Wheel tax gets panel approval

Vehicle fee in city would replace street assessments

By Tom Ekvall
HERALD CONTRIBUTOR

The city's Long Range Finance Committee is recommending a vehicle registration fee or "wheel tax" of $30 per vehicle be implemented next year that would eliminate residents paying for street reconstruction costs as part of special assessments.

The committee spent more than an hour discussing whether to recommend a wheel tax to the Common Council with concerns over the equity of the situation. The committee is only advisory and does not make policy decisions.

Public Works Director Jim Rabe said he anticipates street paving costs will go up by more than $1 million in the future.

The recommendation would affect residential property owners and exclude institutions and businesses, which if included would result in a higher fee. The proposal would not reduce special assessments already charged for previous projects. Those benefiting would be Residential 1 and Residential 2 property owners as defined in the city's special assessment ordinance.

The city is allowed to request a Vehicle Registration Fee be charged only for transportation-related activities under state law. Vehicles over 8,000 pounds are exempt from the added fee.

City officials noted that property own-

Downtown mural depicts harmony for community

It's called a "collage of musical instruments."

Leif Larson, a professional mural artist, has been spending the last week creating an artwork on the New Moon Cafe's outside wall at 401 N. Main St. as a celebration of music in the city.

Larson is a musician himself who plays with cafe owner Aaron Baer in a band known as the Dr. Kickbutts Orchestra.

"The mural is meant to be fun, joyful and celebratory," he said while painting away on the massive canvas.

His mural is the first authorized under a city ordinance approved last month. The Downtown Oshkosh Business Improvement District Board voted to contribute $1,000 toward the painting. The board plans to award grants for up to five other mural projects next year.

The mural features a guitar, banjo, piano, cymbal, drums, saxophone and other instruments with "Oshkosh" at the top.

Larson has been painting murals since 2009 and majored in fine arts with a painting emphasis at the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh.

He said one mural he did several years ago had to be taken down because of problems with the paint adhering to the building surface, one of the challenges that outdoor artists have to consider.

Larson said he spent several months planning the mural painting event and wanted to do something that would be appropriate to the downtown area.

'Gang Green' turns passion to school zone safety

Packers superfan Wagner knows all the right signs

By Tim Froberg
HERALD CONTRIBUTOR

Green Wagner has never been shy about expressing himself in a colorful, flamboyant manner.

The Oshkosh resident is best known for his days as Green Bay Packers' superfan "Gang Green."

Wagner doesn't reprise that zany character much anymore, but he continues to attract attention in a public and positive way.

This time his message isn't "Go Pack Go."

It's "SLOW DOWN!"

Wagner can be seen on most weekdays at various school sites in Oshkosh, roaming the grounds with a sandwich board with a message that implores drivers to lower their speed. Instead of wearing a green fright wig, cape and face paint, Wagner keeps it simple but remains highly visible. He shows up for his self-appointed duties decked out in a color that can be seen for miles: blaze orange.

His hat, shirt, gloves and sign all bear the safety color. If it's moving and colored orange in an Oshkosh school district, it's probably the 67-year-old Wagner, a retired welder and 1970 Omro High School graduate.

"Once you see me, you won't forget me," said Wagner with a chuckle. "I'm very recognizable and have a recognizable sign. If you can't see me or read my sign, then you shouldn't be driving."

Wagner has been doing this type of voluntary work the past two years. No one has asked him to do it. He just wants to help the Oshkosh community and its children.

"I'm just trying to help the kids," said Wagner. "I'm trying to be a reminder to slow down. I feel like I help out the crossing guards. It does help. It's not like I'm giving out tickets or anything. This is a very important matter. Nobody wants to hit anyone. If people holler at me, I just say 'slow down' real loud. I don't use vulgarity or anything like that. If people don't like it, I don't care, but they do slow down."

Area law enforcement officials appreciate Wagner's efforts. He was presented a citizen award from the Oshkosh Police Department in 2017 for his work in slowing traffic in city school zones.

"There's nothing wrong with what I do," said Wagner. "If I have a chance to help the kids, I'm going to step up and do it."

This isn't the first time that Wagner has volunteered his time and energy for a worthy cause. He twice walked the 52 miles from Oshkosh to Green Bay to raise money for the Humane Society and Christine Ann Center.

Between his Gang Green days and his current school safety efforts, Wagner employed his promotional talents as the Sign

Loose leaf collections to start Monday in city

Starting Monday, the city's primary day for loose leaf collection will be the day after residents' regularly scheduled garbage collection, it was announced in an update to the schedule. For residents whose garbage is collected on Friday, loose leaf collection is Monday.

The pickup schedule runs through Nov. 16 and includes leaves only — no grass, brush or garden plants. Leaves should be piled loosely on the terrace, not in the street, for collection no later than 7 a.m. on the day after the garbage collection day.

For properties without terraces, leaves should be raked as far out to the street without going into the curb line or street, or obstructing the sidewalk. Leaf collection may be delayed or rescheduled due to high volume of leaves or adverse weather conditions, and may end at any time due to weather or equipment issues.

Aerobatic champion breaks record with 8th title

Rob Holland was named U.S. National Aerobatic champion for the eighth consecutive year at the 2018 U.S. National Aerobatic Championships that concluded Sept. 28 at Wittman Regional Airport.

Holland's win breaks the tie with Leo Loudenslager for the most consecutive national titles. Twelve pilots competed in the unlimited category and the Nashua, N.H., native recorded the best score in all three of the unlimited categories — known, unknown and free — and had the best score in the four-minute free category.

Across the unlimited, advanced, intermediate, sportsman and primary categories, 76 pilots competed in Oshkosh for the second straight year.

UW-Oshkosh adopts new fan screening procedures

The University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh athletics and police departments will implement enhanced security standards at Titan home football games starting this weekend.

These procedures, which include a bag check process serving as the primary method of fan screening, will be introduced at UW-Oshkosh's football game against UW-Platteville on Saturday. To aid in the process, UW-Oshkosh Athletics will provide the first 200 attendees with a complimentary clear tote bag.

"We want to make sure fans are safe and comfortable at our football games. That is our No. 1 priority," said Lt. Trent Martin of the UW-Oshkosh Police Department.

UW-Oshkosh's other home football games are against UW-La Crosse on Oct. 20 and UW-Stout on Nov. 10.

A list of what fans will not be permitted to bring into the stadium and things to keep in mind before they arrive can be found at www.uwoshkoshtitans.com/news.

North Main Street closure to extend for 10 weeks

North Main Street from Libbey Avenue to West Packer Avenue closed this week for utility construction for up to 10 weeks.

The existing storm sewer in that area is being replaced with larger pipes that will drain the new detention basins. Portions of sanitary sewer and water main will also be relayed to accommodate the larger storm sewer.

Property owners within the affected section will be notified and their driveways will continue to be accessible during construction. Signs have been posted notifying motorists of the road closure. The city urges motorists to plan alternate routes and expect delays due to the closure.

Community Foundation presents annual awards

The Oshkosh Area Community Foundation celebrated its 90th anniversary at The Howard with more than 300 guests Sept. 27 where its Good Samaritan Award was presented posthumously to Ted Leyhe, a former executive with the Miles Kimball Co.

Jerry Stadtmueller, president of the John E. Kuenzl Foundation, presented the Good Samaritan Award for Leyhe to his son John on behalf of his father. Stadtmueller said that Leyhe was the primary driver on many meaningful projects dealing with economic development and helped fund many startup businesses.

Two Partners in Philanthropy awards were also given posthumously to Marilyn Potter, a donor and supporter of the foundation for many decades including the Paine Art Center and Gardens, and to Kurt and Judie Koeppler.

Peter Lang, foundation board president, presented the award to Samantha Tenicki Hole, Potter's granddaughter. The Koepplers were cited for understanding the importance of giving and passing that philosophy down through their family, supporting many organizations and projects.

Asylum Point cleanup draws volunteers

About 25 volunteers from the Oshkosh area came out to Asylum Point Park to clean up the site Sept. 29.

The mini cleanup was coordinated by the Fox-Wolf Watershed Alliance, which manages the annual Fox-Wolf Watershed Cleanup, a large-scale volunteer effort at more than 50 sites every spring.

Volunteers of all ages braved chilly temperatures and went through the island, shoreline, roadway, ditches and parking lots, picking up 31 bags of trash. This location was cleaned up in May, so much of the garbage had accumulated in just a few months' time.

Volunteers interested in helping with future cleanups are asked to visit www.FWWA.org and like the Facebook page.

Congress passes FAA budget with gains for general aviation

From EAA

A Federal Aviation Administration reauthorization bill passed by Congress last week includes provisions that Experimental Aircraft Association officials said will support and encourage general aviation.

The legislation sent to the White House on Oct. 3 for expected signing authorizes FAA programs and revenue collection for the next five years.

The EAA and other organizations had worked to ensure provisions that supported and encouraged general aviation were included in the bill. One of the most important was keeping any air traffic controller privatization or user fee language out of the bill, which EAA chief executive and chairman Jack J. Pelton said was because of a "strong coalition of all of the (general aviation) stakeholders" and EAA members who made their voices heard and "got the facts on the table with regards to privatization and its impact on general aviation."

The extensive bill included positives for general and recreational aviation in such areas as aircraft certification reform, noncommercial flight operations review, general aviation airport funding and designated pilot examiner reform.

"The major victory is that the FAA will now be able to plan for five years and we will not have the difficult uncertainty of continuing resolutions and extensions," Pelton said. "We appreciate the leadership of lawmakers who saw the importance of this measure and worked against a difficult deadline to get it done in a bipartisan manner."

Former Pioneer site still seeking developers

From the Oshkosh Examiner

After contacting 70 groups about how to develop a 2.5-acre parcel in the Sawdust District, the city came up dry in a "request for proposals" process that ended Oct. 2.

"We did not receive any proposals," said Kelly Nieforth, the city's economic development manager. City staff met with at least six developers, but in the end no one came forward with a specific plan.

The city had been hoping for a "creative and aesthetically pleasing commercial, office or mixed-use project" for the site at 43 E. 7th Ave. The property sits south of Pioneer Drive with a view of the Fox River.

Projects like Eagle Flats in Appleton, One Menasha Center and the Plexus building in Neenah were what city officials had in mind.

"There are likely multiple reasons for the lack of response," said City Manager Mark Rohloff. "The uncertainty of the Pioneer Inn property and the CN Railroad right-of-way along Pioneer Drive were certainly contributing factors."

The parcel is owned by the city's Redevelopment Authority. This entity has been acquiring land on the south shore as part of a "land banking" process, Kleman said.

"I don't really view it as a negative or a positive" that there were no concrete proposals, said Jason White, the CEO of Greater Oshkosh Economic Development Corp. "It was just a tiptoe in the water."

Another factor he cited is the current state of the planning process for the Sawdust District, which is still a work in progress. Since there isn't an approved plan, there is a degree of uncertainty that could cause a developer to hesitate, he said.

"The city has been diligently working through that" planning process, White said. But "if I'm the private sector, I want to see how that plays out, to see if anything I imagine would be consistent with the city's plans."

The lack of offers is "no huge concern," he said.

Nieforth confirmed that the next step is to go back to the Sawdust District planning process. "We'll definitely be looking at that and trying to figure out a way to attract developers to the area," she said.

The current tenant, Advanced Military Packaging, is expected to terminate its lease at the end of October, the city said.

Boating safety award goes to Snyder

Dick Snyder of Oshkosh became the first recipient of the National Association of State Boating Law Administrators (NASBLA) L. Daniel Maxim Award for Distinguished Service at a September ceremony. The award recognizes individuals who contribute to the application of research, analysis and scientific method in the boating industry.

Snyder was a design engineer for Mercury Marine beginning in 1959 and over a 40-year period had leadership roles as chief engineer for hydrodynamics, director of racing and high-performance products, principal engineer for product evaluation and director of product safety engineering.

Snyder's extensive experience in boat performance and propulsion proved him well equipped to contribute to many aspects of NASBLA's work including its boating accident investigation courses. He helped in the formation of the NASBLA's Engineering, Report and Analysis Committee and U.S. Coast Guard's project to create accident report terminology and definitions, among other safety initiatives.

The late Leslie Daniel Maxim served in key leadership roles in the recreational boating community and as chairman of the National Boating Safety Advisory Council.

Rental inspection procedure weighed

By Tom Ekvall
HERALD CONTRIBUTOR

A brief history of the city's efforts to upgrade the quality of rental housing in the city was presented by Community Development Director Allen Davis at a public hearing on the city's rental housing inspection program.

The Oct. 2 session was attended by more than 25 residents including neighborhood associations, tenants, landlords and others, and conducted by the city's Rental Housing Advisory Board to gain input before making recommendations to the Common Council. The committee will designate the geographic area for the rental inspections as well as any provisions for making the inspections in its report to the council.

Davis said the inspections could be done in noncontiguous areas that are subject to blight. He said the city has a record of 3,695 properties involving 11,398 units registered with the city, adding there are many more who have not registered their properties. The free registration process provides a record of ownership information and people to contact.

However, one landlord noted that under the city's proposed program only the tenant receives the inspection notice, not the landlord. A tenant must give permission for a housing inspector to enter the property.

Davis described several options available for recommendation. The first is a complaint-only inspection involving interior and exterior conditions, which is the present plan in place. This inspection is not neighborhood-wide and inspection costs are recovered only if code violations are found and not corrected within 30 days.

The second option is to perform rental housing inspections approved by the tenant within a designated Neighborhood Stabilization and Enhancement District, which the city would have to name. There would be no exterior-only inspections, Davis said, and fees would be based on state statutes. He estimated the cost of the program to be $50,000 for the year.

Properties would be initially inspected once every five years, according to Davis, and violations found would bring re-inspections for the next two years before returning to the five-year cycle.

Davis said inspections deal with life, safety and habitability aspects of the building and do not cover areas such as whether a stove or refrigerator works.

A third option would involve exterior inspections of all properties similar to the city's Gateways program, which would include homeowners, and commercial and rental properties. The Gateways program covers Jackson Street, Oregon Street, South Park Avenue and 9th Avenue among others and looks for long grass, junk, debris and parked vehicles on grass. Inspections would use the city's Property Maintenance Code and the Nuisance Code.

Davis said the city is asking the public to comment on which of the three proposed solutions to implement through the Polco online survey service.

One tenant making an appearance said the property she lives in needs repairs but fears filing a complaint due to potential landlord retaliation, even though such retaliation is not allowed.

"Where do I go with my dog and cat?" she asked, adding that rental costs are generally higher in Oshkosh than they are in Fond du Lac.

Mayor Steve Cummings said the rental housing problem is not an Oshkosh-only situation but affects all state communities. The city is being required to revise its process under the recent Act 317 bill passed by the state Legislature.

"It is the emotional attachment we have to the stuff." She said for items to be valuable, they need to be well cared for, and have beauty and function as well as value to collectors.

Private school academy gains zoning to proceed

By Tom Ekvall
HERALD CONTRIBUTOR

Plans for an innovative private school known as Acton Academy received a green light from the city's Plan Commission, which unanimously recommended approval of a zoning change for the property at 3485 Lake Butte Des Morts Drive.

School founder Carey Sharpe provided Plan Commission members Oct. 2 with a generalized concept plan to establish the allowed use for the property. She said the school will break down classes by age ranges and focus on project-based activities with individualized curriculums.

Sharpe, co-owner of The Howard, said buildings would probably start being constructed in late 2019 or early 2020. The site will eventually include five buildings, each dedicated to a specific group such as early elementary, elementary, middle and high school. She said the initial buildings would target the earlier grade levels. Class size would be between 30 and 40 with overall attendance at 120 to 160 students.

Sharpe said the buildings would be of a "high-end" nature, noting work done with The Howard at the former Eagles Club.

The developers will need to submit a specific implementation plan to the commission and Common Council before construction can start. The council must approve the zoning change to neighborhood mixed use with a planned development overlay before the land would be purchased for the school, which would not be part of the Oshkosh Area School District.

In other action, the commission met in a workshop session to review plans for redevelopment of the west side of South Main Street between 9th and 10th avenues. Bruce Karnitz, owner of Titan Property Management, said he is interested in purchasing additional land on the block that would give him control of those properties. Karnitz said he is interested in converting the existing buildings, some of them in need of major repairs, into mixed-use residential units with five units on the first floor and 17 on the second.

He said the first-floor units could be occupied by people seeking a combination living unit and office space, such as an attorney, insurance agent or real estate agent.

The properties may be eligible for historic tax credits.

Students make gains in English, math, science

The Oshkosh Area School District has made steady gains in the English language arts (ELA) and continues to perform above the state average in mathematics and science, according to results from the latest Wisconsin Forward Exam, ACT, and Dynamic Learning Maps (DLM).

The state Department of Public Instruction released the computer-based assessments administered to students during the spring as an indicator of their college and career readiness.

Overall statewide results held steady on exams given during the 2017-18 school year, with some promising gains in mathematics achievement across most grade levels. Overall, the state's public and private choice school students had a composite score of 19.7 on a scale of one to 36, down three-tenths of a point from 2016-17.

The Wisconsin Forward Exam tests elementary and middle school students in ELA, mathematics, science and social studies and gauges how well students are doing in relation to the Wisconsin Academic Standards, more specifically what students should know and be able to do in the classroom to be college and career ready.

The district had 4,095 students assessed on the Forward Exam and DLM in grades three through eight. Among those students, 40.6 percent were proficient or advanced in ELA compared with 42.4 percent at the state level. In mathematics, 45.6 percent of district students were proficient or advanced, compared with 43.8 percent statewide. In science, 50.2 percent of district students were proficient or advanced, compared with 49.9 percent statewide.

The ACT tests students in grade 11 in ELA, mathematics and science. In the district, 702 students in grade 11 took the ACT. The average ACT composite score was 19.6, compared with the 19.8 state average. Students received their ACT score reports three to eight weeks after testing and had the choice to send their scores to up to four colleges or universities at no cost.

The DLM is an alternate assessment for students in grades three through 11 with severe cognitive disabilities in ELA, mathematics, science and social studies. The online assessment allows students to demonstrate their knowledge and skills as they relate to the Wisconsin Essential Elements.

District officials said they are committed to raising achievement scores while using a multifaceted and strategic approach.

"State testing results are a starting point for future improvement," said Julie Conrad, OASD director of curriculum and assessment. "The Oshkosh Area School District uses Wisconsin Student Assessment System data, local assessment data, and classroom data to continue guiding classroom instruction and school improvement planning. However, we understand that students are more than numbers and data points and we strive every day to help students reach their potential and become college, career and community ready."

The release can be viewed at <https://dpi.wi.gov>. Access to the latest data and resources for interpreting the assessment data is on the WISEDash public portal website. For more information, visit <https://wisedash.dpi.wi.gov>.

Morgan House marker highlights history

The 19th century home of John R. Morgan in Oshkosh has received a historical marker, placed by the Winnebago County Historical & Archaeological Society.

The Morgan House, at 234 Church Ave., was built by the lumber baron in 1884. The Queen Anne style home is now the headquarters of the Historical Society and has been renovated to its original state of the late 1800s.

The marker placed to commemorate the residence of one of Oshkosh's earliest industry leaders is the result of a collaborative effort among the Historical Society, city and Oshkosh Landmarks Commission. The marker brandishes a two-sided tablet with one side telling the story of the Morgan House, the other side honoring the Irving-Church Historic District.

Society president Randy Domer praised the effort to formally designate the site.

"Morgan House is one of the best-kept secrets of this city," Domer said. "We want our community to learn and embrace our local history and the historic home of John Morgan is a fine example of what life was like for the successful lumber family during the late 19th century."

According to Domer, the idea to place a historic marker designation at Morgan House came from one of its members.

The home was acquired by Constance Misky in 1940, who operated a cosmetology school and salon. The Historical Society obtained the property in 1987 through purchase and bequest and immediately began extensive efforts to restore original features of the home.

The home is open for tours from June through September on Saturdays. Group tours can be arranged on request during the off-season.

Oshkosh Herald Advertising Works!

My advertisements are seen by my target audience in the Oshkosh Herald.

"Over 100 coupons were returned from our first ad and I've seen continued success of the campaign through more coupons being redeemed through subsequent advertisements.

Oshkosh Herald is read by a majority of the city and is available at no-cost online, so my ads are also seen by people outside my target audience bringing in new clients & customers.

I hear residents speaking highly of the Oshkosh Herald. They are always looking forward to the next issue.

I definitely recommend advertising in the Oshkosh Herald."

Big Brothers, Sisters revamps youth mission

Big Brothers Big Sisters of the Fox Valley Region has unveiled a new look and brand repositioning with a goal of recruiting more diverse volunteers.

"Now, more than ever, the kids in our community need us," said Lindsay Fenlon, executive director for the region. "Our focus is urgent: We know providing kids with a safe, caring adult relationship can be the difference to overcoming adverse childhood experiences. This brand transformation is symbolic of an all-encompassing focus shift for Big Brothers Big Sisters around the nation."

Research and focus groups found the brand was not effectively connecting with younger, prospective mentors or conveying the urgent mission of Big Brothers Big Sisters. The organization is pivoting from messages of the importance of mentoring to messages of the urgent need for adults in the community to step up for children.

The organization said the mission will remain the same, as will the core model of building bridges in communities by connecting one adult with one child. The focus will be on a child's potential and the role of adults in helping children achieve their best possible futures.

"When I first heard the new taglines of empowering, igniting and defending potential, it reinvigorated me in our mission," said Jill Uitenbroek, board president of Big Brothers Big Sisters. "It says we WILL stand up for our youths that need a positive role model in their lives. We WILL be the voice of a child in need."

In the coming year, Big Brothers Big Sisters of the Fox Valley Region will transition and be trained on a new nationwide technology system, and refocus efforts on recruiting local volunteers.

United Way to move headquarters

The Oshkosh Area United Way is leaving its current residence in the Hooper Building for the former firehouse at 21 W. New York Ave.

Al Hartman, chairman of the Oshkosh Area United Way board of directors, said the corporate move is driven by fiscal responsibility.

"We're incredibly grateful to the Hooper community for their support over the last 19 years," Hartman said. "We are fortunate to have an advocate and sponsor who made us an offer we simply could not refuse. We are sad to leave the Hooper building and its community but we look forward to a new location with a new CEO and new staff to lead the Oshkosh Area United Way. We are all committed to achieving our goal of doubling the resources we have to address needs in our community."

The United Way plans to be operational at the new location when its lease begins in January for 1,700 square feet of commercial space. The building had been previously occupied by Blue Door Consulting for 10 years.

"I'm extremely honored to support the Oshkosh Area United Way the best way I can," said Terry Laib, owner of the new building. "The United Way is a perfect fit for a building with such a strong history in Oshkosh."

An open house at the new location is scheduled from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Feb. 11. The Oshkosh Area United Way was established in 1962.

Oshkosh businessman murdered:

Local businessman Larry Smith was gunned down on a rural country road early Sunday morning. Smith, owner of the Smith Ice Cream company of Oshkosh, was returning home from an evening out with his fiancée, Mary Koelbl, when he was shot by one Herbert Erdman of rural Oshkosh. As the incident unfolded, Smith fell to the ground alongside his automobile after Koelbl reported hearing a gunshot. Koelbl went for help and summoned authorities. Smith was transported to Theda Clark Hospital in nearby Neenah where he was pronounced dead on arrival. The manhunt for Erdman concluded two days later when Erdman's body was found in a nearby quarry with a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Apollo 8 legends to speak at Wright Brothers banquet

By Dick Knapinski
EAA COMMUNICATIONS

Frank Borman and Jim Lovell, who 50 years ago captured the world's imagination as two of the first humans to orbit the moon, will recount that mission as special guests at EAA's annual Wright Brothers Memorial Banquet on Dec. 7 at the EAA Aviation Museum.

The evening will be hosted by former NASA space shuttle commander Charlie Precourt.

The banquet is held each December to commemorate the Wright brothers' successful flights at Kitty Hawk, N.C., Dec. 17, 1903, that began the era of manned flight.

Borman commanded the Apollo 8 mission, which lifted off from then-Cape Kennedy, Florida, on Dec. 21, 1968. Lovell was the command module pilot, which included two unforgettable moments: the reading from the Book of Genesis to a worldwide audience on Christmas Eve 1968 and the "Earthrise" photo that marked the first time humans had witnessed the earth rising above another celestial body.

"As the Apollo 8 astronauts are making very few combined personal appearances on this 50th anniversary of their historic mission, we are honored to have them join us as our special guests as we commemorate the anniversary of manned flight," said Jack J. Pelton, EAA chief executive and chairman. "Both of these men are also longtime EAA members and have been active aviators. This event is a perfect place for all of us to commemorate the amazing progress in flight in just little more than a century."

Tickets go on sale beginning at 9 a.m. Thursday at EAA.org/WrightBrothers. All seats are $60 for EAA members and $80 for nonmembers, and include pre-assigned seating for the dinner.

Doors will open at 5 p.m., with a pre-event social hour at 5:30, followed by the dinner and presentation at 6:30.

Green Wagner

Man for a variety of Oshkosh businesses like Jack's Lake Aire Auto Service, restaurants and paint companies, among others, for more than eight years.

Wagner says his days of being Gang Green are behind him, although he has resurrected the character on occasion. Green, who was considered by many as the unofficial Packers mascot-cheerleader, regularly patrolled the stands and parking lot at Lambeau Field and Milwaukee's old County Stadium on game day throughout the late 1970s, '80s and '90s.

While the vast majority of Packers fans loved Gang Green, Green Bay's front office didn't share that sentiment. The organization never welcomed his presence and made efforts to stop him from roaming the stands, claiming he sometimes blocked the views of other spectators.

"I guess I miss it," said Wagner. "It was a fun time. I thought I did well. I tried to behave myself the best I could. I caused no harm or ill feelings and I think everyone enjoyed my act - except for the front office. Nobody's perfect.

Green Wagner is seen with his Packers-themed 1957 Chevy pickup truck during the mid-1990s when he was known as "Gang Green" at Lambeau Field and elsewhere.

"I tried my best. I tried to get the fans to step up and get involved. I had my 15 minutes or more of fame. I had my own TV and radio show. I was the grand marshal in a few parades. I did a fashion show. I was a Halloween contest judge. Those times were pretty exceptional for me. I just tried to be myself."

He may no longer wear the face paint and wig, but Wagner remains Gang Green in his heart. He is still one of the most devoted fans in Packers history - so obsessed with the team that he had his first name legally changed from Robert to Green in the 1990s. He has numerous Packer tattoos and motors around Oshkosh in a 1957 green-and-gold Packers-themed Chevy pickup truck with "No. 1 fan" license plates.

"I'm a Packers fanatic - my wife and family will tell you that," Wagner said. "I wear Packers clothes every day. I have the Packer tattoos. I even have Packers teeth. I've seen the good times and the bad times, the bad times and the good times."

So what does one of the most devout Packer fans on the planet think of the NFL's new roughing the passer penalties? Predictably, he's not a fan of controversial rule changes.

"Oh my God, let the guys play the game," Wagner said. "Everyone has their own opinion, but to me, this is just too much. Let the guys play."

And to fill his time between Sundays, Wagner devotes his energy to making sure Wisconsin's younger Packer fans are safe on school grounds.

"I move around a lot and go to a lot of different schools," said Wagner. "I do this because I believe it's important."

Wheel tax

ers would still need to pay for non-street reconstruction costs such as utility work and driveway access.

If approved by the council, the fee would be added to the cost of license plate renewals with the Wisconsin Department of Motor Vehicles. The state each month remits back to the city the amount collected for registration fees. Appleton, for example, charges a $20 wheel tax fee to cover special assessments costs on road reconstruction projects.

The issue will likely come up again when the council holds a public hearing on the proposed city budget at 5 p.m. Nov. 7. The Finance Committee decided to hold a joint workshop at the end of the hearing to review plans for the wheel tax.

The proposal was supported by Councilman Matt Mugerauer at the committee meeting with Councilman Tom Pech voting "present." Pech said that while people want streets taken care of, many in the city will believe the fee will not benefit them.

City Manager Mark Rohloff said fees collected would reduce the need to cover special assessment costs through a general obligation bond to finance the debt, resulting in fewer funds being borrowed and paid off.

"It will help our borrowing capacity as we will need to borrow less funds," Rohloff said.

There are more than 50,000 vehicles registered in the city, and based on experiences from other cities that number could drop as people claim they are outside city limits.

One resident who lives along Oshkosh Avenue said he bought his home only to discover the next month he was subject to a special assessment, saying the cost would be almost $26,000 if paid off over the 15-year period. He said he had no objection to paying a wheel tax if it meant future residents could save on paying for special assessments.

Other committee members agreed, saying the city has to start somewhere to reduce special assessment costs. The council had discussed the issue two years ago but decided against it based on public comments.

Students learn about manufacturing

Three busloads of students from Oshkosh North, West and Winneconne high schools had the opportunity Friday as part of the Manufacturing Month celebration to learn more about manufacturing careers.

Students were actively engaged in manufacturing tours and hands-on presentations at the Fox Valley Technical College Advanced Manufacturing Technology Center (AMTC), Spanbauer Center and at one of Oshkosh Corp.'s manufacturing facilities. In addition, a Muza Sheet Metal Co. representative presented an overview of working in the industry.

"The students really enjoyed the experience and learned a great deal from actually being able to ride in the Oshkosh Corporation vehicles as well as the chance to see what's inside a manufacturing facility." Said Dan Tsao, a technical education instructor in the Oshkosh Area School District.

First Congregational recital honors longtime organist

To commemorate the 50th anniversary of Joanne Peterson as organist at First Congregational Church in Oshkosh, Nicholas Schmelter will perform a recital at 7 p.m. Oct. 11 on the church's 1911 Casavant pipe organ.

"Nicholas plays a phenomenal organ," Peterson said. "He's selected music that highlights the warm, romantic voicing of this historical organ, one of the finest in the Midwest. The Casavant brothers made this sound like the great organs of Paris in 1900, and that's a sound that can't be beat."

Schmelter is performing George Muesel's Toccata; Leo Sowerby's Carillon and Requiescat in Pace; Lemaigre's Capric-cio; Dvorak's Largo from the New World Symphony; Vierene's Meditation from his Three Improvisations, and J.S. Bach's Sinfonia.

"We asked him to put together an exciting playlist, and he's done that," Peterson said.

Regarded for his creative programming, symphonic use of the organ and virtuosic pedal technique, Schmelter graduated in 2006 with a master of music degree in organ performance from Central Michigan University. He was awarded a graduate fellowship, the Centralis Scholar Award, School of Music Performance Scholarship and Presser Foundation Award.

Schmelter is a frequent recitalist, offering performances throughout Michigan as well as in Washington, D.C., Milwaukee, London and Toronto. He is a member of the American Guild of Organists and has commissioned and premiered new music by Moonyeen Albrecht, Robert Powell, Philip Rice and Bernard Wayne Sanders.

He is director of worship and congregational life at First Presbyterian Church in Caro, Mich.

Two library exhibits bring Wisconsin history to life

With 68,700 farms and 308 farmers markets operating in Wisconsin, chances are most people in the Oshkosh area know someone connected to agriculture. A new exhibit rooted in this heritage of food and farming is on display under the Dome at the Oshkosh Public Library until Oct. 19.

The Lands We Share, a traveling exhibit and community conversation tour, is a collaboration of faculty and students at four University of Wisconsin campuses (UW-Oshkosh, UW-Milwaukee, UW-Madison and UW-Whitewater). The exhibit features the stories, histories, artifacts, images and sounds from five Wisconsin farms and one farmers market — including Allenville Farms in Winnebago County.

"We are hoping to focus people's attention on the complicated history of farming, to get people to understand where food comes from, what it has always taken to produce it — hard work, entrepreneurship, luck, perseverance — and the reality behind who actually performs the labor," said Stephen Kercher, chairman of the history department at UW-Oshkosh. "We want people to never drive down a rural road and pass a barn or farm field and not think for a second about the layers of hidden, forgotten history and the stories of families inscribed in the landscape."

In a separate exhibit, history, news and culture collide with In Their Own Words — German Americans in World War I. The traveling exhibit will be displayed on the library's second floor from Oct. 15 to Nov. 5.

Using resources from the Max Kade Institute for German American Studies, In Their Own Words is a snapshot of German-language documents published in the United States before, during and after World War I. Before the start of the war in 1914, more than 400 newspapers and periodicals in the U.S. were printed for a German American audience. The exhibit highlights the perspectives of German-Americans who eventually found themselves at war with their ancestral homeland.

"The exhibit's objective is to offer a glimpse into German-Americans' views of the world in those changing times, as well as into their position in American society," said Antje Petty, associate director of the Max Kade Institute. The eight interpretive posters in the exhibit will be accompanied by materials from the Winnebago County Historical and Archeological Society, as well as an audio magazine on American and German popular and propaganda songs.

In a related presentation at 6 p.m. Nov. 5, Petty will discuss how German-Americans saw world events and their position in American society during the World War I era.

Fire crew offers smoke detector checks

In recognition of National Fire Prevention Week, the Oshkosh Fire Department is canvassing the neighborhood bordered by South Park Avenue and 16th Avenue and South Main Street and Ohio Street offering to check residences for working smoke detectors.

If the number of smoke detectors in each home is less than ideal or the batteries are missing or non-functional, firefighters will either install detectors or replace/install batteries at no charge. This will take place from 4:30 to 6 p.m. this week through Thursday.

All funding comes from donations with no tax dollars being used. In the 10 years almost 800 detectors and more than 900 batteries have been installed.

'Shrek' tryouts set at Recreation Department

Those interested may attend either one of the tryout sessions and be prepared to sing a song and recite a prepared monologue. Parents should also attend.

Tracie Schlaak will direct. Jolly Jester is an opportunity for children in grades 1 through grade 8. This year's production marks the theater's 55th anniversary.

West quarterback leads homecoming victory

By Brad Hartmann
HERALD CONTRIBUTOR

Oshkosh West quarterback Jake Ketter's teammates would describe him as being unselfish.

In Friday's Valley Football Association South conference cross-town rival matchup with Oshkosh North, his performance could better be described as phenomenal.

Ketter etched his name in the historic rivalry as he completed a career-best 12 of 14 passes for 191 yards and four touchdowns in a 51-12 homecoming victory over North at Titan Stadium.

"It was nice, but my receivers got open and things like that don't just happen unless the rest of the team is doing their job, which they did tonight," said Ketter. "Homecoming week, it was all hype. My guys were in a great mood and I just felt great today. We always look forward to playing North. We always want to beat up on them. The win was nice and we needed a momentum change after last week's loss against top-ranked Fond du Lac."

This marks the second straight year the Wildcats (2-6) have defeated the Spartans. North (0-8) leads the all-time series 30-18, including a 35-0 playoff victory back in 2000. The Harold J. Schumert Trophy also was at stake, a rivalry award dating to 1972 when Oshkosh High divided into North and West.

"It means the world to us. You have those bragging rights now," said West player A.J. Ambroso. "Throw out records because we won this game. It's just an amazing experience seeing the trophy walking through the halls in school; it's a great feeling."

The Wildcats would gain the momentum they were looking for on their second possession with a six-play, 44-yard drive that Blake Framke completed with a 3-yard run up the middle to give them an early lead.

It only took a minute for the Wildcats to score on their third possession with a three-play, 58-yard drive capped off with a 46-yard touchdown from Ketter to Ambroso.

"I wasn't thinking it was going to be a broken play to start out with," said Ambroso. "I stopped and saw nothing was going on and saw Jake come my way and went back out and luckily he hit me and we have been doing that ever since we were young."

It was all smiles and laughter on the Wildcats sideline in the second quarter as its fourth possession concluded with Framke scoring his seventh rushing touchdown of the season with a 17-yard score.

West junior Collin Jones works for yardage against Oshkosh North in their 51-12 win Friday night at Titan Stadium.

"It was really good blocking by the line. Bryce (Hinn) had a really good block that set me loose," Framke said. "He pancaked the linebacker that set me free and I just sprinted."

The play of the game came on the Wildcats' fifth possession on a first-and-15 from the Wildcats 41 yard line when Ketter scrambled to the Spartans' 25. Four plays later Ketter made a perfect delivery to Colton Sandstrom for a 14-yard touchdown to take a 28-0 lead with 6:20 left in the second quarter.

The Wildcats would extend their lead to 44-0 and add a Justin Oppermann sack on Spartans quarterback Aittipon Thao just before halftime. West's Sandstrom would then take the second-half opening kickoff 82 yards to the house.

"That was awesome," said Sandstrom. "A great way to start off the second half. I was just running. It was a bad kick, kind of like a squib. I didn't know I was going all the way. I looked back a couple times to make sure that no one was catching up to me but kept hauling."

The Spartans would get on the board with its second possession of the second half on a six-play, 19-yard drive that came on a third-and-goal from the 3 with Thao connecting with Braden Christie for the score.

"I went to go block the outside linebacker and if I kept blocking him it would have been a holding call so I decided to let go," Christie said. "We got the playmaker back there doing his thing and he decided to let the ball loose and I caught it. It wasn't supposed to happen, but I am glad it did."

With the score the Spartans would snap its 10-quarter scoreless streak, but their final possession produced its best drive of the season with a 14-play, 98-yard effort that featured a 31-yard reception from Thao to Trevor Van Dyke and a one-yard touchdown by Thao.

Thao was held to completing just five of 15 passes for 45 yards, but ran 33 times for 111 yards. He was sacked four times, twice by Framke.

The Wildcats totaled 340 yards, 149 from the ground. Ketter had 64 yards on six attempts and Framke carried the ball 14 times for 54 yards with two touchdowns. Ambroso and Sandstrom led receivers with four receptions each.

"We came out and didn't give up. Our kids understand that, especially the seniors, that we don't have much football left," said Spartans coach Juston Wara. "I was trying to milk as much out of them as possible and I am proud of them for that. Win or lose we got to come back to work."

Friday night the Wildcats will host Neenah (6-2) at 5 p.m. and the Spartans take on Hortonville (5-3) at 8 p.m. at Titan Stadium for the season finales.

Trevor Bengson of Lourdes looks to wrap up a Johnson Creek runner in Thursday's victory.

Lourdes wins 42-41 battle against Johnson Creek

The Lourdes football team scored the last two touchdowns to beat Johnson Creek in a game of offense Thursday, winning 42-41 in a conference contest played at Titan Stadium.

The final score, which gave Lourdes the win, came with 21 seconds left on a Caden Chier 1-yard touchdown run. The Knights got a touchdown before that on a Tyler Johnsen 3-yard pass from Joshua Bauer to set them up for the win.

The game started slow as both teams only scored once in the first quarter. But both teams traded punches in the second and third as no team scored consecutive touchdowns during that stretch.

Trevor Bengson led the rushing attack with 83 yards on 17 carries and two touchdowns, while Chier had 42 yards including the game-winning touchdown.

Bauer had a good night through the air as he threw for 219 yards with a touchdown. Bauer also rushed for a touchdown in the second quarter while Gavin Meyers also had a running touchdown.

Hayden Jones caught four balls for 112 yards for the Knights while Benny Huizenga had 99 yards on six catches.

In a battle between highly ranked teams, the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater football team showed UW-Oshkosh that the Warhawks are the team to beat in the Wisconsin Intercollegiate Athletic Conference.

The eighth-ranked Warhawks (5-0, 2-0 WIAC) held the 10th-ranked Titans (3-2, 1-1 WIAC) to just 205 yards of total offense in a 20-0 win in a game played in Whitewater.

UWO had the advantage of time of possession by more than two minutes and didn't turn the ball over once, but just couldn't get anything going on offense.

After a scoreless first quarter, Whitewater got on the board in the second quarter on a field goal and then J.T. Parrish caught an 82-yard touchdown from Cole Wilber to make it 10-0, before another field goal made it 13-0 going into the half.

The Warhawks got another long touchdown from Parrish – this time a 76-yard TD catch – to increase the damage, making it 20-0 after the third quarter and the score would stay the same after a scoreless fourth quarter.

Parrish had 197 yards receiving for the Warhawks on just three catches while Wilber struggled through the air – going 9 for 20 – for 255 yards and two touchdowns.

Kyle Radavich completed 19 of his 37 passes for the Titans for 187 yards while Mitch Gerhartz was the leading rusher with 24 yards on 18 carries (1.3 average).

Mitchell Gerend caught five balls for 54 yards for UWO while Riley Kallas had six catches for 42 yards.

UW-Oshkosh ran 73 plays on offense against UW-Whitewater's 59, but the two long scoring plays hurt the Titans.

The Titans will try to bounce back this Saturday when they host UW-Platteville at 2 p.m.

Donor matching funds for animal van

In memory of her Basenji "brother" Murphy, an anonymous Oshkosh Area Humane Society supporter is matching dollar for dollar up to $10,000 for a new animal transport vehicle for the society through Oct. 21.

The shelter's most recent vehicle broke down Sept. 15 on the way to the annual Walk for the Animals and has been deemed beyond repair. Since then staff have been using personal vehicles to transport animals to offsite veterinary clinics for medical care, picking up animals found as strays and transferring animals from other shelters where they may not otherwise get the opportunity for adoption.

"A safe, reliable transport van is absolutely critical in continuing our lifesaving mission," said executive director Joni Geiger. "Thanks to the generosity of this donor, we have an amazing opportunity to secure a new vehicle that will help save more lives."

The shelter is considering a GMC van estimated to cost $35,000. Donors can go to www.oahs.org or by mail.

Murphy passed away from kidney failure and degenerative myelopathy in October 2017. "It's really about continuing the legacy of love for Murphy and helping thousands of other animals in his honor," said Geiger. "It's an extraordinary gift."

Miller falls short of state

Oshkosh North sophomore Grace Miller fell three shots short of having a chance to go to the WIAA State Girls Golf Tournament after firing an 86 last Wednesday in the WIAA Division 1 sectional, which was held at Westhaven Golf Course.

Miller had a 45 on the front nine but bounced back with a solid 41 on the back. Miller, who was the lone Oshkosh golfer to make it to sectionals, just missed out after the last individual to make it to state was West Bend's Lauren Craig, who shot an 83.

Only the top three individuals not on a qualifying team advance.

Arrowhead won the sectional with a 325 to make it as a team, followed by Cedarburg who fired a 349. Emily Lauterbach of Arrowhead shot a 75 to earn medalist honors.

West sweeps North in volleyball

By Charleigh Reinardy
HERALD CONTRIBUTOR

The Oshkosh West volleyball team swept Oshkosh North last Thursday night, winning the first and second games with large leads and a close third game.

"This is our homecoming week, playing two tough teams in the same week," Oshkosh West head coach Gillian Pakula said. "Losing to Appleton North on Tuesday and coming in and having to play Oshkosh North, which is always a battle every year — knowing that we had two tough teams on a homecoming week we knew that it was going to be a big task."

The Wildcats won the first and second games easily, taking the Spartans 25-15 and 25-10. Although the Spartans struggled the first two games to return hits received by the Wildcats, they weren't ready to go home with three losses.

The Spartans led the third game early but the Wildcats followed close behind. Just as quick as the Spartans led with a gap in points, the Wildcats closed the gap.

As the scores reached the 20s, each team would go back and forth. A long volley between the Spartans and Wildcats went on for the last point, when West led 30-29. Sophomore Natalie Johanknecht stepped up to end the volley with a hard hit to the Spartans, scoring the last point and game winner.

"It's always fun playing your cross-town rival because nobody wants to be the loser," West junior Macy McCue said. "Everyone is more into the game and everything is more competitive and fun."

"Coming off of a huge loss against Appleton North on Tuesday and going into our game against Oshkosh North we had no idea what was going to happen," West junior Madigan Carlson said. "We looked like a brand-new team out there, the atmosphere was crazy, our student section is seriously one of the best, but most importantly we all played as one and encouraged each other to just give it our all."
