Tattoo practices create layers of social visibility

Acceptance grows with new considerations

By Kaitlyn Scoville OSHKOSH HERALD

Justin Bieber, Post Malone, 6ix9ine, Miley Cyrus and more – we're seeing a rising presence of tattoos in media and on TV, but just how much more accepted are they now compared with previous years?

Chris James runs a tattoo shop by appointment on Sterling Avenue and says he won't give patrons a visible marking on their hands or faces unless he has a strong, lasting relationship with them.

"I've known a lot of people that I tattoo for over 10 years, or their families. You then get their brother, their sister, then their nephew ... a memorial tattoo for grandpa," James said. "I'd say I have a pretty personal relationship with the people I work with. I consider a lot of them my friends."

Carrie Olson of 920 Tattoo works on a customer recently.

In the industry nearly 15 years, he's noticed several trends – especially in the last five years. Younger people are going for visible tattoos earlier on.

In the early 2000s, James noticed customers getting several smaller home-done tattoos versus 2015 when people wanted large, flowing pieces. Now the simplistic, minimalist look is coming back.

"When I started tattooing, most people didn't go straight for the hands or the neck. You usually do your arm first and work your way down," James said. "Younger people don't have anything on their arms but want something on their hands or necks. (Doing that) can really restrict you from job advantages."

James said a friend of his with a lasting relationship got a hand tattoo from him, which he said ultimately cost him a job promotion.

After some time, the friend decided to get that tattoo lasered off, though the process is quite lengthy. Some treatments have to be done several times and several weeks apart.

"Even if it's something tasteful, those are challenges people can face that I try to tell them. Is this a job you're going to want for the rest of your life? Later on, what you like might change," he said. "I call it 'artistic evolution.' Once you evolve and your perspective changes, you realize what you really like."

920 Tattoo Company owners and spouses Carrie Olson and Steve Anderson have seen similar evolution since opening in 2012. Olson said now that they've been seen on TV for several years, tattoos have become more widely accepted by younger generations.

Anderson said it wasn't uncommon for people around them to pull their children away or avoid contact.

"I think it's become a lot more normalized. But in the early days we got stared at a lot," Anderson said. Olson said now both children and parents alike tend to ask about them.

Anderson credits a growing acceptance of the art because major celebrities and influencers of all kinds are displaying them.

"The media – celebrities being tattooed

Algoma Blvd., other street projects discussed

By Kaitlyn Scoville Oshkosh Herald

Some residents may need to start preparing for next summer amid the city's 2022 capital improvement project (CIP) prospects for road and utility reconstruction

City director of public works James Rabe spoke on a special Oshkosh Media episode to discuss upcoming CIP projects and what residents can expect next summer. Among the largest projects slated is a one-mile stretch of Algoma Boulevard between Wisconsin Street and Congress Avenue, essentially affecting the University of Wisconsin Oshkosh, Oshkosh Public Museum and Paine Art Center and Gardens.

This stretch of Algoma is undergoing a complete reconstruction, including replacement of the sanitary sewer, water mains and storm sewers along with repaving the roadway.

Other utility projects include Vine Avenue between High Avenue and Algoma Boulevard; East 9th Avenue from South Main Street to Pioneer Drive; and East Lincoln Avenue from North Main Street to the railroad tracks.

Rabe said residents should keep in mind the restrictions that may be in place starting as early as March. Limited access to driveways include several hours some days for utility reconstruction and up to six weeks for repaving.

If residents have or know someone who has a difficult time getting around, Rabe said to call the engineering division at 920-236-5065 for them to help them with accommodations.

CIP projects will be divided among city expenses and special assessment costs for private property owners. Any work done from the water main to the curb – on the terrace – will be covered by the city. Anything done on private property will be assigned to property owners to cover.

More information and an interactive project map are at ci.oshkosh.wi.us. The full CIP informational presentation is on the Oshkosh Media YouTube channel.

High school stabbing defendant changes plea

By Kaitlyn Scoville
OSHKOSH HERALD

The student charged with attempted first-degree intentional homicide for the December 2019 attack on a police liaison at Oshkosh West High School has changed his plea just months before the scheduled jury trial.

School resource officer Michael Wissink was stabbed several times with a two-pronged barbeque fork while he and Grant Fuhrman, who was 16 at the time, were in his office Dec. 3, 2019, between the first and second hours of the school day.

Fuhrman was shot superficially in the chest during the struggle. Both Wissink and Fuhrman were hospitalized for treatment of their injuries.

Fuhrman was charged with attempted first-degree intentional homicide with a $1 million cash bond set. He changed his plea Thursday from not guilty by reason of insanity to not guilty by reason of mental disease or defect.

A plea of not guilty by reason of insanity claims that, according to Cornell University Law School, "the defendant claims they were so mentally disturbed or incapacitated at the time of the offense that they did not have the required intention to commit the crime."

Though similar, a plea of not guilty by reason of mental disease or defect may result in, in lieu of a criminal sentence or probation, time spent at an institution determined by the department of health services until they are no longer a threat to themselves or others, according to state statutes.

Five-sixths of jurors must agree on Fuhrman being not guilty by reason of mental disease or defect for it to be fully considered by the court.

"The person lacked substantial capacity either to appreciate the wrongfulness of their conduct or conform their conduct to the requirements of law," state legislation reads

With this, an evaluation is set to take place for Fuhrman leading up to the Dec. 6, two-week jury trial to determine his mental state.

Primo Italian restaurant closes

Oshkosh Herald

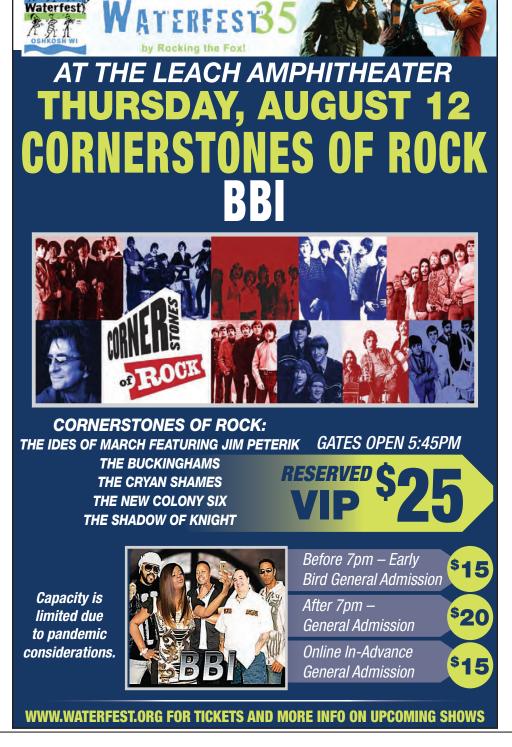

Primo Italian restaurant announced it has closed its doors at 2605 Jackson St. for good after a long spell of labor shortages.

"As all of our regular customers know, the past nine months have been a struggle for us due to lack of kitchen employees," the restaurant's Facebook page reads in a post. "We tried limiting our menu and hours in hopes to figure out a new plan and find more employees. Unfortunately, this did not happen."

Thanking all of its patrons over the past 14 years, Primo will honor larger parties prebooked through mid-September.

"Without our loyal customers and all the employees that stuck by us through all this, we can't thank you enough," the post continued. "Thanks to all those who let us help celebrate birthdays, funerals, showers, weddings and anniversaries.

"Hopefully we helped you create wonderful memories that last a lifetime."

Saturday farmers market distractions spark review

By Kaitlyn Scoville
Oshkosh Herald

New rules for the Oshkosh Farmers Market are under consideration to restrict amplification by groups unless permitted and controlled along the walkway after a clash of demonstrators using bullhorns took place in late June.

Michael Cooney, chair of the market's board, cited some instances for the city to review rules and change them to be in accordance with local ordinances.

"Early in our (June) market, I heard there was a riot. I head down there, and what's happening is we had two Christian fundamentalists with a very large sign, one with a bullhorn. And next to them were two young gay activists wishing everyone a happy Gay Pride Month, and they also had a bullhorn," Cooney said at a recent meeting.

"This was not good for business, particularly the vendors at that end of the market because people were looking at where the riot was but weren't buying."

Three police officers responded and they shut down the bullhorns but Cooney said they couldn't do much more. With this, the market board found it didn't have sufficient rules for the police to help enforce restrictions.

"So we started working on developing market rules that were enforceable, within city ordinances that were reasonable," he said

The board expressed concerns about restrictions of free speech. The group's attorney said there are three levels with public and private entities, with the market falling in-between.

"We've carefully defined where the market is and we are not on the sidewalk. So please, go do whatever you want to do on the sidewalk but not in the street," Cooney said.

Another instance at the following market involved a man speeding down the street on an electric bicycle, saying he was handicapped and that it was his "crutch." Cooney said a rule was subsequently added to limit mobility devices to the speed of market traffic.

"If we do need to involve the police, they (should) have the necessary tools to assist us in enforcing market rules," he said.

Three administrators named for school district

Assistant principals for the north-side middle school being built have been recommended pending Board of Education approval this week.

Amy Hughes, Merrill Middle School dean of students, and Jake Koellermeier, a special education teacher in the Weyauwega-Fremont School District, were selected by Superintendent Bryan Davis working with newly named Principal Kristi Levy. If approved, they will work to support the staff, students and families at Webster Stanley and Merrill campuses over the next two years until the new school opens in 2023.

Hughes, who will serve at the Merrill campus, has a degree in education from the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay and a master's in educational technology from Marian University, with her principal licensure from UW Oshkosh.

Koellermeier, who will serve at the Webster Stanley campus, has a degree in education and special education from UW Oshkosh and a master's in educational administration and supervision from UW-Milwaukee.

The district also recommended Shapiro STEM Academy Principal Trina Anderson as the next principal on assignment, responsible for development of principals and oversight of the district's eAcademy.

Anderson has a degree in elementary education and mathematics from UW Oshkosh and a master's in education curriculum and instructional education technology from Marian, where she completed principal and director of instruction

Webster Stanley Principal Philip Mar-

W Oshkosh requires masks on its campuses

Oshkosh Herald

The University of Wisconsin Oshkosh is requiring masks on its campuses for students, faculty, staff and guests regardless of vaccination status effective this week. The decision impacts the Fond du Lac, Fox Cities and Oshkosh campuses.

"This is not a decision we wanted to make, but at this time we believe it is needed to protect the health and safety of our campuses," Chancellor Andrew Leavitt said Monday.

University said they will continue to monitor COVID-19 transmission on campus and in the community and will revisit its protocols as warranted.

The decision does not affect policies or plans regarding in-person classes, return to work on campus or scheduled events. As staff and students return to campus, the university said it will be a critical time to control the spread of COVID-19.

The university has allowed vaccinated people to forgo a face covering in early June before a recent increase in COVID-19 cases attributed to the Delta variant caused campus officials to return to the mandate.

The UW System issued a statement in response to the joint committee's vote.

"Just as we have this past year, the UW System will continue to use its authority to take nimble and reasonable steps that enable us to keep our campuses open for the education students need, parents expect and Wisconsin deserves," UW System president and former Republican Gov. "With the opportunity for scholarships and the uptick in COVID-19 cases due to the Delta variant, now is the time to get the shot - and let us know that you've done so," UWO Chancellor Andrew Leavitt said. "Our campus case rate has been very low and we want to keep it that way."

nations and cases are trending upward in Winnebago County and the state, mostly due to the Delta variant of the virus.

The county's Health Department announced Thursday that with the substantial level of community transmission of COVID-19, it is recommending masks in all indoor public settings - including schools - and crowded outdoor venues regardless of vaccination status.

"Cases and hospitalizations have trended up since early July and are likely to continue. We need to work together to minimize the spread of COVID-19 and the impact it has on our community, schools and local economy," said Doug Gieryn, county health officer. "To help minimize the spread of this virus locally, we need to vaccinate and mask up to protect those not yet vaccinated and those with an insufficient immune response to the vaccine."

Davis and other district officials continue to urge students, parents and faculty to get vaccinated if they are not already. Classes begin Sept. 1 in the public schools and Aug. 24 at Lourdes Academy, where they are also having full-time, in-person classes with optional mask rules.

"Thank you for your understanding and cooperation as we begin the 2021-2022 school year. Your school principal will communicate any information more specific to each school site," Davis concluded.

Winnebago lakes shoreline projects promoted

The Fox-Wolf Watershed Alliance is developing a shoreline restoration program among its initiatives to improve water quality in the Winnebago lakes.

The program is being developed and coordinated by Emily Henrigillis, who has experience working on lakes around Wisconsin with a special interest in native plants.

"Native plants provide water quality benefits in addition to helping our butterflies, birds, and bees. The addition of native plants near shore can also help with keeping geese out," says Henrigillis, Winnebago Waterways program co-

Services for interested shoreland property owners include providing information about cost-sharing and grant opportunities, conducting site visits to assess project feasibility, training on installation and maintenance of shoreland plantings, and technical assistance. Shoreland practices include native plant buffers, small-scale infiltration and diversion practices, rain gardens and fish sticks.

Henrigillis plans to create demonstration sites in public spaces to showcase planting designs, coordinate and grow a volunteer-based native plant growing program, hold workshops and provide educational opportunities, and implement a Winnebago Waterways Shoreline Stewards recognition program.

The Winnebago lakes suffer from harmful algal blooms, low water clarity, eroding shorelines and degraded habitat. These issues are the result of several factors, including phosphorus and sediment pollution.

The new program is partially funded by a DNR Surface Water Grant to kick off a regional effort guided by the Winnebago Waterways Lake Management Plan completed last year.

"We are here to assist landowners with questions they may have regarding shoreline and raingarden projects and assist with applications for the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources Healthy Lakes and Rivers grant program" Henrigillis said. "We are also in search of shoreline stewards. These are people who have already taken the steps to improve the run-off leaving their property."

The Watershed Alliance is undertaking other projects to reduce phosphorus and sediment pollution from agricultural and urban sources and to enhance habitat in the system. Information about those projects is available at www.winnebagowaterways.org.

New North workplace award nominations sought

Applications are being accepted for the 2021-22 New North Workplace Excellence Award that recognizes organizations within the 18-county region that are improving their competitive advantage through people practices.

A collaboration between New North Inc. and Right Management, the award program evaluates submissions on orientation and assimilation; recruitment, selection and retention; culture management; engagement; diversity, equity and inclusion; development/performance management; employee communication; and succession/knowledge transfer. Business outcomes criteria include savings, growth, increased profitability and human resources impact outside the organization.

The award application consists of three phases. The form can be found at bit.ly/NNWorkplaceExcellence2021-22. Responses on the first phase are due by Oct. 1 to lisa.smith@ right.com.

"There are many organizations in the New North region doing great things," said Barb LaMue, New North president. "The Workplace Excellence Award allows us the opportunity to highlight the best of the best in our region. We encourage everyone to apply."

Winners will be announced at the annual New North Summit set for June.

New North is also seeking input from partners as it works to develop a proposal for the state's Workforce Innovation grant. Gov. Tony Evers announced the $100 million initiative July 14 to deal with post-pandemic workforce needs. Ideas and recommendations for the proposal New North is building can be submitted through bit.ly/NewNorth-Collaboration.

African violet contest set, foliage for sale

The Wisconsin Council of African Violet Clubs will hold its 57th annual African violet show and sale from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sept. 11 and 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sept. 12 at St. Jude the Apostle Church Hall.

Council president John Milroy said the annual event is a showcase of magnificently grown plants and artistic designs by members. Plants in the show will be evaluated by judges trained and recognized by the African Violet Society of America based in Beaumont, Texas.

There also will a large selection of plants, leaves, potting soil, pots and other supplies for sale. Members will be able to answer questions and help those who would like to grow African violets.

Judged categories include standard plants, green foliage, variegated foliage, blossom color, miniature plants, semi-miniature plants, plants with trailing foliage, original specie plants, new cultivars, plants in unusual containers, and plants in the same family other than African violet. The design section will feature blooming plants or blossoms removed from the plant displayed in a niche.

The show will also feature container gardens such as terrariums, dish gardens and natural gardens using blooming African violet plants, and designs using blossoms displayed underwater.

Shelter in need of items for summer support

The Day By Day Warming Shelter is running low on supplies in a couple of areas. Sleeping bags, instant noodle meals and bottled water are in need.

The shelter is closed for overnight service during the summer months and guests rely on sleeping bags to provide protection from bugs and weather.

Sleeping bags wear out quickly with constant use.

Donations can be dropped off from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m Monday through Thursday at 449 High Ave.

Longtime photo business adds online gallery option

Boyd Gibbs, in his sixth decade as a photographer based in Oshkosh, has launched an online gallery at gibbs-photography. com with the help of son Brad who turned his web programming work during the pandemic into a family business project.

Gibbs's interest in photography began in the early 1950s at age 14 working at Clark Photography in Stevens Point, where Clark later taught Boyd some darkroom techniques.

Boyd and his wife Karen settled in Oshkosh in 1965, where he taught English literature and coached the wrestling team at Oshkosh West High School while Karen taught first grade at Franklin Elementary School. Summer was art fair season for Boyd in towns across Wisconsin.

In the late 1990s and early 2000s, Boyd and son Scott converted respective darkrooms into offices, trading processing drums and enlargers for computers and large format printers.

Images on the site can be ordered printed on professional photo paper or aluminum with matting and framing options available. Contact info@gibbs-photography.com for more information.

ArtSpace features jazz art exhibit

ArtSpace Collective at 7 Merritt Ave. will be showing a jazz album and jazz photographs exhibition through this month.

The records on display are from the collection of ArtSpace member Cristian Andersson and features albums from the Blue Note and Prestige labels. The photographs are from the collection of photographer Natali Herrera-Pacheco, a Venezuelan artist and scholar that works on the intersection of music with other expressive forms.

The gallery is open from 5 to 8 p.m. Wednesdays and Thursdays, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturdays and 1 to 4 p.m. Sundays. It will also be open during the Oshkosh Jazz Fest on Aug. 28. For additional information contact Jim Evans at 426-3232 or artspacecollective@yahoo.com.

Tattoo culture

- has gone a long way to (them) being normalized. Miley Cyrus is covered with them or you'll see your favorite basketball or football player with them," Anderson said.

Even with professionals, Olson and James said they've had executives come in and have a fully tattooed back or leg sleeve.

"Tattooing has gotten a lot more refined. People can appreciate the artwork," James said. "It seems like it's a lot more common than 10, 15 years ago. You didn't go into a professional atmosphere and see people with tattoos."

Historically, tattoos were seen as something for select groups – soldiers, sailors, bikers – to associate the art with sometimes a negative stigma. Anderson and Olson said the appreciation for them shifts between generations.

There's a constant ebb and flow with tattoos: People deviated from their parents and got them, and now their kids may not want them for the same reason.

"Either the next generation is going to get even crazier body (modifications) or it's going to become cool to not have any," Olson said. "Depending on which way that goes, it could shape the future of how much more accepted it can be or if we back up and go the other way again."

920 Tattoo also has strict rules on visible face and hand pieces – they don't do them no matter how much someone is willing to pay. These kinds of tattoos are considered "job stoppers." In 920's studio, they believe in a strong difference between body modification and mutilation.

"If you do something to someone that's going to hurt their life, the opportunities and the chances they'll have for the rest of their lives, I think that qualifies as mutilation," Anderson said. "I'm not going to be part of it.

"If you put a tattoo on someone's forehead, you're dramatically changing their lives – and not always for the better."

Olson said some parts of the body may always be taboo when someone is in the job market.

"With all the talk of employee shortages, I think that could affect how they are seen in the workplace too," she said. "Employers might be willing to lift restrictions on that. A lot of big companies that were very strict about tattoos are opening up. In a lot of service jobs, I see it going away."

But there continue to be concerns about careers allowing tattoos, such as education professionals.

"I think of what different generations associate with tattoos: the biker guys, criminals. Different generations see it different-

He thinks people will have markings in growing prevalence in years to come for all kinds of professions.

"It's going to become the norm we have in society," he said, but recommends taking the time to consider the options and not seek tattoos on impulse.

"Think carefully about what you choose to put on yourself for the rest of your life," Anderson said. "A little thought, some planning and finding an artist who you really like will result in something you're going to like for a very long time. Choose wisely."

Ambassador teams busy this summer

The Oshkosh Ambassadors Softball Club has been back on the summer circuit with five traveling teams with age groups of 50, 60, 65, 70 and 75.

The first tournament had the 60 and 65 teams at the Iowa Senior Open in Waterloo.

The 60 team tried out some new players and the 65 team welcomed both new and old teammates who aged up. The 65 team lost a versatile player for the year in Steve Favorite with torn rotator cuff on his non-throwing shoulder.

The Steve Simmons Memorial tournament in Little Canada, Minn., had the 65, 70 and 75 teams competing, with new 70 managers Chuck Burczyk and Rick Roloff, who led the team in its first championship of the year.

Four teams traveled to the Quad Cities Classic in Rock Island, Ill., in late June. The 60 and 65 teams started out with two wins before being eliminated, while the 70s continued its dominating play to capture a tournament championship.

The 65 team came together at the Milwaukee Classic with Roger Kunde pitching for four victories and one by Dennis Wesenberg to win the tournament with a 5-0 record.

The newest Ambassadors - the 50 squad - managed and recruited by Brad Wright, debuted at the Milwaukee tournament to carry on the legacy of Ed Andersen while falling short in competitive games.

"Talking with players and coaches afterward, everyone was invigorated and excited for the next opportunity; be it Windy City in Elgin, IL, of 10,000 Lakes in Rochester MN," Ambassadors' board president Dennis Wessenberg said. I'm hoping we've found a core of ball players and friends to play for the next 20-25 years.

Sporting officials shortage strains upcoming seasons

High school sports are facing an increasing shortage of people to officiate their games with the school year set to begin in a couple of weeks.

"Because we don't have a lot of people our refs are getting overworked, and a lot of us ref three different sports so this is a year-round thing for us," Travis Korth with the Fox Cities Officials Association said to WBAY, who first reported the shortage.

Nationally this year, teams have been forced to cancel and reschedule games.

Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association director of communications Todd Clark said there are many reasons officials leave the business, but a commonly cited one is aggression from people in the stands.

Korth said when fans get upset it makes it hard for newer referees to stick with the role.

"Fans need to be respectful and patient. Those referees are learning just as the kids are learning the game," Korth said.

A survey from the National Association of Sports Officials found that 13 percent of officials have been physically assaulted by a fan, player or coach.

On top of fan scrutiny, Korth said the hours can also turn people away.

"We don't just show up for a game and stay there for two hours and that's it. Friday night football games we show up at 4 p.m. and don't get home until midnight sometimes," he said.

Korth said the time commitment was just too much for even some dedicated referees after a year of staying home.

"I think that we saw a lot of officials leave and see that they could spend a lot more time with their families during the time off that we had from officiating because right now we officiate Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday," Korth said.

To fill the void, the Fox Cities Officials Association will be holding an Officiant Clinic on Saturday at the USA Sports Complex in Appleton.

The clinic will be open for any registered official for football as well as anyone interested in becoming an official.

Registration runs from 9 to 10 a.m.

Athlete of the Year by the U.S. Track & Field and Cross Country Coaches Association.

Thompson, who graduated in May with a 3.915 cumulative grade-point average, is the fourth Titan to receive the honor. Last May, the USTFC-CCA selected Thompson as its Co-Field Performer of the Meet at the NCAA Division III Outdoor Track & Field Championship held in Greensboro, N.C.

Thompson threw to victories in both the discus and shot put while finishing ninth at the championship in the hammer throw. She was seeded third in the discus and won the event with a season-best measurement of 153-4. Thompson entered the shot put activity as the top seed and won the event with a season-best distance of 49-11 3/4. She finished ninth in the hammer throw with a measurement of 165-3.

This past indoor season Thompson ranked second nationally in the shot put  $(46-3\ 1/4)$  and sixth in the 20-pound weight throw  $(55-5\ 1/2)$ .

Thompson, a 2017 Mercer High School graduate, transferred to UWO from NCAA Division II Minnesota State University, Mankato following the 2018-19 academic year.

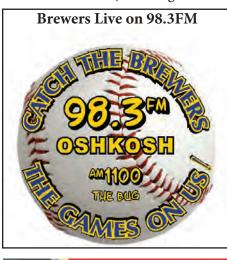

UWO had nine other women gain All-Academic honors from the USTFC-CCA: Michaela Barrette, Taya Fleischman, Morgan Florek, Katie Fruth, Vanessa Jenneman, Riley Kindt, Hannah Lohrenz, Alexandria Steger and Emma Warr.

Titans center Olsen earns national honors

UW Oshkosh Media

University of Wisconsin Oshkosh Titans center Mike Olsen was selected as the NCAA Division III Rimington Trophy Award winner for the 2020 football season.

The Rimington Trophy honors the top center in the four NCAA football levels for their contributions on and off the field. This year's selection process veered out of our normal evaluation techniques due to the global coronavirus pandemic and relied heavily on each center's career before the delayed, shortened or canceled 2020 sea-

Glo finishes regular season with victory over Detroit

By Steve Clark HERALD CONTRIBUTOR

Hannah Whitish scored 10 of her 16 points in the fourth quarter, including the go-ahead 3-pointer with 3:15 remaining as the Wisconsin Glo closed out its regular season with an 81-71 over the Detroit Queens at the Menominee Nation Arena on Sunday afternoon.

Julie Wojta added 11 points in the fourth quarter and finished with 19 points to lead the Glo, who finished with a 9-2 mark in the regular season. Jessica Kelliher finished with 11 and Jolene Anderson totaled nine points and a team-high 12 rebounds in the win.

The Glo now heads to the GWBA Tournament next weekend in St. Louis where it will face Flint on Saturday with the winner advancing to Sunday's league championship game.

The previous night at the arena four Glo players finished in double figures with Wojta and Mehryn Kraker each posting double-doubles as the team led nearly the entire way in an 81-67 win over the Flint Monarchs.

Wisconsin will head to the league tournament on a three-game winning streak after rallying from a 56-49 deficit entering the fourth quarter against Detroit. The Glo still trailed 69-65 with 4:03 remaining before closing the game on a 16-2 run.

Kraker started the late rally with a layup before setting up Whitish for a corner 3-pointer that put the GLO ahead 70-69 with 3:15 left. Anderson and Wojta added baskets before Wisconsin scored its final seven points from the free-throw line, including hitting all six of their attempts in the final 22 seconds.

Kelly Moten added nine points, including a key 3-pointer early in the fourth quarter, and Allaziah Blockton added seven points off the bench as Wisconsin overcame a 5-for-29 shooting performance from 3-point range to earn the win.

Micaela Kelly scored 20 points and Leah Scott added 17 to lead Detroit.

gust 7, 2021 at Eden Meadows in Osh-

Helen was born May 15, 1926 in Waupun the daughter of Gerrit and Hattie Tobak Greenfield. On February 6, 1947

she married Lyle Veleke in Waupun. Following their marriage the couple resided in Waupun until 2009 at which time they moved to Oshkosh. Over the years Helen was employed at Teeple Shoe Factory and Electri Wire Corporation from which she retired after 20 years. Helen was a charter member of Trinity Reformed Church in Waupun where she was a member of the Women's Guild, sang in the choir for over 50 years, was a Sunday School teacher and taught Catechism classes. Helen loved her children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren, and great-great-grandchildren. Being with them at family gatherings was one of the joys of her life. She and Lyle also enjoyed many years of boating together. She was an avid gardener, cross stitcher, and loved to read.

Helen is survived by her son, Bob (Jodi) Veleke of Clintonville, WI; daughter, Donna (Brad) Cooper of Oshkosh; four granddaughters: Rachelle (James) Smith, Stacey (Rick) Rahmlow, Angela (Greg) Lund, and Kristin Veleke (Kimberly Detherage); great-grandchildren; great-great-grandchildren; sister-in-law, Angie Tank of Waupun; and brother-inlaw, Paul Veleke of Ripon.

Helen was preceded in death by her husband, Lyle, in 2012; grandson, Richard Lee Westhuis; two brothers-in-law, Ray Greenfield and Wesley Greenfield; four sisters, Genevieve Navis, Gertie Kuik, Alice Van Der Laan, and Ruby Van Der Laan.

Funeral services for Helen Veleke will take place Tuesday, August 10, 2021 at 10:30 a.m. at Werner-Harmsen Funeral Home in Waupun with Cathie Vander Velden officiating. Burial will follow at Forest Mound Cemetery in Waupun.

All memorials will be directed to Miravida Living Center in Oshkosh.

Anna May Vanden Heuvel, passed into the loving arms of Jesus on Sunday, August 8th, 2021 surrounded by her family. She was born on July 14, 1928 to the late Frederick and Charlotte (Payton) Wasmundt. She was united in the Sacrament of Marriage on July 2, 1955 to Robert Vanden Heuvel at St. John Nepomucene Catholic Church in Little Chute. Their marriage was blessed with five children

Anna May and her husband Robert were longtime members of St. Raphael the Archangel Catholic Church. She was a simple woman who had an overwhelming love for her family. She enjoyed reading, sometimes reading 10 to 12 books a month.

Anna May is lovingly survived by her husband of 66 years, Robert Vanden Heuvel; children, Steve (Pam) Vanden Heuvel, Dawn (Joe) Kelderman, Tina (Don) Rooyakker, Terry (Joanne) Vanden Heuvel, Jean (Lee) Bohne; 13 grandchildren; 13 great-grandchildren. She is further survived by five brothers-in-law, two sisters-in-law, as well as their spouses, and several other cousins, and relatives.

In addition to her parents, she was preceded in death by her brother, and several brothers and sisters-in-law.

A Mass of Christian Burial will take place

David Hayford

David Hayford of Oshkosh, Wisconsin passed away on Wednesday, August

4th of 2021, at the age of 74. After a recent diagnosis of cancer, David passed peacefully surrounded by his family.

David was born in Manchester, Connecticut on October

15th, 1946, to father John Enoch Hayford and mother Anne Weniger. He is survived by his wife, Paula, sons Kevin (Ashley) and Brian, daughter Erica (Justin) Johnson, and grandchildren Alex, Cullen, Declan, and Madigan. He is further survived by sisters Joanne and Nancy, and many nieces and nephews. He was preceded in death by his father, mother, and brother Jack.

David served in the U.S. Navy achieving the rank of Lieutenant supporting the efforts in Vietnam aboard the USS Coral Sea. He was awarded the Vietnam Campaign Medal, the Meritorious Unit Award, and National Defense Service Medal. David then returned to Wisconsin to earn his M.B.A. from Marquette University.

David and Paula would settle in Oshkosh where they raised their three children. David devoted himself to his family, his faith, and his community. He was well known in Oshkosh as an exemplary man of true integrity, honestly, and genuine kindness. Some of his most notable accomplishments included editorials for local newspapers, membership in both Oshkosh Southwest and Downtown Rotary Clubs, where he was a two-time Paul Harris Fellow, Day by Day Warming Shelter, HOME organization and service to his church, Emmaus Ecumenical Catholic Community, and of course, his involvement in his award-winning Rotary chili cook offs.

David was a loving father. He exemplified humility, courage, honesty, compassion, and kindness. He and Paula raised a close knit, loving family, who will continue their traditional "Soup Sunday" meals and creating memories.

David's kindness and warmth radiated to all who where fortunate enough to encounter him, evidenced by his large circle of friends, new and old. He will be dearly missed by many.

Special thank you to Dianna Malkowski, PA-C and Moments Hospice.

Visitation for David is planned for Friday, August 13 from 1 to 3 PM at St. Paul United Church of Christ, 1950 Leonard Pointe Rd. in Oshkosh. The Memorial Service will follow immediately at 3 pm.

People wishing to honor David's lifelong commitment to family and community can make donations to Day by Day Warming Shelter of Oshkosh.

Monkeys in the Mirror?

Are ring-tailed lemurs monkeys? Clip this coupon and hold it up to a mirror to reveal the answer.

It's an easy mistake to think lemurs are monkeys. They have many things in common. Both belong to the primate order which is made up of monkeys, prosimians and apes. Lemurs are prosimians which literally means 'before monkeys.

Five-Year Old Saves Lemur

STAFF REPORTER

SAN FRANCISCO, CA-In October of 2020, five-year-old James Trinh a lemur in his school's parking lot. He pointed and said, "There's a lemur! There's a lemur!"

At first the adults didn't James. The school often had visits from skunks, coyotes and started leaping and leaping into the school's playground. This was definitely not a raccoon.

The director of the school "Are you sure that's not a raccoon?"

In the playground, the animal into a playhouse to hide. James knew just what to do.

"Call the Zoo!" he yelled.

Everyone said James was right. This little animal was a lemur named Maki that was from the San Francisco Zoo.

Zoo and local animal control came and coaxed Maki into a cage to take him back to the Zoo. He went quite a lifetime membership to the Zoo, where he will be able to visit Maki often.

Maki Mystery San Francisco Zoo workers are not sure how Maki got out. There were signs that someone had broken into the primate enclosure. Was Maki stolen? Or did he escape during a burglary? The police have arrested a suspect and are working to find out what happened.

Maki was 21-years old when he got away, making him one of the older lemurs at the Zoo.

might have been easily captured because he was older and slower than the other lemurs.

KID SCOOP'S MISSION

Children are born curious. From their earliest days, sensory exploration brings delight and wonder. New discoveries expand their minds. When they unlock the joy of reading, their world widens further. Magic happens.

Kid Scoop opens the doors of discovery for elementary school children by providing interactive, engaging and relevant age-appropriate materials designed to awaken the magic of reading at school, at home, and throughout their lives

Literacy Tips for Kid's Scoop

1. If your child read and loved one book by a certain author, help them find other books by an author they enjoyed.

2. Making reading to your kids a priority over the numerous distractions that come our way creates important one-on-one time with your kids.
