County pressure on coroner grows

Winnebago chairman adds to resignation calls

By Miles Maguire
HERALD CONTRIBUTOR

The chairman of the Winnebago County Board of Supervisors has added his voice to the calls for the resignation of its county coroner.

"Based on what I know, assuming it is accurate, I think it would be best for all involved if the coroner resigned," Shiloh J. Ramos, of Neenah, said. "That is not a statement I take lightly."

Barry L. Busby has come under fire for his treatment of associates and his extended absences from office. He has also been the subject of an ethics investigation by the Wisconsin Coroners and Medical Examiners Association based on allegations of sexual harassment.

Busby has defended the performance of his office and given no indication of plans to step down.

Ramos joins County Executive Mark Harris, Sheriff John Matz and Supervisor Bill Wingren, who heads the board's Judiciary and Public Safety Committee, in

Women vs. men in poverty – the differences and why

By Samantha Strong
HERALD CONTRIBUTOR

While poverty affects all who experience it, the impact is oftentimes harder on women.

There are many reasons for this outcome, according to a 2017 study from the Women's Fund of the Oshkosh Area Community Foundation, including the fact that women typically earn less than men. That wage gap compounded over time adds up to a significant amount by the end of a career.

Pair that with women often being responsible with the costs of raising children, and even custodial mothers are twice as likely to be poor as custodial fathers.

With women being the more likely victims of domestic and sexual violence, it can push them into a cycle of poverty through related job loss, poor health and homelessness. Women in Oshkosh are equally exposed to these circumstances, especially as government-funded programs geared toward women's health care continue to see a reduction or halt in funding.

According to the Women's Fund report, female-headed households in northeast Wisconsin make up the majority of those living below the poverty line – with or without children. Female-headed households account for 28 percent of those in the region, but 59 percent fall below that line.

This is largely unchanged from 2009 data. The annual federal poverty line (FPL) for a family size of three – one woman and two children – is $21,330, or $1,777.50 a month.

According to the Basic Economic Security Test (BEST), the income required for security in a three-person household in Winnebago County that has one worker (employed with benefits), one preschool-

Audubon cleanup effort resumes at Millers Bay

Winnebago Audubon invites the public to help with an ongoing Millers Bay shoreland restoration project near Ames Point, which is part of Menominee Park on the north end of the bay. The group along with Friends of Menominee Park Shoreland will do its next maintenance effort there from 9 to 11 a.m. Saturday.

Woody growth will be removed, along with weeding and litter pickup. Long pants and gloves are recommended for volunteers.

Friends of Menominee Park Shoreland works in collaboration with the city to maintain native plant sites, protecting and restoring the shoreline. The group was formed in 2011 after a city aquatic management plan report found the Millers Bay shore to be "incredibly poor and provides no aesthetic, habitat or buffering value to the bay.

Turf maintenance along the bay's shoreline leads to increased runoff of nutrients, sediments and other pollutants to Lake Winnebago, while providing appealing loafing grounds to nuisance levels of Canada geese."

Since then a restoration site behind the pump house has been added as well as a small prairie behind an Oshkosh Housing Authority apartment complex. Several groups come out every season, and the continuation of these projects was unanimously supported in November 2017 by the Parks Advisory Board to continue through next year.

For more information, contact michelle.bogden@gmail.com. Other work projects are set for 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. July 3 at the pump house site, 9 to 11 a.m. July 20 at Ames Point, 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. July 31 at the pump house site, 9 to 11 a.m. Aug. 24 at Ames Point, 9 to 11 a.m. Sept 14 at both locations, and 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. Oct. 2 at the pump house site.

Man shot Saturday, three men arrested

Three men were taken into custody in connection with a shooting Saturday afternoon in the 400 block of High Avenue that left a man injured with multiple gunshot wounds.

Oshkosh police investigated a weapons complaint that occurred in the yard of a residence. Suspects left in a vehicle after the handgun shooting that sent the man to a hospital for non-life-threatening injuries. Police located the vehicle and took five people into custody for questioning.

A 26-year-old male faces charges of attempted homicide and reckless endangerment. A 23-year-old man was to be charged as a felon in possession of a firearm, obstruction and four outstanding warrants. A third man, 27, was also arrested for obstructing. Police said the investigation is continuing.

Climate group works on collaborative policy change

By Amy Knoll-Owen
Herald contributor

A climate group in Oshkosh wants to get everyone involved in solving climate change, one letter at a time.

The Citizens' Climate Lobby (CCL) is a national group that utilizes chapters throughout the country to lobby for bipartisan support for the Energy Innovation and Carbon Dividend Act. The Oshkosh chapter has been around for about a year.

The group's goal is for members to lobby their representatives and senators to support the act. CCL hopes to ultimately "develop political will not just among the people who joined our group, but among people in general," said Pat Hallquist, a volunteer with the Oshkosh chapter.

Hallquist

The bill is meant to encourage reduction of carbon emissions by assessing fees on fossil fuels. The fees would be returned to citizens in the form of monthly shares, and a border carbon adjustment would be assessed on imports and exports. Finally, the bill would pause certain Environmental Protection Agency regulations around carbon dioxide emissions.

According to CCL, the act helps strike middle ground by encouraging actions beneficial to the environment while still allowing freedom of choice.

While individual actions are important to help limit climate change, government action is needed too, said Hallquist.

"It's good for individuals to do things, but you need people to do things," she said. "As a nation we need to do things, as a world we need to do things."

There is only one Republican co-sponsor for the bill, but CCL hopes to grow that number. Oshkosh chapter volunteers are contacting their representatives and senators in Oshkosh and Washington. They're also meeting with members of Congress during lobbying events.

"The concept is really very simple," Shannon Davis-Foust, coordinator of the Oshkosh chapter, said. "Their obstacle is getting people to realize that they can effect change, that they are integral to the United States doing something about climate change."

She has encountered this difficulty in her teaching at the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh. While it's critical to get people involved in climate change solutions, she said, it's a challenge.

Meetings are open to everyone and there are no dues. The chapter meets every fourth Wednesday and posts meeting announcements on its Facebook page. Those interested in being added to the roster can find the Oshkosh chapter on the CCL website and fill out a form.

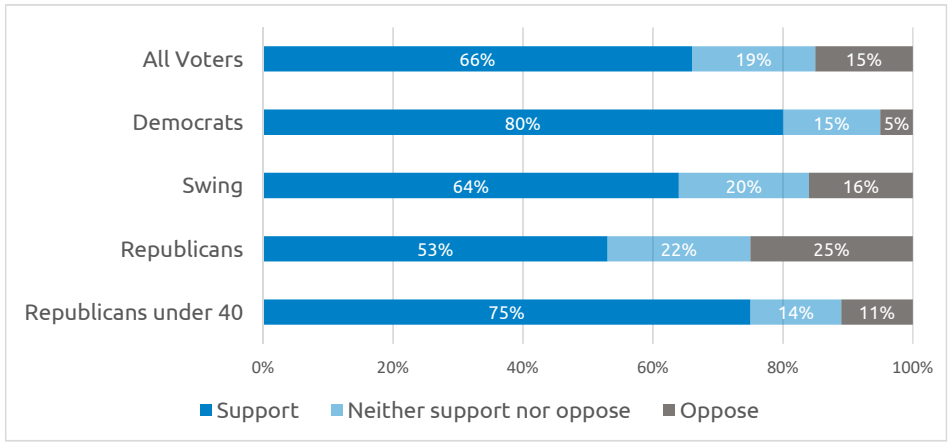
Davis-Foust

Those unable to attend meetings can get involved by contacting representatives. The national group provides templates for people to contact their elected officials, according to Hallquist.

"It's a little different approach than doing a protest or a march," Hallquist said.

Voters support a carbon fee with dividends

Two-thirds of American voters support a fee on carbon with revenue returned to households as a regular dividend check. There is support across all parties including a majority of Republicans and three-quarters of Republicans under 40.



This Luntz Survey was commissioned by the Climate Leadership Council in promoting its carbon dividends proposal.

Energy Innovation and Carbon Dividend Act

Introduced as H.R. 763 in the House and S. 3791 in the Senate, the policy was introduced in November with these basic ideas:
Carbon fee: The policy puts a fee on fossil fuels like coal, oil and gas. It starts low and grows over time.
Carbon dividend: The fee money would be allocated in equal shares every month to citizens to spend as they see fit. Program costs are paid from fees collected.
Border carbon adjustment: To protect U.S. manufacturers and jobs, imported goods will be assessed a border carbon adjustment, and goods exported from the United States will receive a refund.
Regulatory adjustment: This policy preserves current regulations but pauses the EPA authority to regulate CO2 and equivalent emissions covered by the fee for the first 10 years.

"They're trying to have it so people in each chapter are building a relationship with their representative, so that the representative realizes, 'Hey, this is a group that I know who feels this is important.' And it's trying to build a collaborative relationship, not an adversarial relationship."

The CCL Oshkosh chapter web page is under https://citizensclimatelobby.org/chapters and on Facebook by searching CCLOC1. The group has a table at the Farmers Market on July 20, Aug. 24, Sept. 14 and Oct. 5.

Town of Oshkosh subdivision plan gets backing

By Tom Ekvall
Herald contributor

A three-lot land subdivision in the Town of Oshkosh that would create a five-acre site that could be used to build one single-family home was unanimously recommended for approval last week by the Oshkosh Plan Commission.

The parcel is at the south 3900 block of Brooks Road, about a half-mile west of County T and currently used for agricultural purposes. The entire tract is almost 64 acres involving two lots. The action would enable residential development of the five-acre site.

Plan Commission member Justin Mitchell raised questions at the June 18 meeting about the importance of agriculture preservation and asked whether the city maintains records about agriculture land in the area. Mark Lyons, Planning Services Manager, said the city does not keep such records.

Mitchell said the comprehensive plan references an average of a 10 percent loss in farmland in Winnebago County over the last decade, adding that the proposal makes sense. Lyons also said there is no city protocol to make up the loss of farmland use in other areas.

Lyons said that four or five years ago the city had more authority for extraterritorial subdivisions and platting, but that most of it has been taken away under state law.

The commission also unanimously recommended approval of an annexation to the city of land within the Town of Oshkosh at 575 W. Snell Road, requested by the property owner. The Gilman annexation request is prompted for the property to receive city sanitary sewer due to the failing on-site sewerage system.

Nau said city sanitary sewer and water mains were constructed in front of the property in 1984 and 2002, adding that the Public Works Department does not have any problems with the annexation request. He said properties along West Snell are annexing into the city as their septic systems start to fail.

The commission also recommended approval of an access control variance for reduced lateral clearance on property at 1222 W. South Park Ave. The variance will allow 30-foot lateral clearance where city codes require a minimum of 75 feet. The applicant is requesting the change to build a new parking area in front of an office building.

Sadoff obtains R2 certification

Sadoff E-Recycling & Data Destruction has achieved certification to the R2 Responsible Recycling international standard for electronics recyclers at each of its processing facilities in Oshkosh and La Vista, Neb.

R2 is the leading standard for electronics repair and recycling that provides a set of processes, safety measures and documentation for businesses that repair and recycle electronics.

"We consider ourselves in an elite class that has proven our security, processes, environmental commitment and safety standards allowing us to operate as an internationally recognized recycling solution for businesses located throughout the Midwest and beyond," Jason Lasky, Sadoff executive vice president, said in a statement. "We look forward to enhancing the accessibility of certified and secure recycling throughout our region."

Sadoff E-Recycling & Data Destruction is part of Sadoff Iron & Metal Co., based in Fond du Lac and a third-generation family business that offers ferrous and nonferrous metal recycling services.

Welding boot camp sessions scheduled

The Manufacturing and General Studies divisions at Fox Valley Technical College are holding two test-drive events for people interested in accelerated pathways to welding careers July 9 and 17 at the college's Advanced Manufacturing Technology Center, 4200 Poberezny Road. Each free informational session runs from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

College educators will cover attendance expectations, equipment and materials, and an internship component. After 30 days students begin working under a paid internship with an area employer. Students earn a welding certificate and an opportunity to work for a local company. Students without a high school diploma can also enroll. The 14-week program begins in fall and runs from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily and free for qualifying students, less a $6 insurance fee.

Verona gardens day trip offered

Winnebago County Master Gardeners are taking a motorcoach trip July 13 to Allen Centennial Gardens, Olbrich Botanical Gardens and the Epic Systems Center in Verona.

The $50 cost includes motorcoach travel, admissions, tour costs and tips. Participants are asked to bring their lunch, snacks and refillable water bottle. The group will leave the Coughlin Center at 6:45 a.m., the Oshkosh Penney's parking lot at 7 a.m. and the former Home Depot store in Fond du Lac at 7:20 a.m. The bus will return at about 6 p.m. Call Marge at 920-420-8472 with questions and registration information.

Steam engines collide head-on: Six were killed and 40 were injured Sunday when two steam engines collided head-on. The accident occurred Sunday morning at 10:10 a.m. when a train traveling north from Fond du Lac and Oshkosh with 800 excursionists collided with a southbound freight train from Green Bay. The Arion Band was on board en route to play in Sangerfest in Green Bay. Most of their instruments were destroyed or severely damaged. The front two passenger cars "telescoped" and most of the deaths and injuries occurred here. One of the fatally injured was an Oshkosh man, Charles Mierswa. The others were from Fond du Lac and Ashland. Preliminary investigations showed the passenger train had the right of way and had the men on the freight strictly followed orders the accident would've been prevented. The freight crew thought it had enough time to clear the main track before the passenger train arrived, but before it could back on to the siding, the passenger train came around the curve and crashed into the freight. The accident occurred near De Pere and the tracks were cleared by 2:35 p.m. Sunday.

Capturing the scene

Tom Smith of Wauwautosa couldn't find inspiration at Menominee Park on Friday morning so he back-tracked his construction-detoured route until he found the barn that had been calling to him on his previous drives past it. The barn is on County A near the Harrison Street intersection. Smith was taking part in the Oshkosh Fine Arts Association's Plein Air Festival held last weekend, which featured public showings of local and national artists throughout the city.

UW-Oshkosh misconduct case works for resolution

By Miles Maguire
Herald contributor

At the request of a state prosecutor who says a "global resolution" is in the works, the trial of two former University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh officials for misconduct in office has been delayed once again.

"The parties are making substantial progress in resolving the case," said Randall Schneider, an assistant attorney general.

The case was filed in April 2018 against former Chancellor Richard Wells and former Vice Chancellor Thomas Sonnleitner. It alleges that the two exceeded their legal authority to facilitate real estate transactions involving the UW Oshkosh Foundation. Neither profited personally from the deals.

Both Wells and Sonnleitner, who pleaded not guilty, were due in court June 20 but now are not expected back until Aug. 29. This is the second postponement of scheduled hearings in the case.

Wells and Sonnleitner also stand accused of misconduct in a civil case that was filed in Dane County in January 2017. That case was put on hold so that a rash of claims could be resolved between the foundation and the UW System.

Now that the foundation and the UW System have resolved their differences, it's not clear how much of a case the state still has against the two former university officials.

While the state agreed to a settlement that involved an outlay of cash, it also received significant real estate assets in return. The system's Board of Regents said it was "pleased" with the outcome.

"We will need an additional 60 days to address the civil claims," Schneider wrote to the judge. "By addressing the civil claims, we intend to reach an agreement to resolve the restitution claim in the criminal case."

The criminal charges carry stiff fines and potential jail terms, but the complaints served against Wells and Sonnleitner do not mention restitution. Schneider did not immediately respond to a request for clarification.

"The defense has requested a global resolution of all civil and criminal claims," Schneider told the judge.

An attorney for Wells, Raymond Dall'Osto, was tight-lipped about the situation. "Discussions about possible settlement of the criminal and civil cases have been and continue to be ongoing," he wrote in an email message. "That's all I can say at this time."

Although the next court date for his client is described in the court file as a "plea hearing," Dall'Osto referred to it as "further proceedings."

ArtSpace features prints

ArtSpace Collective will host a one-day exhibition Saturday called Place to Hold 2018, a project organized by Gail Panske that features 86 relief prints.

Some 99 artists and non-artists were invited to participate, each using a piece of plywood and rocks to create images that capture the special visual representation of the action of a stone hitting the wood.

Place to Hold will be on display at 7 Merritt Ave. and open during the downtown Farmers Market from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. or by appointment.

New ministry Dwelling 2:22 features summer concerts

A new ministry in Oshkosh is starting to bring local, regional and national acts to perform monthly concerts at the facilities of Calvary SonRise at 222 Church Ave.

Dwelling 2:22 is seeking to engage like-minded churches in the community to partner in filling a niche for faith-based entertainment events, according to event coordinator Mike Braun.

Internationally recognized trumpeter Don Shire opened the concert series last week. Fish Sticks Improvisational Comedy group from Milwaukee will be featured in the next performance July 18; tickets are $10 for adults; $5 for children and seniors. Going through the ministry website at dwelling222.net takes 20 percent off those prices.

County coroner

calling for a change in leadership in the coroner's office.

"In terms of the coroner situation, I certainly think it is unfortunate," Ramos said. "I am concerned for both the coroner's office and the coroner himself given the situation."

Because Busby holds an elected office, he does not have any administrative supervisor in county government. To remove him from office would take a recall election or action by the governor, Harris said.

Frustrated by their lack of control over the situation, some county officials are once again considering the medical examiner model for handling suspicious deaths.

"That's an issue that's come up many times," Harris said. Wingren said he has already begun the process of looking "into all the aspects of getting a medical examiner, which we should have done long ago."

Most Wisconsin counties have a choice between using an elected coroner or an appointed medical examiner. Currently 40 counties, out of 72, have a medical examiner, according to the Department of Health Services. Because of their size, Milwaukee and Dane are required to use medical examiners.

Over the last five years the statewide trend has been away from coroners and toward the use of medical examiners. Most of the counties that border on Winnebago County use medical examiners, including Calumet, Waupaca, Waushara and Fond du Lac. Outagamie and Green Lake counties have coroners.

"Medical examiners tend to have more qualifications, but they are also paid more," Harris said. "Elected coroners don't necessarily have to have qualifications, but they are generally paid a little less."

Under state law, coroners or medical examiners are authorized to investigate deaths in which there are unexplained, unusual or suspicious circumstances, homicides, suicides, deaths after an abortion, all poisoning deaths, accidental deaths, and in cases where a physician either refuses to sign the death record or cannot be obtained to sign the certification as required within six days.

Coroners can appoint deputy coroners to carry out these investigations, and one of the criticisms of Busby is that he is relying too much on his deputies while he is out of state, which in turn drives up costs.

Asylum Point bridge work gets funding through grant

The Asylum Point Island bridge, which has been damaged over the years from ice shoves, will get a new span structure through a $100,000 grant from the Fox River Natural Resource Trustee Council.

The Winnebago County Parks Department recently announced the grant for the bridge replacement that is expected to solve ice problems that plagued the piling-style span.

Asylum Point, featuring a lighthouse, is a jetty of land on the central western shore of Lake Winnebago just north of Oshkosh with a park area on what is known as Asylum Bay. The name comes from the Northern Asylum for the Insane built there in 1871, later the Winnebago Mental Health Institute.

The Natural Resource Trustee Council has focused on more than 100 projects in the past decade that support recovery, protection and enhancement of natural resources of the lower Fox River and Green Bay ecosystem, including resources that have been damaged from the release of PCBs into the land and water.

The group is composed of the state Department of Natural Resources, Menominee Nation, Oneida Nation of Wisconsin, U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

Catholic Foundation's 130 grants serve local programs

The Catholic Foundation has made available $4.6 million in distributions supporting ministries and causes in the areas of education, service and ministry through more than 130 grants based on an application process. The next opportunity to submit applications will be in October.

Some grants recently funded in the Oshkosh area:

The UW-Oshkosh Newman Center received a $1,000 Advancing the Mission Evangelization Endowment grant to continue a program to bring 60 students through a catechetical experience with a meal and discussion. This also includes a scholarship for each student to attend one of two retreat opportunities.

St. Raphael the Archangel Parish received a $750 Advancing the Mission Evangelization Endowment grant to plan and host two Kyrios retreats this year. The retreats are facilitated by a high school peer-ministry team.

Most Blessed Sacrament Parish received a $1,500 Advancing the Mission Evangelization Endowment grant to assist in exhibiting original works from local Catholic and Christian artists. This includes paintings, icons, photos, sculptures, metal or fabric art, poetry and music.

4H fashion project features creativity

Youth from Winnebago, Fond du Lac and Dodge counties recently held their annual 4-H Fashion Review at the James P. Coughlin Center, where they modeled and displayed garments they created that were judged on presentation, creative selection, care and workmanship.

The creativity was shown through garments for babies, sleepwear, aprons, formal dresses and vests, and even a sweatshirt for the family dog. Judges were Heidi Hensel-Buntrock and Sue Putra; 4-H alumna Adia Kolell was the emcee.

Many of these garments will be on display and judged again on construction and workmanship at their local county fairs, including the Winnebago County Fair from July 31 through Aug. 4.

Community Foundation awards $180,000 to graduates

The Oshkosh Area Community Foundation awarded 151 scholarships totaling $180,300 to graduating high school seniors in the area. The awards were presented to students during individual school ceremonies in May and June.

A total of $367,395 was awarded to more than 300 students, including scholarships from the Omro Area Scholarship and Education Foundation ($68,870), Neenah Joint School District ($67,950), Ripon Education Foundation ($14,500) and Winneconne Area Community Foundation ($35,775). A list of recipients can be found at www.OshkoshAreaCF.org.

The foundation administers more than 200 scholarship funds and monitors the progress of more than 200 multiyear scholarship recipients each year.

Club plans for 50th

The Boys & Girls Club of Oshkosh is kicking off preparations for a 50th anniversary celebration by mobilizing former members, staff volunteers and supporters to reach out and share their experiences through the years and be a part of the celebration.

Those who have been a part of the Boys & Girls Club of Oshkosh organization are asked to connect with the club and receive an invitation to the anniversary celebration through bgcosh.org/alumni-friends or contacting Tracy Ogden at tracyo@bgcosh.org or 920-233-1414, ext. 116.

Women in poverty

er and a school-age child is $57,800 annually, or an hourly wage of $27. Most full-time jobs in northeast Wisconsin held by women, according to the Women's Fund report, are considered office and administrative support with a median annual wage of $33,000.

The ALICE (Asset-Limited Income-Constrained Employed) report does not list a survival budget for the same family size but puts a survival budget for a home with two adults, one preschooler and an infant at $64,092 annually, or $32 hourly, between the two adults.

The latest ALICE report states that in 2016 there were 26,294 households in Oshkosh, of which 46 percent are below either the ALICE threshold or FPL.

"It's easy to say pull yourself up by your bootstraps if you have bootstraps," Sue Panek, former United Way chief executive, said. "If you don't know the situation, it's easy for you to judge, but you don't know what someone's going through. We need to educate the community on the dynamics of poverty so they understand how hard people living in poverty actually work."

City poverty profile

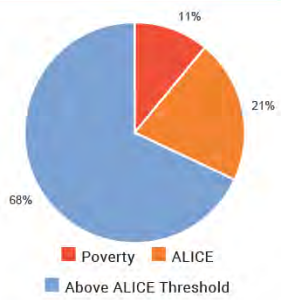
Before the issue of eliminating poverty for Oshkosh women can be dealt with, it's critical to understand what poverty looks like in the community. Oshkosh is unique in that the city's geography isn't large but isn't too small as a metro area. It's close enough to bigger cities such as Green Bay or Milwaukee that relocation is manageable, but far enough away that the population is smaller and in turn are fewer people competing for limited resources and benefits.

Even though more than half of the population is considered self-sufficient — enough money to meet basic needs without assistance — there are more people here struggling than in many surrounding communities.

ALICE IN WINNEBAGO COUNTY

2016 Point-in-Time Data
Population: 169,886
Number of Households: 69,943
Median Household Income: $56,754 (state average: $56,811)
Unemployment Rate: 4% (state average: 4.1%)
ALICE Households: 21% (state average: 25.8%)
Households in Poverty: 11% (state average 11.7%)

Household Survival Budget
Single Adult: $20,400 (or $10.20 hourly wage)
2 Adults, 1 Infant, 1 Preschooler: $64,092 (or $32.05 hourly wage)



The rise in population is part of the reason Oshkosh has been seeing an uptick in the need for program funding. The city is expanding at a rapid rate while legislative support for governmental programs such as FoodShare, affordable housing assistance and Women, Infants and Children (WIC) remains stagnant.

"Poverty is like a wound, and when it bleeds, it opens you up to predators and it keeps getting worse and worse," said Teri Horner, financial counselor with FISC, the Financial Information and Service Center. FISC is a program of Goodwill Industries of North Central Wisconsin and offers personal financial counseling.

Horner said that already between January and April there were 168 women and 98 men seeking help from FISC. Over the entirety of 2018, the agency saw 249 women and 107 men.

A majority of the women Horner assists are newly divorced or separated from their significant other due to domestic violence situations.

"A lot of them are struggling to work jobs that are paying minimum wage or just above that, and the cost of day care is killing them," she said, touching on one of the biggest barriers that many Oshkosh women face: the lack of affordable, reliable child care.

Panek echoed Horner's concern for the lack of affordable child care but also noted many jobs available don't have the flexibility needed by women with caregiving responsibilities.

"There are plenty of jobs out there, but again, you have to show up for work and work a full shift," Panek said. "What happens if that shift goes a little longer or you're working outside of the hours the bus runs and you need to pick up the kids from day care? There are also plenty of second- and third-shift jobs, but what are you going to do with the kids if you have them?"

Another group of women struggling are those ages 75 and older. They are twice as likely as men in the same age group to be in poverty, according to the Women's Fund. Although elderly women often qualify for Social Security benefits that keep them above the FPL, they are still at risk.

Forty-six percent of all elderly unmarried females receiving benefits relied on Social Security for 90 percent or more of their income in 2014, and elderly women are less likely than men to have significant family income from pensions. This can often relate to the inequality of wages these women have experienced over their lifetimes.

"When you try to exit poverty, it isn't just like showing your passport and getting into a different country," Horner said. "It takes a lot of time to get out of poverty, which is something a lot of people don't understand. This didn't happen overnight and it's not going to get solved overnight."

Housing challenges

Affordable housing is one of the top three barriers Oshkosh women in poverty face. Not having a safe place to stay affects every other aspect of life, according to Matt Johnson, director of the Day By Day Warming Shelter. The overall lack of affordable housing paired with low wages has led to an increased demand for alternate options – including staying in a shelter.

Typically 20 percent of Day By Day's guests are women and the rest are men, but Johnson said this year that number is up to 30 percent. Because the shelter does not discriminate against those with substance abuse or mental health issues children younger than 18 are not allowed, making women with children ineligible to stay there.

The other shelter in Oshkosh — Father Carr's on North Koeller Street — accepts children but is about 3 miles from the city center, which requires added transportation challenges. If a woman and her children are trying to get there after the city bus stops running, alternatives are taxi or ridesharing such as Uber or Lyft, which require a smartphone and debit/credit card. Women with children can also stay at the Christine Ann Center near downtown, but only if they are fleeing a domestic violence situation.

Day By Day shelter has seen a significant increase in guests. Typically there are 130-140 unique guests each season but in 2018-2019 there were 162, Johnson said. There has also been an increase in transgender clients.

"We're seeing a lot of new homeless in our system this year," said Amanda Hammond, Day By Day Shelter operations manager. "They might be coming from somewhere that doesn't utilize our homeless management system, but I've had to add a lot of clients this year – people who have never been homeless before."

Johnson added, "This also led to an increase in the number of people we had to turn away."

Hammond and Johnson agree that women are more likely than men to be taken in by family or friends, especially if there are children involved, which influences the number and demographics of clients. Women are also more likely to sustain domestic abuse in order to keep their current housing situation.

Some circumstances special to homeless women include feminine hygiene needs and proper undergarments. While the shelter provides hygiene products, undergarments such as bras can be more difficult to provide, Hammond noted, due to the variety of sizes and fits.

Day By Day is only seasonal due to its operating agreement with the city and has 25 beds. Once full, guests are given a sleeping bag and a gift card to Hardee's across the street where they can buy something to remain a customer until the restaurant closes at 10 p.m. The shelter had to turn away 140 guests in its seventh season (2017-2018). Johnson said guests average 31 nights there before finding alternate housing.

While an increase in space would help, Johnson said they would still run into the same problems.

"What happens if we were able to increase our max to 50 and reach it? 75?" Johnson said. "What I see as the real issue here is the quantity of low-income units available."

Next week: Community resources for single mothers, the most vulnerable residents needing help.

YMCA golf outing

The Oshkosh Community YMCA is hosting its annual Charity Golf Outing at the Oshkosh Country Club on July 8 to benefit its annual campaign.

The event begins at 9:45 a.m. that includes a light breakfast, 18 holes of golf, hole games, food and drinks on the course, and raffle drawings. A hole-in-one contest offers a new Chevrolet Blazer.

Registration can be made at www.oshkoshymca.ejoinme.org.

Independence Day party moves downtown

Oshkosh Herald

The city's Fourth of July celebration shifts its party base to Leach Amphitheater and Riverside Park this year with a parade, concert and fireworks highlighting a one-day event downtown.

The Festival Foods fireworks display will launch from Pioneer Island across the river at dusk next Thursday instead of from its longtime Menominee Park location, which the cancellation of Sawdust Days and Hazel Street reconstruction work influenced for this trial run farther south.

"We're excited to try something new this year in lieu of the construction around Menominee Park," Parks Director Ray Maurer said. "With this adjustment comes new viewing locations in the downtown area. And, thanks to additional donations received, Wolverine Fireworks will be bringing us an even bigger show than in previous years."

Riverside Park and the Riverwalk will be open to the public to stake out a spot for the fireworks and be the site for free activities and entertainment for families provided with support from the business community and Downtown Rotary.

The city has created a map to assist with parking and viewing locations (shown below). Spectators also have the option of parking in the Lake Aire Plaza lot at Oregon Street and 20th Avenue and taking the free Oshkosh Jeweler's shuttle bus to a drop off at South Main Street and East 8th Avenue. Two buses will run from 7 p.m. until midnight.

A separate local fireworks display will be from Fire in the Sky over Fisk in the Town of Utica on Wednesday in the community's downtown area.

Inside the Leach grounds an American Made concert is set for 5:30 p.m. featuring the Oshkosh Symphony Orchestra and recording artist Cory Chisel. Tickets are $5 and available at AmericanMadeMusicCelebration.com, from Visit Oshkosh at 100 N. Main or at its Farmers Market booth.

The AMVETS local chapter is offering beer sales and concessions at the Leach from 4 to 11 p.m. as a fundraiser they previously ran from Sawdust Days, and primary sponsors of the concert are Oshkosh Corp. and The Howard.

Oshkosh Rotary Clubs are hosting family-friendly activities at Riverside, including music by Sound Sensations starting at 4 p.m. and giant yard games. The Oshkosh Noon Optimists will have a tent with free crafts and activities for children.

Downtown traffic times

Boaters, motorists and pedestrians should be aware of bridge closures before, during and after the fireworks, which will begin about 9:45 p.m.
The Canadian National train bridge will be closed at 9:30 p.m. and reopen for boat traffic about 10:30. The Main Street bridge will be open for boats and closed to vehicle traffic from 10 to 11 p.m. When the fireworks show concludes at about 10:30 p.m., the train bridge will open back up to allow boat traffic through. The Oregon Street, Main Street and Ohio Street bridges will move into the open position to allow boat traffic to clear for 15 to 20 minutes. They will then move into the closed position for about 30 minutes, allowing pedestrian and vehicle traffic. All bridges will resume normal operation by 11:30 p.m.

Oshkosh Honors Its Heroes will be the theme of the Fourth of July parade, touted as the largest in the region.

Parade committee member Anne Hauch said the route will start as in previous years on North Main Street at Ceape by the Oshkosh Convention Center beginning at 9 a.m., then right at East Irving Avenue.

The parade will end at Grove Street two blocks short of Menominee Park.

Southwest Rotary members will lead the procession in a U.S. Army Jeep from the Military Veterans Museum. Tom Weber and his Rotarian crew will be handing out American flags donated by First Weber Realtors, Oshkosh Defense and Southwest Rotary.

Celebration of Lights needs volunteers

Celebration of Lights is seeking volunteers to assist in setting up the holiday lights display at Menominee Park. Work on this year's display begins at 8:30 a.m. Oct. 21 and continues daily from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Volunteers are also needed for evenings beginning Nov. 29 at the entrance hut and Santa's workshop. Businesses and organizations are encouraged to volunteer as a group for a night. Groups will receive recognition on the digital signs at the park entrance.

Email thompsnoel@yahoo.com or call 920-233-5955. Information also can be found at www.oshkoshcol.org.

Grandparent's event set at UWO

Grandparents and their grandchildren ages 8 to 12 are invited by the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh Division of Online and Continuing Education to the campus for two days of education and exploration July 11 and 12 at the Third Annual Grandparent's University.

Four "majors" will be offered and taught by UWO professors, area school district teachers and local professionals: Amazing Astronomers, Animal Adventurers, Awesome Artists and Spectacular Scientists.

Participants can stay overnight in the new Horizon Village Residence Hall, eat meals together at Blackhawk Commons and explore the campus. A Titan-themed graduation ceremony will conclude the event.

For more information and to register, visit uwosh.edu/go/gu or contact the UWO Division of Online and Continuing Education at conted@uwosh.edu or 920-424-1129.

Haliburton on World Cup roster

Oshkosh North graduate Tyrese Haliburton was recently named to the USA Basketball U19 World Cup roster.

Haliburton, a sophomore at Iowa State, is the first Cyclone since 2009 to earn a spot. Haliburton and the rest of the USA basketball team traveled to Greece on Monday and will play in the tournament that kicks off June 29 and goes until July 7.

Haliburton was one of five players that played college basketball last season to make the 12-man roster.

The Oshkosh native had a strong freshman season, averaging 6.8 points, 3.4 rebounds, 3.6 assists and led the team in steals (54) and 3-point percentage (43).

Others named to the roster were Scottie Barnes (University School); Cade Cunningham (Montverde Academy, Fla.); Jalen Green (Prolific Prep); Kira Lewis Jr. (Alabama); Isaac Likekele (Oklahoma State); Evan Mobley (Rancho Christian School); Reggie Perry (Mississippi State); Jeremiah Robinson-Earl (IMG Academy, Fla.); Jalen Suggs (Minnehaha Academy); Trevion Williams (Purdue); and Ziaire Williams (Notre Dame H.S.).

West soccer player earns academic honors

Zach Janotha of Oshkosh West was one of 11 recently named to the WSCA (Wisconsin Soccer Coaches Association) Stefan's Academic All-State Team First Team. Aidan Godfrey (West), Payton Bartow (Oshkosh North) and Reilly Bartow (North) also were selected as honorable mention academic all-state team players.

Janotha was also selected as one of six recipients of the Mike Kabancia Scholarship as a member of Oshkosh United Soccer. A Wisconsin Youth Soccer Association scholarship is open to all current graduating WYSA members.

All-conference honors awarded to local athletes

SOFTBALL

Supple continues to rack up accolades

Oshkosh North senior Sydney Supple led the way for the Oshkosh North softball team once again this season, leading the Spartans to an undefeated 31-0 season and a WIAA Division 1 State Championship.

Supple was named the Fox Valley Association's top player this spring and was joined on the first team by Libby Neveau, Brooke Ellestad, Brie Gauthier and Sophie Avercamp.

Offensively, Supple batted .538 with four triples, 12 home runs and 49 RBIs while going 29-0 in the circle with 15 shutouts, allowing only 18 earned runs all season. She struck out 298 batters against only 12 walks.

Supple was also named Wisconsin Gatorade Player of the Year for the third straight season.

Oshkosh West had two players earn first-team honors in seniors Emily Miller and Lacey Cruz. West had a remarkable season as well at 19-10, falling to North in the sectional final.

Making second team for the Wildcats were juniors Leah Engstrom and Annika Johnson along with sophomore Taylor Emory. North's seniors Mathena Higgins and Courtney Day were named to the second team.

Earning honorable mention for North included junior Emma Leib and sophomores Emma Phillips, Mollie Bittner and Noelle Frank. West senior Brianna Geis and sophomore Tatum Duff were on the honorable mention team as well.

Senior Marley Wesenberg and freshman Sarah Blanchard received honorable mention.

BASEBALL

Stenson, Rebholz named to first team

Oshkosh North junior Charlie Stenson, along with Oshkosh West senior Joe Rebholz, were the two Oshkosh baseball players to earn first-team all-conference from the Fox Valley Association.

Stenson was a pitcher for the Spartans who finished 11-14 before falling to West Bend West in the regional playoffs.

Rebholz was top outfielder for the Wildcats, who went 8-15 this season before falling to West Bend East in the regional final.

Making second team were West juniors Riley Frey (pitcher) and Brad Meyer (second base) while teammates Kaden Wright (junior first baseman) and Alex Grey (senior utility player) earned honorable mention.

For the Spartans, Dylan Krumrei (senior shortstop) earned honorable mention.

In the Trailways, seniors Colton Clark and Jake Krueger, along with sophomore Jack McKellips, were the three Lourdes/Valley Christian baseball players to make first-team all-conference in the Trailways-East.

Making second team included seniors Trevor Bengson and Jack Dolan, along with junior Gavin Meyers. Sophomore Josh Bauer earned honorable mention.

Lourdes finished 8-13 this season and lost to Chilton in the regional.

GOLF

Krause from West named to FVA team

Oshkosh West's Trent Krause was the lone area golfer to make the all-conference teams in the Fox Valley Association, which was announced recently.

Krause was named to the third team, finishing with 25.5 all-conference points. Kaukauna's Brock Hilnak was the FVA player of the year and the team had two players on the first team.

In the Trailways-East, Peter Chartier of Lourdes was named to the first team after averaging a 49.87 this season. Horicon's Caleb LaBlanc had the top average of 45.75 in the east division.

GIRLS SOCCER

Lieder, Singstock garner first-team honors

Oshkosh North senior Elle Lieder and Oshkosh West senior Lauren Singstock were the two area players to make the Fox Valley Association first-team all-conference.

North finished 6-10-3 before losing to West De Pere in the regional final while West was 7-11-2 before falling to DSHA in the regional final.

Earning second team for West were senior Brecca Bettcher and junior Jocelyn Schmidt. North senior Saige Turner also made second team.

Getting honorable mention were West seniors Dakota Christensen and Kaitlyn Rock, and North senior Erin Schallhorn and junior Alexa Nieves.

In the Flyway Conference, Lourdes had four players make honorable mention in senior Maria Tushar, freshman Cielo Gutierrez, junior Mady Dunn and sophomore Lauren Hamill.

BOYS TENNIS

Spartans have two on all-FVA's first team

Oshkosh North had two members on the Fox Valley Association first team in Dane Laufer and Cade Schmitz – two juniors that led the No. 3 doubles team.

Oshkosh West also had a first-team selection in senior Jeremy Fleck, who earned it at No. 3 singles. West's top two singles players Grant and C.J. Counts earned second-team all-conference while the West top doubles team of Danny Rucinski and Aaron Jorgensen, along with West's No. 3 doubles team of Holden Robertson and Andres Larson, made honorable mention.

North's Kaulden Larson earned honorable mention at No. 4 singles.

BOYS TRACK & FIELD

Wendland takes three honors for West team

Oshkosh West had a handful of athletes on the Fox Valley Association all-conference teams and were led by Evan Wendland in three events.

Wendland was first team at 200 meters and second in the 100 and 400. Also earning honors individually were Nate Carlin, who was first team in the 100, while Sean Bougie was second in the long jump.

The 400 and 800 relay teams earned second team and honorable mention. Oshkosh North had two players honored – Jack Scherer was second in the 3,200 and Julien Harden was honorable mention in the high jump.

GIRLS TRACK & FIELD

Relays lead West in FVA

The relays did the best for Oshkosh West this season and the 400 and 800 relay teams both finished atop the conference.

Running on those teams were Megan Best, Nithya Ambati, Claire Sugrue and Devin Hable.

Best was honorable mention in the 100 while Rachel Mueller was first team in the pole vault.

For Oshkosh North, Ashley Wissink was a second-team selection in the pole vault.

Information for the Trailways Conference was not available.

Obituaries

Donald R. Meton

Donald R. Meton, 87, went to be with his Lord on Saturday, June 22, 2019. He endured many years of illness and always met sickness with great courage and great strength. The son of Harvey and Josephine Meton he was born in Oshkosh on August 31, 1931. On September 18, 1965 Don married Carole Wilson and God graced them with 53 years of marriage. He is survived by his wife Carole; son Mitchell (Sherry) Meton of Oshkosh, WI; daughters Pamela (Bob) Newell of Oshkosh, WI, and Angela (Jeremy) Moser of Valencia, CA; granddaughters Heather (Brian) Wuest of Hartford, WI, Ashley (Chris) DeBlois of Madison, WI; great-grandsons Scott Wuest and Jonathon DeBlois; sister Beverly Hinske of Menasha, WI; brother Michael Meton of Madison, WI.

Following high school graduation Don enlisted in the United States Marine Corps and proudly served his country in Korea. During his deployment there he often went off base, risking his own safety, to hunt deer and pheasant to give to the local population to supplement their food sources. He later returned to Oshkosh and was employed for 43 years with Oshkosh (Truck) Corporation.

After retirement he and Carole were fortunate to be able to travel and enjoy their retirement. Don was an avid hunter and an extremely talented bird carver. He held lifetime memberships in the Marine Corps League and the American Legion. He loved the outdoors and was a member of the Audobon Society and other environmental organizations.

The family wishes to thank the staff at Mercy Medical Center, Affinity Hospice, and Evergreen Community for their kind care during his last days with us.

In lieu of flowers, please donate in Don's memory to the Audobon Society or the organization of your choice.

A memorial service will be held at Konrad-Behlman Funeral Home, 100 Lake Pointe Dr. on Friday, June 28, 2019 at 3:00 PM. Visitation will be held at the funeral home from 1:00 PM until the time of the service. Military honors will follow the service.

State 21 bridge set for closing July 8-19

The city was informed last week by the Winnebago County Highway Department that the state Department of Transportation will be shutting down the Congress Avenue (State 21) bridge over the Fox River on weekdays from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. July 8 through July 19.

The Public Works Department said this was the first notice of the closure after meeting with the DOT last year about the six-month shutdown planned in December. This proposed work is related to the later closure but not mentioned previously.

The scheduled closing after the holiday weekend and before Rock USA and EAA events will impact vehicle and boating traffic. City Manager Mark Rohloff said in his newsletter that he has reached out to legislators to see if the work can be delayed and was to address the issue at this week's Common Council meeting.

Sky Pictures

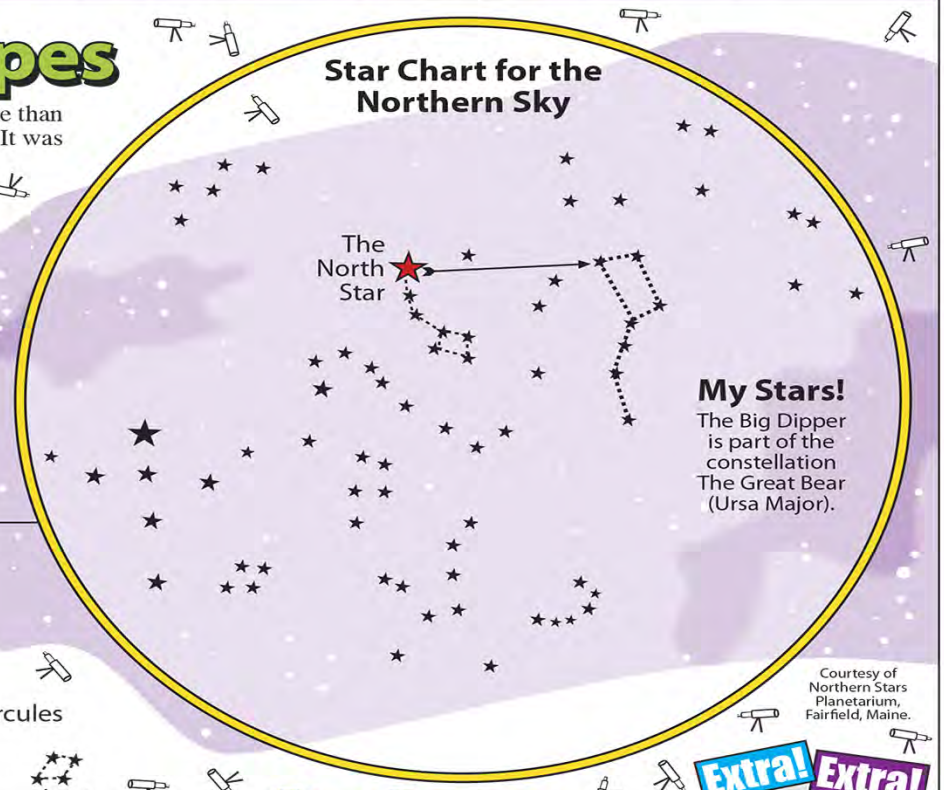
A huge dot-to-dot game is right above your head and you can play it on any cloudless night.

Stellar Shapes

The ancient Greeks contributed more than the Olympic Games to the world. It was in Athens that people first invented democracy, a government by the people, for the people. Ancient Greeks also contributed greatly to modern astronomy.

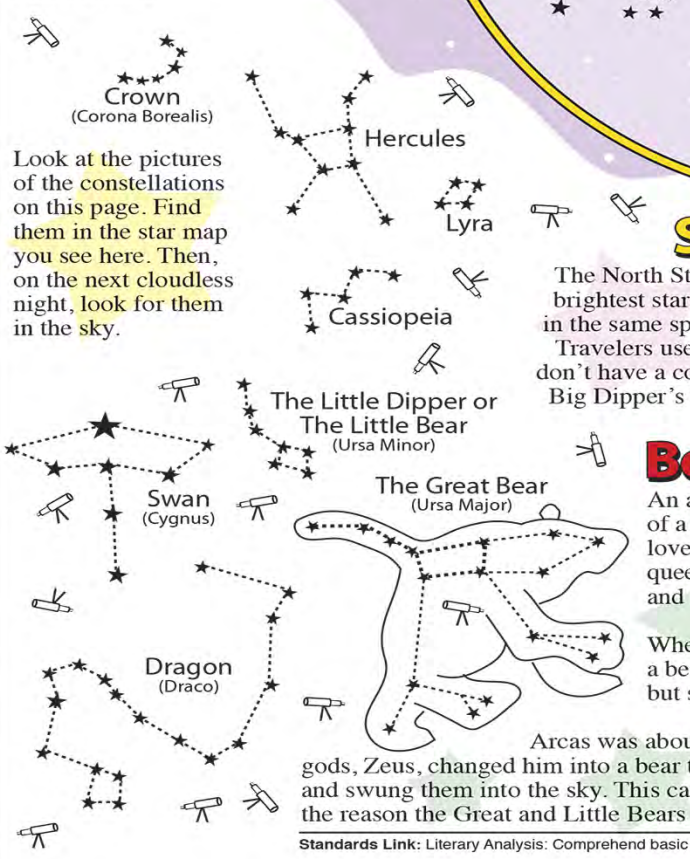
For thousands of years, people have looked at the stars in the sky and imagined shapes and patterns. The ancient Greeks saw that some stars formed groups that reminded them of people or animals or things like arrows and crowns. Today, we call groups of stars that make up pictures constellations.

Standards Link: Earth Science: Students know the patterns of stars and that different stars can be seen in different seasons.



Courtesy of Northern Stars Planetarium, Fairfield, Maine.

Look at the pictures of the constellations on this page. Find them in the star map you see here. Then, on the next cloudless night, look for them in the sky.



Star Power

The North Star or Polaris is not the biggest or the brightest star, but it is the most important. It stays in the same spot and can be used to find other stars. Travelers use it to find their directions when they don't have a compass. The two stars at the tip of The Big Dipper's bowl help you to find the North Star.

Bear Tails

An ancient Greek legend tells the story of a beautiful woman named Callisto who loved her son Arcas. One day the goddess queen, Hera, became angry with Callisto and turned her into a bear.

When Arcas went hunting he came upon a bear in the woods. It was his mother, but she couldn't tell him.

Arcas was about to kill the bear when the king of the gods, Zeus, changed him into a bear too. Zeus lifted the bears by their tails and swung them into the sky. This caused their tails to stretch and that is the reason the Great and Little Bears have long tails.

Standards Link: Literary Analysis: Comprehend basic plots of legends from around the world.

Extra! Extra!

Seeing Stars, Dots, Speckles, Stripes and Spots

Look through the newspaper and find and cut out pictures of dots, spots, speckles, stripes and STARS! Use these to create a new design.

Standards Link: Reading Comprehension: Follow simple written directions.

How many telescopes can you find on this page?

Kid Scoop Puzzler

Like civilizations that came before them, ancient Greeks gave constellations names. This one is a magical animal called Pegasus. Connect the dots to see what he looks like.

Kids Reading to Dogs

A recent study revealed that a "Reading to Dogs" program could provide a comfortable environment for a child to practice reading rather than read aloud to classmates and family. Sometimes the factor of making a mistake, especially in front of their peers, presents a reason to avoid reading.

Look for a "Reading to Dogs" program at your local library. Volunteers bring therapy- certified dogs who will sit quietly while being read to. Some programs even provide cats or rabbits.

The results of these programs have been very positive in improving literacy skills.
