Sidewalk app gets attention of residents

By Miles Maguire
HERALD CONTRIBUTOR

If you are one of those property owners who pay little attention to local rules on snow shoveling, be warned: The city has seen a dramatic increase in complaints through an easy-to-use app called SeeClickFix.

As of Feb. 18, the city had received 84 snow and ice complaints through the app compared with just seven app-based complaints for all of last winter.

"Each storm event is very different, and each round of complaints is very different," said James Rabe. Oshkosh director of public works.

But he said one clear trend is that more people have turned to online reporting to deal with slippery sidewalks. After the Feb. 12 storm, the city got 14 complaints in five days, Rabe said.

One reason may be that the SeeClickFix makes it easy to report a problem — and to do so anonymously. The app also allows residents to keep tabs on the city's

Battle on Bago conquers lakes

The Battle on Bago ice fishing tournament returned to lakes Winnebago, Butte des Morts, Winneconne and Poygan last weekend, and Spangler brothers (top photo) Steve, Warren, Kevin and Rodney Lee were on Winnebago to compete Friday and have fun in the sun. Fish were taken by either tip-ups or rod and reel to compete for prizes and help raise funds for area youth and conservation efforts. A large volunteer team helped get participants through weigh-ins and concessions.

Preliminaries for state contests earn scholarships

Nine area women are competing for the title of Miss Oshkosh 2019 this weekend along with three vying to be Miss Oshkosh's Outstanding Teen 2019.

The scholarship competition will take place at 7 p.m. Saturday at West High School's Alberta Kimball Auditorium. The theme for this year's production, co-directed by Kay Lund and Michelle Hammett, is "Not All Heroes Wear Capes ... Some Wear Crowns."

Sponsored by the Oshkosh Area Women's Association for more than 50 years, Miss Oshkosh is an official preliminary to Miss Wisconsin and Miss America pageants. Last June the Miss Oshkosh Scholarship program was recognized at the state pageant for awarding more than $11,400 in scholarships to its contestants in 2018.

Miss Oshkosh contestants include Cari Beilfuss, Anna Chapin, Shauna Clemens, Kailyn De Blaey, Isabella Garvey, Megan Heinz, Anastacia King, Hannah Krueger and Katrina Mazier.

Lidtke

Reigning Miss Oshkosh Kate Lidtke said she had the best year of her life being able to see people and attend events throughout the city, including places she hadn't experienced before.

"I knew at this time last year that I liked Oshkosh, but I didn't know how much I really loved it until I was Miss Oshkosh," Lidtke said.

A freshman at the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh majoring in early childhood and special education, Lidtke received a $3,500 scholarship to further her edu-

Sawdust Days ends run in city

Funding issues cancel festival after 47 years

By Dan Roherty
OSHKOSH HERALD

Oshkosh Sawdust Days has ended its 47-year Fourth of July festival run in the city.

The family fair's executive board announced on its Facebook page Friday that "financial shortfalls" forced the end of the five-day run at Menominee Park.

Attempts by the organizers to consider relocating the festival to the village of Winneconne were unsuccessful.

"Oshkosh Sawdust Days, Inc. would like to thank all of its supporters over the past 47 years, the city of Oshkosh, and especially the volunteers that gave their time during the best weekend of the summer to put on a Free Family Fun 4th of July Festival," the group posted.

City Manager Mark Rohloff said he found out indirectly that Sawdust Days organizers were seeking a site in Winneconne but still owed about $35,000 in special event fees related to police security and park restoration costs from last year's event.

"It's disappointing to think that they were trying to leave without paying their bill," Rohloff said, noting they had a similar revenue issue a few years ago but ultimately paid up. He said there have been no other groups with payment issues on event fees with the city.

She later earned a $200 contestant scholarship and won the $500 Early Childhood/Elementary Education scholarship at the Miss Wisconsin Scholarship Pageant in June. Her platform theme has been "Special Needs, Special Minds: Including Those with Special Needs."

Her advice to the next woman to wear the crown — besides making school a priority — is to be true to themselves and learn how to balance the responsibilities.

"They're not looking for a replica," she said. "Just be yourself and have fun, because you're only going to do it once."

The Outstanding Teen program is an official preliminary for Wisconsin and Miss America's Outstanding Teen organizations. As the "little sister" program to Miss America, it promotes scholastic achievement, creative accomplishment, healthy living and community involvement for

Interstate 41 pileup with 131 vehicles claims life

A chain-reaction crash involving 131 vehicles on southbound Interstate 41 in the Town of Neenah during harsh winter conditions claimed the life of one person and sent 71 others to area hospitals.

Andrew Schefelker, 30, of Oshkosh and a teacher in the Iola-Scandinavia School District, was identified Monday as the victim.

Winnebago County Sheriff John Matz said his department was notified at 11:10 a.m. of the extensive pileup that closed down the highway for more than 12 hours as police and first responders entered the scene and removed victims from the cold and windy conditions.

Of the 71 people taken to area hospitals as far away as Green Bay, five were admitted for treatment. Bus companies helped get the stranded to warm-up areas, including a church in Neenah that served as a reunification site coordinated with emergency call centers. Nearby businesses also opened their doors.

Sturgeon spearing season on Winnebago concludes

The 2019 sturgeon spearing season on the Winnebago system is now in the books with 479 total fish harvested on Lake Winnebago, according to a report from the state Department of Natural Resources, with 23 taken Sunday.

The clear water along the north shore of Lake Winnebago made designated areas 1 and 2 the places to be during this season, the report said as Stockbridge Harbor and Waverly Beach were the busiest registration stations this season.

The largest fish harvested on the season's final day Sunday was 111.7 pounds (74 inches) and registered at Wendt's by Kraig Kelliher of Hartford.

Combined with the 307 sturgeon registered from the upriver lakes, a total of 786 fish were taken this season, down from 951 last year. Eighteen of the fish from Lake Winnebago were more than 100 pounds along with 14 from the upriver lakes.

Neenah man charged in boat crash that killed 2

A Neenah man was ordered to appear April 1 in Winnebago County Circuit Court after being charged last week with homicide after a boating crash that killed two sisters on Lake Winnebago in August.

Boats driven by Brian Sullivan and Kim Laabs collided off Paynes Point, killing Lauren Laabs, 26, and Cassie Laabs, 20, who were thrown from their boat and drowned.

Sullivan, 44, told police he had about four beers between four or five hours before the crash, according to the criminal complaint. His blood test showed a blood-alcohol concentration of 0.093, above the legal limit of 0.08. Laabs tested at 0.026, well below the legal limit.

Sullivan faces up to 25 years in prison and a $100,000 fine on each of the charges.

Feeders help carry birds through snowy winter

By Rob Zimmer
HERALD CONTRIBUTOR

With the heavy snowfall we have been receiving over the past few weeks, I have received many questions regarding ways to help birds and other wildlife in our backyards and gardens.

Many residents are reporting large numbers of songbirds at backyard feeders with the arrival of the heavy snow. This is because intense snowfalls cover up food sources that songbirds, for much of the winter so far, have been able to glean and scratch from bare patches in the lawn and along roadsides. These birds find readily available food at backyard feeders from dedicated residents.

Even robins are showing up at feeders in big numbers, seeking out morsels of fruits, nuts and mealworms that provide sustenance through the heavy snow and cold weather. While many people assume that all robins migrate south for the winter, many remain in our area, flocking up in area woodlands and parks, traveling in numbers, feeding upon trees and shrubs with berries and small fruits.

Janet Wissink, president of the Winnebago Audubon Society and an avid Oshkosh birder, recommends some ways that residents can keep songbirds healthy and well fed until heavy snows begin to melt away.

Besides keeping feeders well stocked with high fat content foods such as corn, peanuts, safflower, sunflower and suet, she recommends a few other important and simple tasks.

"It is important to shovel the snow beneath your feeders and surrounding areas so that our ground feeding birds do not have to deal with the deep snow. Scatter some seed on the ground for these species that feed there," she said.

"Keep your feeders stocked and be sure to check holes to make sure they are not plugged or blocked by ice or snow."

If robins or bluebirds show up in your feeder area, be sure to put out mealworms, an excellent source of nutrition and energy for these and a variety of other birds.

In addition to providing readily available food sources that are high in fat and protein, it is also important to provide fresh water. Keep those heated birdbaths filled or check regular birdbaths often for freeze-up.

Landscaping and gardening choices are also important when it comes to providing food for overwintering birds. Planting fruit- and berry-producing trees and shrubs is an excellent way to provide a natural food source throughout the winter. Crabapples, dogwoods, viburnums, highbush cranberry, sumac and others provide an important food source for songbirds in winter.

Growing native wildflowers and grasses is also an excellent idea. Allow these native wildflowers and grasses to remain standing all winter rather than cutting them back in the fall. Each plant can produce hundreds, if not thousands, of seeds, perfect for wintering songbirds to feast upon.

Providing shelter is also a great way to keep songbirds healthy and safe. Create a simple brush pile in the backyard by stacking branches, twigs and other natural materials to provide a location for these birds to seek shelter from extreme cold, as well as from predators. Planting conifers such as spruces, pines, white cedar and others also provides a natural shelter.

FVAF, St. Dominic on their own Christian paths

By the Rev. Thomas Willadsen
HERALD CONTRIBUTOR

Two small churches—but not too small churches.

Oshkosh is home to two small groups of Christians who are forging new paths of faith as they try to follow Christ.

Fox Valley Anglican Fellowship (FVAF) began in 2017. They worshipped in members' homes until moving to the chapel at Evergreen Retirement Community in April. Father Bob Frees had been ordained a Deacon in the Episcopal Church before being called to start the fellowship in the Anglican Church of North America (ACNA). He was ordained to the priesthood by the ACNA late last year.

WHERE WE WORSHIP

A look at Oshkosh religious congregations

The fellowship worships in the newly renovated chapel at Evergreen. Worship begins at 10 a.m. on the second, fourth and fifth Sundays of each month and at 6 p.m. the first and third Sundays.

The day I visited about 30 people attended. They observed Epiphany so the worship space was decorated with poinsettias, a Christmas tree and a nativity scene. The sanctuary is lovely and its sound and video systems are state of the art. The T-coil audio loop provides crystal-clear sound for hearing aid wearers.

The service began with a procession led by subdeacon Sherry Simon. The congregation sang to recorded organ music, though on other occasions their music is led by piano or guitar. The lyrics, order of worship and rubrics are projected onto a screen.

One of the Bible stories that is read at Epiphany is Jesus' baptism. Before the sermon a brief YouTube video reenactment of his baptism was shown. Frees delivered his sermon from the pulpit.

The church celebrates the Lord's Supper every week; all baptized Christians are invited to participate. The day I attended they used wafers and wine.

FVAF is part of the ACNA, a collection of Episcopal churches in the United States and Canada that united in 2009. They strive to be faithful to the Bible, informed by tradition and led by the Holy Spirit.

More information about FVAF is at www.foxvalleyanglicanfellowship.org.

St. Dominic Mission came to Oshkosh in July 2016. Before that they were in Neenah and called themselves SS Cyril and Methodius Parish. They gather for worship each Sunday afternoon at 1, when Father Andy Smith's living room at 2490 Jackson becomes a worship space. They follow the traditional Catholic order of service and celebrate the Lord's Supper every week.

The form of the service is traditional but the setting and variety of musical styles, from ancient chants, traditional and contemporary hymns to jazz, folk and pop (sometimes even polka!), give the service a relaxed, informal vibe.

Everyone is welcome to participate in Eucharist. They celebrate with wine and wafers. After worship Father Andy serves a fellowship meal; the day I attended he served a hearty barley soup and fresh bread. St. Dominic Mission is the only church in Winnebago County that offers cat therapy, which is provided by FruFru and Reaper when they feel like it.

St. Dominic Mission is part of Old Catholic Churches International (OCCI). The OCCI traces its roots to the middle of the 19th century in the Netherlands and the Christian church before the Great Schism of 1054, when Christians in Western Europe split from the Eastern Orthodox tradition. St. Dominic Mission honors both the Western and Eastern traditions.

The OCCI is clear about issues that are divisive in American churches of all denominations. The OCCI will ordain called and qualified women, married peo-

For more information about St. Dominic Mission, contact Smith at 920-376-9409 or sdmocci.sacwan.net. You can find their Facebook page by entering St. Dominic Mission.

Both congregations are small but filled with faithful people who are eager to welcome others to journey together on the path Christ invites them to walk.

Anti-trafficking group welcomes public to its mission

Oshkosh Herald

Damascus Road Project, a volunteer-driven advocacy organization that works with adult victims of human trafficking and sexual exploitation, invited the public in last week to visit its new location at 404 N. Main St.

The suite was remodeled with donations of materials and time from volunteers. Michelle Angell, one of the volunteers showing guests around, shared that needed items “miraculously appeared,” whether it was a backsplash that was just the right size for the kitchen or donated ceiling tiles in the right quantity.

The location offers a place for people to feel safe, find assistance and support, and obtain guidance in connecting with resources. Every woman has the chance to shop in a “boutique” room for the clothes they need and receives a bag of personal hygiene items, snacks, a journal, coloring book and blanket. Most everything is donated and a quick observation showed a need for leggings, XL clothing, undergarments, socks and winter coats.

Spiritual and motivational sayings grace the walls of the various rooms, which include a library, a peaceful reflection spot, a gathering space and a kitchen area.

Founded by Lisa Sennolz, Damascus Road Project advocated for 101 women in 2018, up from 73 in 2017. Two international victims were helped in 2017, but she said the majority of victims are from Wisconsin, mainly the Fox Valley region.

Advocates say many of the victims fall prey by being trafficked through family, people they meet on dating websites or at parties, as well as being recruited while in shelters by others. The newest way, although not yet documented in Oshkosh, is live gaming.

Victims usually learn about Damascus Road Project and its services either by word of mouth from those who have been connected to the organization or after being arrested.

Safe housing is the No. 1 need faced by the women, according to Sennolz. Damascus Road refers those who qualify to several out-of-state facilities as well as Eye Heart World in Green Bay, which offers long-term housing at Rose Home, a residential holistic program offering trauma-induced therapy, life skills and workforce skills. Victims under age 18 are referred to Exploit No More in Milwaukee, whose mission it is to dismantle the sex trade of children.

For example, an anonymous user on the site Feb. 10 complained about two properties on Irving Street “that never shovel.” The next day the Department of Public Works posted an acknowledgement that it had received the complaint and three days later posted that the case had been closed because the sidewalk had been cleared.

The city requires property owners to shovel their sidewalks within 24 hours of a snowfall. To enforce the rule, a contractor is hired to remove snow and ice in response to complaints, with a chargeback to the property owner.

The costs can add up, and repeat offenders can get slapped with a $232 citation on top of the shoveling fee.

This year the contract went to Jeff Foust Excavating, whose bid calls for a base charge of $72 to clear 100 linear feet of sidewalk. The city puts an administrative fee on top of that, which means property owners who don't shovel are looking at a minimum cost of $97 if the city does it for them.

But Rabe said the costs escalate from there. He gave the example of someone on a corner lot with 80 feet of frontage on one street, 50 feet on the other and a curb cut in the middle for pedestrians. According to Rabe, the costs for clearing snow on that site would break down like this:

- First 100 feet: $72
- Next 30 feet: $16.50
- Curb ramp: $68
- Administrative fee: $25
- Total invoice: $181.50.

SeeClickFix can be accessed either through the city's website or through a mobile app on a cellular device.

The city has also gotten faster at resolving snow and ice complaints received electronically. Last year it took the city 11.6 days to resolve sidewalk issues that came in via app while this year those complaints have been closed in 5.9 days, according to city records.

Over the last five years, the city has averaged about 475 shoveling complaints each winter. Last winter the city received 359 complaints but has already exceeded that with 376 through Feb. 18.

Keep in mind there is nothing to be done in the first 24 hours after the precipitation has stopped. The city will not accept complaints made sooner.

The SeeClickFix app is part of a program called Connect Oshkosh. Visit www.ci.oshkosh.wi.us/ConnectOshkosh to register a concern or to download the app.

UWO moves some hall funds to student services

By Miles Maguire
HERALD CONTRIBUTOR

To help fill a budget hole, the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh plans to shift $5 million from its residence halls into student academic services.

The surplus in the school's Department of Residence Life "was generated by unanticipated salary savings, delay and/or postponement of building and maintenance projects, and increased revenues from additional room occupancy and conference center activities," according to a request approved by the Board of Regents last week.

The money will be spent on student services that have traditionally been funded by tuition and legislative appropriations. These activities include "admissions, career planning and placement, financial aid administration, counseling center and the registrar's office," the transfer request document shows.

Students currently pay slightly more for room and board than for tuition, according to the school's website. During the current academic year Wisconsin residents can expect to pay $4,046 for room and board each semester, compared with just $3,811 for tuition.

"We are pleased our plan for responsible fiscal transition continues to have support of the Board of Regents and the UW System," said Chancellor Andrew Leavitt. "This student-supported plan is critical to our strategy to support programs and students on campus."

Madeline Hass, president of a campus group called United Students in Residence Halls (USRH), said in a written statement to the regents, "While the situation is obviously not ideal, we recognize the serious circumstances the university finds itself in and believe that the best course of action is to act in the interests of the university as a whole."

USRH consists of all students living in campus dorms and is responsible for providing a student voice on residence life and university dining, according to its constitution.

"Our understanding is that the university's reserve funds are effectively exhausted, that the university as a whole is in need of funds to pay for immediate costs for this year and that they are unable to acquire these funds through other means such as a loan from the UW System," Hass wrote.

She said some residence hall projects will be delayed but that "the transfer will not affect the quality of life of resident hall students." If "unexpected costs" arise, the university has promised "to help to cover said costs," Hass wrote.

The transfer of funds underscores the seriousness of the financial crisis at UWO. Until 2011 these kinds of shifts were limited by statute, the university said.

While undergraduate tuition has been frozen at Oshkosh and other UW schools for six years, students have still been hit with increased costs for living on campus. In fiscal year 2018, rates went up 4 percent, which was followed by a 1.8 percent boost for the current fiscal year.

The university has been dipping into student funds to cover pay increases for staff and expects to continue doing so. But the room rate increases for the next two years are projected to be only about 0.5 percent, or $30 a year.

"This transfer of funds will not affect future student rates, which would only increase due to other external factors such as the potential approval of a state pay plan," Leavitt said in a letter to regents.

Leavitt is implementing a three-year financial recovery plan that requires a total of $7.5 million in "bridge funding" this year to deal with a revenue shortfall. On top of the residence hall funds, the university expects to raise $2.5 million from various contractual and fee-for-service activities separate from traditional classroom teaching.

The school's Resident Life operations are budgeted to take in $16.6 million this year against operating expenses of $10.7 million. But a hefty debt service of payment of $5.9 million will put the department in the red by $72,000, according to university documents. After the transfer Residence Life will have $2 million in its reserve fund.

Separately the regents also approved a modest tuition increase for UW-Oshkosh's graduate programs. The new rates will take effect next year and are expected to bring in $61,184.

Muza Metal supervisor gets military recognition

Rick Dowland at Muza Metal Products was honored with the U.S. Defense Department's Patriot Award in recognition of extraordinary support of employee Alex Grebe, who is deployed with the U.S. Army's 2nd Battalion, 127th Infantry Regiment, 32nd Infantry Brigade combat team as a member of the Wisconsin National Guard from Appleton.

The Patriot Award was presented during a company meeting with fellow employees and Alex's father, Dan Grebe, Feb. 1 in Oshkosh. Grebe nominated Dowland, who expressed his pleasure at the surprise recognition from Employer Support of the Guard and Reserve.

"I am humbled to be awarded this Patriot award by Alex," Dowland said. "The sacrifices that Alex along with his fellow team members of the Wisconsin National Guard make are second to none. It is an honor to support Alex with his work schedule and I look forward to his return to our team."

Muza president John Kriz stated, "I am very proud of Rick Dowland and the many leaders throughout our organization that fully support our military personnel. We truly appreciate what our country's guardsmen and reservists, and all military personnel past, present and future, do to protect and serve."

Muza Metal Products, a Wing Capital Group company, is a metal-based parts supplier that last year marked 90 years in business.

Trivia Night raises $11,000 for schools

The Oshkosh Area School District Education Foundation raised nearly $11,000 at its 6th Annual Trivia Night Fundraiser on Feb. 1, a new record for the event and the foundation.

"This funding helps our teachers bring new and exciting learning activities into their classrooms, and it also helps provide our students in need with basic necessities and materials," stated Julie Dumke, foundation director.

More than 250 attendees participated and first-place winner was Oaklawn Elementary School. There was a two-way tie for second place between Oshkosh Downtown Rotary and Oshkosh City-wide PTO, and a three-way tie for the best-dressed award among Carl Traeger Elementary, Oshkosh Southwest Rotary and South Park Middle. Attendees participated in a 50/50 raffle, jewelry raffle and basket raffle thanks to donations from businesses, the Trivia Night Planning Committee, PTO groups, staff members and community organizations.

Business notes

The UW-Madison Division of Extension has awarded $10,000 to Fit Oshkosh and Fond du Lac County to study black entrepreneurship in the four-county area of Winnebago, Fond du Lac, Outagamie and Brown. The grant money will fund a research assistant to interview current and aspiring entrepreneurs. The results will inform state business development organizations about specific ways entrepreneurs of color experience barriers and success. The project is expected to wrap up in three to four months and results will be shared by Fit Oshkosh and the extension.

New pro league highlights college wrestlers

American Prostyle Wrestling (APW) has reached an agreement with Menominee Nation Arena to host and broadcast its inaugural season matches.

APW recently launched a team-based league that combines the three wrestling disciplines of greco-roman, freestyle and folkstyle into a specialized form of combat. Eight teams, both male and female, will compete in dual matches at the arena starting in July through February.

"Because wrestling is a marketable sport with a strong fan base, wrestlers should be able to make money doing something they love," said Daniel Jackson, APW founder and former University of Minnesota wrestler and high school coach. "We created this league to provide wrestlers some financial security while pursuing their dreams after college of competing internationally and winning Olympic and World Championship medals."

Several national champions and Division I and II All-Americans have already committed to the league, including Nick Becker, a 2018 graduate of the University of Wisconsin-Parkside.

"After college, I really wanted to keep competing, but financially it wasn't feasible for me, and I had no interest in competing in leagues like WWE (World Wrestling Entertainment) or (mixed martial arts)," said Becker, a three-time NCAA Division II champion. "So I did what a lot of former wrestlers do and began coaching. I'm excited that this summer I'll be back competing on the mat."

Greg Pierce, president of Fox Valley Pro Basketball, said. "We're excited to offer this unique sporting event not only to wrestling fans in the Midwest, but around the world through live-streaming and the state-of-the-art technology in our facility."

Season tickets start at $151, and APW will offer live-streaming services of matches.

West's Heredia takes third in WIAA state wrestling tournament

By Alex Wolf
HERALD CONTRIBUTOR

The Oshkosh West wrestling team was well represented at the WIAA Division 1 State Meet this past weekend, having five wrestlers compete while Oshkosh North had one.

Alec Hunter (106 pounds) and Edgar Heredia (170) did well for West as Heredia finished third while Hunter ended up on the podium as well, finishing fifth.

Heredia won his first match on a big 26-10 technical fall, but then lost his second match after being pinned in just 40 seconds.

Heredia responded well – winning his next four matches to finish third. He started that run with a 17-7 major decision, then won a 2-0 decision followed by a 14-5 major decision before winning the third-place match 9-6.

Hunter also won his first match on an 8-4 decision before losing 7-0 in his second match. He went on to win his next two matches easily, including a pin, before losing the consolation semifinals 4-3 to go to the fifth-place match, where he won on a pin in 2:45.

Connor Collins had a nice week for the Wildcats as well at 152 pounds, picking up a win in the opening round on a major decision – 12-3 – but then lost his next two matches, first on a technical fall and then pinned in the first consolation round.

First-round exits for the Wildcats included 132-pounder Logan Grota and heavyweight Avery Martell. Grota lost on a close 10-8 decision in the opener Thursday against Baraboo's Brandon Jesse while Martell was pinned in 1:16. Grota was 32-13 for the season while Martell finished 33-11.

Cade Schmitz was the lone North wrestler at the state tournament and the 126-pounder lost his first match Thursday, falling in a close 3-1 decision against Collin Widmar of Kenosha Bradford/Rutherford.

Schmitz finished 36-12 for the season.

Alliance hockey team falls short in sectional finals

By Brad Hartmann
HERALD CONTRIBUTOR

The look on the Warbirds/Beaver Dam Alliance co-op girls hockey team could tell it all: frustrated and devastated.

It was a match-up between the two top teams in the state as the Alliance tried to beat its rival Fox Cities for the fourth time this season but lost 5-2 Friday evening at the Fond du Lac Blue Line Family Ice Center in the WIAA sectional finals.

"We were all nervous in the beginning. We knew we could do this. We went to state last year so this nervousness shouldn't be happening to us right now," said Fond du Lac senior Drew Deanovich. "We didn't make good passes. We could have communicated more. I thought we were rushed in what we were doing. We were slapping the puck to where we thought it was going to go."

Oshkosh North junior Hattie Verstegen helped spark the Alliance (21-4) offense by delivering the first goal with 2:54 left of the first period on the team's sixth shot attempt. Waupun senior Morgan Brown was credited with an assist as she threw the puck in front of the net, finding Verstegen.

The Alliance was the aggressor in the first period, winning six of seven face-offs, but couldn't capitalize on a couple of opportunities as Deanovich missed two shots off the right side of the net and Beaver Dam senior Alyssa Heim had a shot hitting the cross bar at the 10:06 mark.

Heading into the locker room, many Alliance athletes encouraged each other to get the puck to the red line and deep. But just 34 seconds into the second period Fox Cities' Madelynn Jablonski would tie the game on a power-play goal with assists from Lauryn Hull and Victoria Nelson.

The Stars took the lead on a breakaway goal from McKayla Zilisch, followed by their third goal with 4:18 in the period on a controversial call as Kourtney Koster poked the puck past goalie Abby Okon as it was pinched between the post and her pads. After review the referees awarded the goal to Koster.

The Alliance rallied to cut the deficit to 3-2 as Verstegen scored her second goal with 3:23 left in the second period with assists from Eve Lundin (Beaver Dam) and Brown.

"I just tipped it. It was the perfect opportunity. We practice that shot every day. I was hoping for a tip or deflection," said Verstegen. "I was hoping we would carry that momentum into the next line. Everyone was more motivated because we got back into the game."

The Stars continued to frustrate the Alliance by scoring two more goals, including one by Nelson that deflected off Verstegen's stick and did a rainbow into the net just 39 seconds into the third period. Morgan Trembl would score the Stars' final goal with 11:02 remaining with an assist from Zilisch.

Inside the net, Stars goalie Hattie Berndt had 20 saves while Okon saved 21 shots for the Alliance. The Stars outshot the Alliance 26-22. On the power play the Stars converted 1 for 2 while the Alliance went 0 for 2.

Last season the Alliance finished 19-9 after a 3-2 overtime loss to the Cap City Cougars in the WIAA state semifinals. Next season the Alliance will be going through a rebuilding mode leaning on the experience of Verstegen and Okon as the team is graduating 10 players.

"Being a senior we knew this was our last chance to go to state. They caught us when we were out of position," said Brown. "We had a great season. We were undefeated in conference. We had a great record with some high-scoring games."

"Now seeing Fox Cities and how they are going to feel at state, that's just the hardest part that we are going home and they are continuing playing."

Softball league signup dates announced

Herd back in slump after slow start vs. Swarm

By Ti Windisch
HERALD CONTRIBUTOR

The Wisconsin Herd is 1-7 over its last eight games after winning four straight in the middle of January, and is currently last in the Eastern Conference with an overall record of 9-29.

Wisconsin played twice at home over the weekend, on Friday against the Agua Caliente Clippers and Sunday versus the Greensboro Swarm, and lost both games.

Herd head coach Jordan Brady said a lack of ball movement stymied Wisconsin's offense on Friday in a 121-93 loss to the Clippers that was the first matchup in NBA G League history for those two teams.

"I thought we started off the game OK, some ball movement, we were defending with energy," Brady said. "(Then) the ball movement struggled, I think that had a lot to do with the ball not going in. We missed some easy shots. Sometimes that's the way it is, layups roll off the rim and you have to keep playing and keep performing."

Contrary to Friday's contest, Brady said he felt the start of the game sunk Wisconsin on Sunday after a 107-105 Swarm victory. The Herd was outscored 36-18 in that first period before winning the second, third, and fourth quarters against Greensboro.

"The first quarter, we came out flat and had a poor start to the game," Brady said. "After that we won, we controlled the entire game. We came out and didn't have a good start to the game."

The Herd turned the ball over 20 times and committed 24 personal fouls, leading to 23 Greensboro free throw attempts.

Christian Wood defends against the Clippers' Manu Lecomte in the Herd's Friday loss at Menominee Nation Arena.

Brady said that a lack of discipline cost Wisconsin on Sunday.

"Being a disciplined basketball team is a big part of being a winning basketball team, especially in close games," Brady said. "I think all teams experience some level of being undisciplined in different ways. There were a few plays we made down the stretch that, in my opinion, were just undisciplined. We did a lot of things that were good, that were disciplined. But winning close games, you have to be disciplined at the end of the game."

Christian Wood continued his dominant run of play over the weekend, putting up 25 points and 11 rebounds on Friday and 19 points and 20 rebounds Sunday. After that game Wood said positioning was key to hauling in those rebounds.

"It's just about putting myself in a good position to rebound, being better, trying to help other guys out, attacking the glass," Wood said. "That's what I did today, I asserted myself in the paint."

In addition to rebounding, Wood has continued to score the ball at will. Despite playing a lot at center, Wood is able to drive to the rim in a similar fashion to Milwaukee Bucks teammate Giannis Antetokounmpo. Wood said even before joining the Bucks, he took some cues from Giannis.

"I've always modeled my game after his,

I've watched him previously, before I've even been a Buck," Wood said. "It's the same thing, we have similar play types. It's all good, I learn from him, he learns from me."

Trevon Duval is another Bucks player who put together back-to-back solid outings, with 17 points, six rebounds, three assists, and three steals against the Clippers followed by 21 points, five rebounds, five assists and a steal against Greensboro.

Duval shot 4-for-7 from three-point territory in those two losses, and displayed a smooth touch from beyond the arc. After Sunday's contest, Duval said adding range to his game is a big part of his developmental goals.

"It's very important, it's part of the reason why I'm down here, to develop that and develop and get better as a basketball player all around," Duval said.

Kanellos Garbis has not gotten many opportunities to play in his rookie year, but he did manage to score his first career bucket in Friday's matchup against the Swarm. Garbis said despite the lack of playing time being difficult to deal with, the moment was validating for him.

"For me it was amazing that I was on the floor," Kanellos said. "I work for it every day, so every time I'm on the court I'm trying to do my best. I think this is the most tough for a professional athlete, to stay positive every day when he doesn't have so many minutes. But for me, this is motivation to work hard every day. When I have that opportunity, eventually, I want to show everybody that I'm worth being here."

Titans basketball teams gain NCAA tournament slots

Oshkosh Herald

The University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh men's and women's basketball teams are headed back to the NCAA Division III Basketball Championships as brackets were announced Monday.

The Wisconsin Intercollegiate Athletic Conference champion Titans women (24-3) will host the first two rounds of the tournament, playing Pomona-Pitzer (22-5) of Claremont, Calif., Friday. The victor will take on the winner of DePauw (24-4) vs. Loras (22-5). The national semifinals and championship game will be played March 15-16 in Salem, Va.

The men's team received an at-large bid in the 64-team field and will take on Lake Forest College (Ill.) in the Collegeville, Minn., Regional at St. John's University. Lake Forest (18-9) defeated St. Norbert College for the Midwest Conference Tournament championship to earn its first appearance in the NCAA tournament.

The men's semifinals and championship game will take place March 15-16 in Fort Wayne, Ind.

After dominating the WIAC all season the Titans men were knocked out at home against UW-Stevens Point 76-56 in the conference semifinal game Thursday.

The Pointers (18-8), which had the fourth-seed in the WIAC Tournament, never trailed after scoring the first 10 points of the game and led for double digits throughout most of the game.

The fourth-ranked Titans (23-3) didn't receive an automatic berth to the Division III but the at-large bid is the fourth straight trip to the tournament, where last year they made it to the championship game before falling 78-72 to Nebraska Wesleyan.

Stevens Point shot nearly 53 percent in the win while the Titans shot 36 percent and made only 3 of 26 3-pointers (11.5 percent) in the loss.

Ben Boots led UWO with 10 points and made all 3 pointers for the Titans while Connor Duax added 13 points.

For the fifth time in program history, the women's team won the WIAC title Saturday after a 69-40 win over UW-Whitewater, who had given the Titans two of their three losses this season.

The win gave the Titans (24-3) their automatic berth in the 64-team NCAA Tournament.

The 14th-ranked Titans never trailed in Saturday's win and held the Warhawks to 29 percent shooting while shooting 47 percent, despite going 2 of 16 from 3-point land.

Leah Porath led the Titans with 16 points and had four rebounds while Nikki Arneson had 14 points, four rebounds and five steals. Isabella Samuels and Melanie Schneider combined for 25 points in the win.

The Titans went 21 of 29 from the free throw line.

Sawdust Days

Sawdust Days organizers were among other city event groups who had opposed new rules for special events approved in 2017 that included an increased fee structure to account for city services such as extra police and fire services.

Rohloff said safety concerns and some negative impact on surrounding neighborhoods had been weighing on the event's relationship with the city, including a 2017 altercation among festival goers that turned on police officers who intervened. He said updates to the festival had been made in recent years but weren't able to solve some lingering security issues.

The event cancellation will not affect Festival Foods' annual fireworks show July 4 at Menominee Park that the city continues to fund and cover security costs. Rohloff said city officials will also work directly with organizers of the veterans parade held during that week similar to its involvement with the Memorial Day parade.

Hazel Street reconstruction from Irving Avenue south this year is going to have a large impact on traffic in the park area regardless, Rohloff noted, for which the lack of a larger event will provide some relief for the neighborhood's sake.

"I think some people are going to step forward" to help create an updated event for the Independence Day holiday, Rohloff said. "I think we need to take a step back and just give ourselves a year of rest and then seek input from the public about what they would like to see in the future."

Sawdust Days was named to honor the city's lumber history and featured three stages of music and other attractions such as a flea market, historic village and children's activities. It has been a funding source for local nonprofit and service groups, and the largest source of revenue for Oshkosh AMVETS Post No. 7 that went to projects such as United Cerebral Palsy, military funeral services, student scholarships and state veterans hospitals.

Boeing 747 anniversary being shared with AirVenture

By Dick Knapinski
EAA COMMUNICATIONS

The 50th anniversary of the Boeing 747, the iconic wide-body jetliner that has carried everything from heads of state to the space shuttle, will be celebrated at EAA AirVenture Oshkosh this year, which is also marking its 50th year here.

Several Boeing 747s are expected to make an appearance at AirVenture during the week, with fly-bys and displays on the showcase Boeing Plaza. It will extend a legacy of the airplane's appearances at Oshkosh that include jumbo jets from as far away as Australia, New Zealand and Iceland in past years.

The 67th annual Experimental Aircraft Association fly-in convention is July 22-28 at Wittman Regional Airport.

"There is probably no modern commercial airliner that is as well-known as the Boeing 747, with its distinctive hump at the front of the fuselage," said Rick Larsen, EAA's vice president of communities and member programs, who coordinates

An Air Atlanta Icelandic 747 turns off the runway at Wittman Regional Airport after landing there during AirVenture 2002.

AirVenture features and attractions. "For a half-century, the 747 has allowed people to reach destinations around the world in ways that were unimaginable when commercial air travel began more than 80 years ago."

The genesis of the Boeing 747 came in the mid-1960s when Pan American Airlines founder Juan Trippe asked Boeing to design an aircraft that could meet the rising demand of air travel, which was outstripping the capacity of the Boeing 707s then commonly used for long-distance routes. The Boeing 747 made its maiden flight Feb. 9, 1969, and entered airline service less than a year later.

The airframe has been continually upgraded over the past 50 years to the current 747-8 model, which has been selected as the aircraft the U.S. government will use for the U.S. president's new Air Force One.

The 747 is still widely used by global airlines and carriers and, according to Boeing, has carried roughly the equivalent of the world's population as well as such unusual cargo as the space shuttle.

More aircraft and programs in conjunction with AirVenture's 50th anniversary will be announced as they are finalized.
