north onto Reighmoor when a vehicle driven by Holly Nowak, 42, of Oshkosh, struck Erickson's car while attempting to drive around it. The impact pushed Erickson's car into the oncoming westbound lane of 21 and into the path of a motorcycle operated by Billy Luke, 48, Lyndon Station.

Luke and his passenger, Justine Luke, 47, were ejected from the motorcycle. Billy Luke sustained serious injuries and his wife, Justine, was pronounced dead at the scene.

Police said Erickson and Nowak were treated for minor injuries and released. The intersection was closed for five hours. Assisting Winnebago County were the Omro Rushford Fire Department, Oshkosh Fire Department, Omro Police Department and Wisconsin State Patrol.

Area employment in top half of state metro regions

The jobless rate for the Oshkosh-Neenah Metropolitan Statistical Area (MSA) was 2.4 percent in April, down 0.3 percent from April 2017, according to a report from the Greater Oshkosh Economic Development Corp. using data from the state Department of Workforce Development and Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Wisconsin had an unemployment rate of 2.7 percent while the nation's jobless rate was 3.7 percent. The Oshkosh-Neenah MSA had the fifth lowest unemployment rate among the 12 MSAs in Wisconsin, behind Madison, Sheboygan, La Crosse-Onalaska and Fond du Lac.

Total employment in the Oshkosh-Neenah area increased 1 percent in April compared with April 2017, from 91,488 to 92,377, ranking sixth highest in the state. The number of unemployed fell from 2,554 to 2,226, a 12.8 percent decrease, ranking fifth lowest.

From April 2017 to April 2018, average hourly earnings in the region increased from $22.12 to $22.91, or 3.6 percent. Average weekly earnings increased from $754.29 to $801.85, a 6.3 percent increase.

Community service, parking officers welcomed

The Oshkosh Police Department welcomed new community service officer Hnia Thao and parking control officer Trevor Manthei earlier this month.

Thao is an Oshkosh North graduate and is studying criminal justice at the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh. He had been serving as a community service officer for the UW-Oshkosh Police Department.

Manthei is a graduate of Berlin High School and resides in Oshkosh. He has completed the truck and bus driving program at Fox Valley Technical College and was a driver for Hallcon.

Retired officer Mike Kirby was recently presented with a retirement shadow box during a Police and Fire Commission meeting. Kirby was recognized and thanked for his 37 years of service and dedication to the department and community.

Battle on Bago walleye tourney winners named

The fishing team of Shawn Kabut and Brett Walser took first place and $20,000 at the Otter Street Fishing Club's Battle on Bago Walleye Tournament on June 16 and 17.

The pair's two-day weight total was just over 45 pounds. Hunter and Gary Will took second-place honors with a total walleye weight of 34.1 pounds.

The live release event based at Menominee Park sets boundaries at the shores of Lake Winnebago and the Upper Lake systems including Lake Butte des Morts, Lake Winneconne, Lake Poygan, Fox River bridge at Omro and Wolf River bridge at Fremont up to the first dam in Neenah and Menasha.

Scott Engel, club president, presented past tournament director Jim Gibson with the 2018 Otter Street Dedication Award.

Giants swept in doubleheader

The Oshkosh Giants fell to 3-9 on the season after being swept Sunday, falling 11-1 and 11-0 against first-place Lombard.

In the first game, the Giants were held to four hits - getting their run in the third inning. Lombard scored in all four of the innings before the game was called after five. The Orioles scored six runs in the second inning.

Luke Gajewski had two of the Giants' four hits.

In the second game, Oshkosh was one-hit as Lombard scored all of its runs in the first inning as they pounded out 14 hits in the lopsided game.
