Council designates some ARPA funds to projects

By Kaitlyn Scoville
OSHKOSH HERALD

After the Common Council split American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) funds at its Nov. 9 meeting between infrastructure and non-infrastructure plans, the group allocated the first chunk of the $20 million in federal funds to four infrastructure projects.

It was decided early last month that 75 percent of ARPA funds will go toward systems and facilities based on direct losses as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic, and 25 percent to go to non-infrastructure projects, such as dealing with homelessness in the community.

Just over $4 million was approved unanimously for information technology and security ($44,000); 2022 capital improvement programs ($2.6 million); projects that experienced a levy shortfall in 2022 ($447,000); and repaying the Oshkosh Area Community Foundation.

"They're all essential projects and we're funding them without taking out debt and without increasing the tax levy," said council member Michael Ford. "I can think of no better way for us to facilitate the recovery of the COVID-19 disruption and providing these essential services and items without putting burden on our taxpayers."

Deputy Mayor Matt Mugerauer said that throughout the last 18 months, one

Oshkosh Herald

The election season opens today (Wednesday) as candidates can begin circulating nomination papers for Board of Education, Winnebago County Board of Supervisors and other city, village and township boards ahead of the Feb. 15 primaries and April 5 general election.

To help those interested in serving their communities as elected officials, the League of Women Voters of Winnebago County has compiled a primary source of information with links to the necessary paperwork, forms and guidelines.

Prospective candidates can request the LWV document "How to Run for Office: Spring 2022" by emailing wclwvinfo@gmail.com. They are also given information about who their filing officer is and are advised to double-check that information with the appropriate officer.

Final touches added to terminal project

Wittman Regional Airport gains new aesthetic quality

By Steve Clark
OSHKOSH HERALD

A project roughly eight years in the making is now complete as the final touches were put on the grounds around the new terminal at Wittman Regional Airport before Thanksgiving.

The last slabs of concrete were laid on the airplane parking apron on the south-east side of the building, according to airport director Jim Schell. He said that all that remains is some minor cosmetic work, which includes some placing of permanent fencing and landscaping around the site of the formal terminal building.

"That should be wrapping up in the next couple of weeks," Schell said.

He said that there will be some winter seeding done at the site of the old terminal building but that he expects that much of the final planting will have to wait until spring, which is part of the landscaping contract and won't require additional funding.

Not only is the project complete, but Schell said it was finished roughly $1.5 million under the pre-bid budget. That money will likely be reappropriated to the airport properties, although any plans to use the funds would have to be approved by the Winnebago County Board.

Schell said it "felt excellent" to see the completion of a project that started before his arrival in Oshkosh. The idea that eventually led to the new terminal building was hatched in 2013.

The former terminal building, which was built in 1971 and had stopped servicing commercial airlines in 2003, had become outdated as far as the building's heating and cooling system, technological capabilities and overall aesthetics.

"It wasn't meeting our needs anymore," Schell said. "It was a financial black hole in keeping a building that was built in 1971 heated and cooled."

The first plans for the current building were made in 2016, however, the funding appropriations did not pass the County Board in 2017 and the plan stalled.

When Schell arrived at his current position in 2018, talk of a new terminal resumed.

"I picked up the ball and was just trying to figure out where we needed to go,"

Lakeshore Park pavilion costs rising

By Kaitlyn Scoville
OSHKOSH HERALD

When bids for construction of Lakeshore Park's new four seasons building came back $1.5 million over budget as a result of supply chain shortages and an increase in resource costs, the Common Council discussed possible solutions to this increase.

The year-round, multipurpose pavilion was proposed in early 2020 at the east end of Lakeshore Park at the site of the former municipal golf course.

In mid-November, city staff received notice that one company – the lowest bidder – withdrew its bid as a result of “an error in the calculation of the bid.” The next lowest comes at just below $4.5 million, $1.5 million above the city's original budget.

Finance director Russ Van Gompel gave the council five options to consider, including adding the project to the list of those funded by the issuance of debt; keeping the debt issuance at $20 million and delaying $1.5 million of other projects to make up for the cost of the building; and considering the use of American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) funds.

Council members Michael Ford and Bill Miller felt it was the city's duty to hold a promise they had given to the community. The city has spent $270,000 in planning for this project since its proposal.

“We've invested in this park and I would like to continue to invest in this park,” Miller said.

Mayor Lori Palmeri noted how exciting the project is through her work with the Advisory Parks Board, and said it was “disappointing” to have to make such a decision.

However, Deputy Mayor Matt Mugerauer reminded his colleagues that a similar bid will be coming into view soon for a new parks department facility. He said that project matters more to him than the Lakeshore development, though he would prefer to see both move forward.

The council could make a decision at its Dec. 14 meeting before the bids expire in early January.

Trial postponed until May for West student in attack

Oshkosh Herald

The jury trial for a former Oshkosh West High School student accused in the December 2019 stabbing of a police officer at the school has been delayed from this month to late May.

Grant Fuhrman is being held on first-degree intentional homicide charges after attacking police liaison officer Michael Wissink with a two-pronged barbecue fork. Wissink shot the student in the chest during the struggle in his school office.

Motions had been made by the defense requesting a new expert witness and a change in either venue or jury selection, and the prosecution challenged defense testimony regarding Fuhrman being under the influence of prescription drugs.

State prosecutor Tracy Paider filed a motion for adjournment last month to allow sufficient time to review the defense's request for the expert witness.

And after being denied a change in venue in May, Fuhrman's defense attorney Corey Mehlos renewed the request to reduce the effects of pretrial publicity, citing several "overwhelmingly negative" news articles and community support for Wissink, which was also denied according to court records.

City will stay with mask policy through year

The city of Oshkosh will continue to require its employees and visitors inside city-operated buildings to wear face coverings, regardless of vaccination status, through Dec. 31.

City officials noted that Winnebago County is experiencing high community transmission and will continue to follow the guidance of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) as it relates to COVID-19.

Face coverings will continue to be required of GO Transit riders by federal order.

Chamber report looks back at business activity

Oshkosh Herald

The Oshkosh Chamber of Commerce, in its recently released 2021 annual report, highlighted several revitalization efforts and much-needed economic growths after the worst of the pandemic.

"2021 was a tough year for everyone both personally and professionally," said Wilson Jones, Chamber board chairman and former Oshkosh Corp. chief executive. "However, the business community persevered and remained optimistic for the year and the future because of the resiliency of the Oshkosh business community."

Jones also noted city businesses striving to adapt and keep their doors open during the pandemic to recover the area's market losses in 2020.

"We were focused on reigniting our economy and reasserting our leadership and competitiveness," Jones said. "That was hinged on the resilience of business and took the collective strength of our business members to help power our local economy."

Regarding business community expansion, the report included insights of "major growths" in entrepreneurial ideas and construction in the Marion Road redevelopment area, the Sawdust District and along the Oshkosh Avenue corridor.

Jones

Along with this, the Chamber's report shows a drastic change in the city's unemployment rate, from 14.3 percent in September 2020 to 2.9 percent in September of this year. There was also growth in the completion of businesses this year, the Mineshaft on Koeller Street and the retail center on Oshkosh Avenue with Dunkin', Baskin Robbins and Pizza@ Highway 21.

The report also shows a "housing boom" in multifamily and senior living arrangements, such as with the Brio Building above the Oshkosh Food Co-op on Jackson Street, the planned Evergreen "pocket neighborhood" set to be on Ninth Avenue, the planned Smith School Lofts on Oregon Street, and the already-begun Miles Kimball Lofts on South Main Street.

"This is an exciting time for Oshkosh and I see great opportunity for growth in our community and organization," Jones said in the report.

Unemployment drops to 2% in area

The Oshkosh-Neenah metropolitan area and Winnebago County saw a drop in its unemployment rate from 2.3 percent to 2 percent between September and October, according to preliminary data from the state Department of Workforce Development.

Last October's jobless rate in Oshkosh-Neenah was at 3.6 percent; Winnebago County was at 3.5 percent.

The non-seasonally adjusted data shows jobless rates in Metropolitan Statistical Areas decreased in all of Wisconsin's 12 metro areas over the year and month. Appleton, Eau Claire, Fond du Lac, Green Bay, La Crosse, Racine and Wausau experienced record low unemployment rates in October.

Unemployment rates declined in all of Wisconsin's 34 largest cities and 72 counties over the year and over the month.

Estimates of unemployment and employment statistics are from the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Lourdes reached $10 million facilities project goal

Oshkosh Herald

Lourdes Academy announced last week that it has reached its $10 million fund-raising goal that will allow additions and renovations to bring all of its schools to one campus among other improvements to Oshkosh's Catholic education system.

Site work is underway at the North Sawyer Street location with construction work projected to be completed by spring. The One by One Campaign started with $1.6 million from its previous capital program and now has the $10 million budget needed for the estimated $5.1 million high school addition that will include 11 new classrooms, administrative space and outdoor improvements.

About $2.5 million will go toward the elementary school to create a new worship space and cafe, enhance its fine arts facilities, update offices and build a new playground.

Other general building improvements include remodeling the existing facilities with an updated heating and ventilation system, lighting, security and exterior updates. The parishes of Most Blessed Sacrament, St. Jude the Apostle and St. Raphael the Archangel will each receive about $100,000 toward needed improvements at those facilities as well.

"With gratitude for our generous donors and the prayers that inspired their kindness, we celebrate this overwhelming accomplishment and give glory to God," the school's November newsletter stated.

Programs help students find their way to work life

By Kaitlyn Scoville
OSHKOSH HERALD

The Oshkosh Area School District is utilizing business collaborations to give students with intellectual disabilities life skills and work experience while gathering credits to graduate high school.

Through Project Life, in its second year, and Project Search, in its sixth, students from 11th grade through postgraduate are enrolled in a school year-length program to provide workplace alternatives with partnering companies such as Culver's, Goodwill, Ascension-Mercy Hospital and the 20th Avenue YMCA.

According to the state Department of Workforce Development, Project Search "enables young adults with disabilities to gain and maintain employment through training and career exploration."

Search also provides onsite training classrooms, business liaisons and rotational internships to help get students in a right position for them after graduating.

But before a student enters Project Search, they are encouraged to apply for Project Life, a junior-senior program for a multiyear transition "in which students develop, practice and strengthen skills that are high predictors of increased adult independence and successful, integrated employment," according to the organization's website.

Linda Pierron, the school district's director of special education and her colleagues sought Project Life to help boost the postgraduate program Project Search, which is for students not wanting to go to college and instead join the workforce but aren't quite ready.

"What you're witnessing is a true inclusionary experience," said district transition coordinator Mary Beth Connors. "There's a group of students that were missing support; they're learning skills they can emulate out in the community."

Current worksites for Project Life are Oshkosh West High School's Wildcat Cafe and Oshkosh North's Snack Shack, the 20th Avenue YMCA, Goodwill, Culver's and Old Navy. Ascension-Mercy hosts Project Search interns.

Eleven students graduated last year from Project Search and Connors said they are expecting seven to complete the program this year. There are 11 students at Project Life.

"A lot of kids with disabilities are your most loyal employees – they're there every day and want to be, and they want to do well," Connors said. "And that's our next step – to get the community to understand these kids will be one of their best."

Because of how school credit structures work, students with intellectual disabilities struggle to find time to develop employability and life skills.

"A lot of parents say when their students graduate, they love their education but they feel they're not ready for life," Connors said.

At the 20th Avenue YMCA, Ann Dawson teaches half of the Project Life students while the other half are out working. They attend class with her every other day to meet credit requirements and learn skills needed for the real world such as budgeting and how to best utilize public transit.

"I think it's critical for the students to achieve independence or semi-independence to be ready for the next step after high school," Dawson said. "With this we're also providing additional support to the family as well so it doesn't fall on one person's shoulders but also increases the student's self-confidence."

Most students with the transition program apply to the state Department of Vocational Rehabilitation to find community employment.

"We have them placed in nursing homes, daycare centers, Kwik Trips and more," Connors said.

Transition paraprofessionals and job coaches Patti Kimball and Olufunke Akinleye said helping these students move past their comfort zones and push them to succeed is what makes their job all the more worthwhile.

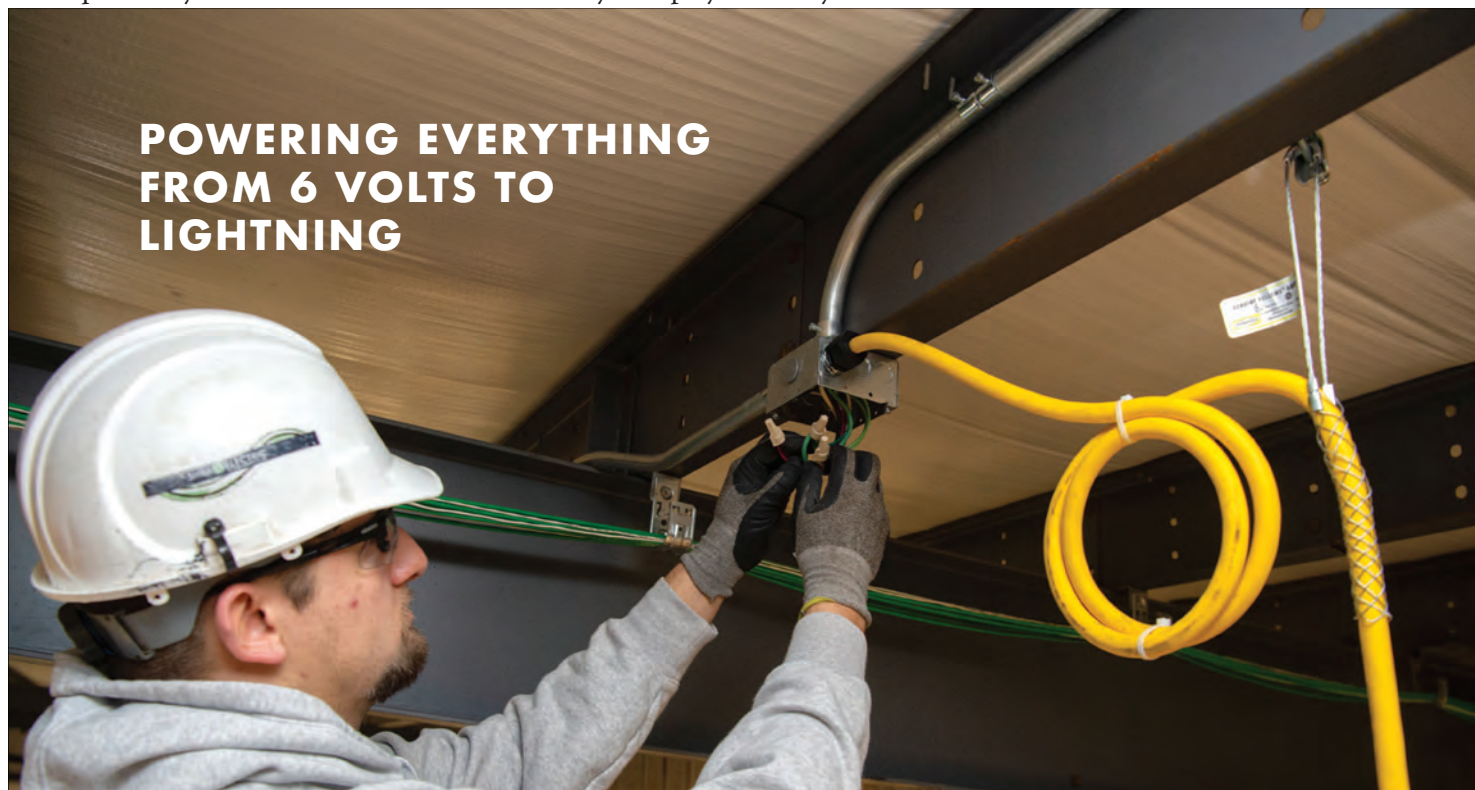

Dawson said she loves her job because she can celebrate the small day-to-day accomplishments with her students.

"Those are huge for some of our kids," she said. "We guide students to do their best and gain the confidence they need to achieve their goals."

The next step though, Connors said, is to help the community see how great the students in these programs are.

"We want to educate local employers about what these students can do. We're getting these kids out into the community because it's hurting right now," she said. "We need employees and these are some loyal ones."

"Focus on their abilities, not what they can't do."

Toys for Tots program off to slower season start

By Cheryl Hentz
HERALD CONTRIBUTOR

For more than 60 years, the Toys for Tots program – started in 1947 by U.S. Marine Corps Reserve Maj. Bill Hendricks and wife Diane, then transformed it into a national community action program in 1948 – has allowed families facing tough economic times to still experience the joy of the holiday season through the gift of giving.

As in years past, the Winnegamie Home Builders Association (WHBA) is collecting toys for the program in conjunction with the local Marines Corps, Oshkosh Salvation Army and Oshkosh Corp. Through Dec. 10, people who want to donate can place new, unwrapped toys in one of the many Toys for Tots boxes around the area.

Donations seem down this year compared with other years, according to Jodi Vandermolen, who works for the WHBA and serves as the Toys for Tots program's national representative coordinator for Winnebago County.

One possible reason for the decline, Vandermolen said, is that they received their marketing material and donation boxes three weeks later than normal.

"It has nothing to do with the community not donating; they just, at the national level, couldn't get things shipped sooner, possibly because of the supply chain problem going on throughout the entire country," she said. "We also have more boxes out in the community this year, and the donations could be being distributed differently. That could account for some of what we're seeing and why the boxes aren't getting filled as fast."

Oshkosh Community Credit Union is one of many dropoff sites for Toys for Tots donations through Dec. 10.

Vandermolen believes in the people of Oshkosh and throughout Winnebago County, saying they are always "absolutely wonderful," and is confident they'll come through again this year.

"Our big push usually is the week of Thanksgiving and the week after, with Black Friday sales and all of that. So, we're just now hitting the good donating time," she said. "We still have a lot of people who are in need, even though unemployment numbers are down ... and the applications continue coming in."

Don Hazaert, director of development for the Oshkosh Salvation Army, said every year there is a "chronic shortage of gifts for teens, 12- to 18-year-olds, especially boys." Donations for teens can be made in any of the boxes or local fire stations, but the Salvation Army also has a separate Teen Angel program.

Donation details

Toys for Tots Winnebago County Facebook page has a complete list of box locations. Email or call Jodi Vandermolen at jodi@whba.net or 920-235-2962, or the Oshkosh Salvation Army at 920-232-7660, for more information.

"We put Christmas trees in local bars and restaurants. People pull a tag off the tree and go shopping for a teen, based on what the tag said, then drop that item off at the tree location," Hazaert said. "It's just another way for us to broaden our net as far as capturing gifts for teens. Most people when thinking about Toys for Tots are not thinking about teenagers. Plus, teenagers are just more difficult to buy for, too. People have to put a little extra thought into that group."

The Oshkosh Fire Department is also collecting nonperishable food, as in years past. They are back to their traditional means of collecting door to door. The nights and routes of the fire trucks are listed on its Facebook, Twitter and Instagram pages. Those donations can also be dropped off at a local fire station.

Besides nonperishable food and new toys, they need wrapping paper and tape, and cash. All food and toy donations will be given to the Salvation Army to combine with their other collections.

"This is our 22nd year (collecting food and toys). When it first started, two members of our department collected it all themselves and we distributed it to elementary schools," said Eric Shea, firefighter/paramedic/EMS coordinator in Oshkosh. "In 2010, we started partnering with the Salvation Army because it was getting almost too big for a couple of guys to handle. The Salvation Army has its collection and distribution lists all set up, so they've been the recipient of the items we've collected for the last 11 years."

Donations of cash or checks (PayPal if making donation online) will go to the Oshkosh Firefighters Charitable Trust to fund the Gary Kassube Scholarship program, given to two graduating Oshkosh seniors – one each from Oshkosh West and North – enrolled in a police or fire science program.

Oshkosh Corp. and the Marine Corps provides dozens of volunteers to take all donated items to the Salvation Army's distribution center, which is then set up like a store.

"Donations are sectioned off according to gender-specific/non-gender and age. Registered families then get a letter in the mail telling them when they can come and 'shop' and how many items per child they are allowed to pick," explained Vandermolen. "When the parents arrive, they pick the items they think their child or children would most want. It's really cool to give the parents the experience of going Christmas shopping for their kids."

Last year, more than 700 families and 2,000 children were enrolled in the Salvation Army program. Despite the pandemic, the fire department alone collected more than 4,800 pounds of food, 2,600 toys and nearly $2,000.

Besides the donation box locations and six fire stations in Oshkosh, toys also will be collected at Oshkosh's Celebration of Lights on Friday night.

The top winners will be invited to give an update to an even wider investor-business audience during the New North Summit, scheduled June 9 at Lambeau Field.

"We were excited by the wide range of creative business ideas shown at these local pitch events," said Barb LaMue, New North president. "It demonstrates the vibrancy of the entrepreneurial community across the New North region."

Thirty-two entrepreneurial pitches were made during the local qualifying events hosted by the Oshkosh Chamber of Commerce, Greater Green Bay Chamber, FVTC Venture Center, Envision Greater Fond du Lac, Progress Lakeshore and Sheboygan County Economic Development Corp.

Mobile X-Ray Unit Will Examine Thousands in City: A program sponsored by the state board of health will be launched Thursday with the arrival of a 60-foot tuberculosis mobile x-ray unit. About 900 students, faculty and employees of the Oshkosh State Teachers college will be the first to receive the free chest examinations of which the purpose is to determine that a person does not have tuberculosis. Officials said "the unit will remain here until every adult in Oshkosh that wishes to, has had a chest x-ray examination. The service will be offered free of charge to any and all adults. X-ray films will be sent to Madison where trained physicians will read the results and each person tested will receive a report within three weeks. Officials encouraged everyone to get tested as "Tuberculosis gives no warning - the x-ray photo will show it long before symptoms appear." By law, the state of Wisconsin wiped out the dreaded disease among cattle by making inspections mandatory. Although the state has not taken this mandatory step with citizens, they claim such a step would undoubtedly wipe out the disease completely. Because it is voluntary, the more people that are tested will help minimize the disease becoming prevalent in this community.

Parks Department site advances

Oshkosh Herald

The Oshkosh Plan Commission recommended approval of a zoning change for the Parks Department to demolish its current building and construct an updated facility at 143 Idaho St.

Common Council unanimously approved the purchase of the land on Idaho Street for $100,000 in July. Construction for the new Parks Department facilities and operations building is set to be constructed between now and 2023.

The current location for the parks facilities – 805 Witzel Ave. – was built in the 1960s and “has outlived its usefulness,” according to a memo from planning services director Mark Lyons.

The recommendation for the repurposing of the property would create a general development plan for the site and a specific implementation plan for its development.

The commission also recommended approval of a zoning change at Jackson Street and Nevada Avenue that will enable development of a new middle school. The recommendation followed a lengthy discussion with one neighboring resident seeking a delay in the action.

The commission also recommended approval of a right-of-way dedication or a cul-de-sac at the western terminus of Wilson Avenue.

Services set for restaurateur Sosnoski

Cinder’s Charcoal Grill restaurant co-founder Steve T. Sosnoski passed away Nov. 12 after a battle with cancer. He was 72.

Sosnoski started restaurants with brothers Carl and Dean in Oshkosh and the Fox Valley that included Cinder’s in Oshkosh and Appleton, Player’s Pizza and Pub in Oshkosh, Cleo’s Brown Beam Tavern in Appleton and AirVenture week destination SOS Bros. beer tent.

He worked and built up Cinder’s over the last 40 years along with his wife, Sherry, and three children. He also was known for playing Santa and visiting nursing homes on Christmas and passing out roses on Mother’s Day.

A funeral service will be held at 3 p.m. Saturday at Konrad-Behlman Funeral Home with visitation from noon until the time of service.

Airport project

Schell said. "When I got here, it was kind of uncertain where we would be going. It was a huge piece of the puzzle to move the airport forward. Reinvest in infrastructure out here because it was a long time coming."

Funding for the project, which included a $2 million grant from the state, was approved in 2019 and the old terminal building was torn down and construction began on the new facility. It officially opened in June and was showcased in the return of EAA's AirVenture in July.

In addition to improved functionality, Schell believes it will serve as an important eyepiece for Oshkosh and the Fox Valley.

"It's the aerial gateway. If you look at different gateways to the city, if people come in by airplane it's the first impression they see and the last impression they get as they leave," Schell said. "It is that gateway we can look at it and it showcases our community well and puts our best foot forward on greeting people to it."

The new terminal, which sports meeting rooms available for rental as well as a display on the history of air travel in Oshkosh, is open to the public.

With the new terminal project complete, Schell said the likely next issue that will get attention will be the lack of hangar space on the grounds. Some of the money from coming in under budget could be used in that regard.

Three at-large positions on the Oshkosh Common Council will be up for election this spring, seats currently held by Lynnsey Erickson, Michael Ford and Deputy Mayor Matt Mugerauer.

Two seats on the Oshkosh Area School District Board of Education will be on the ballot that are currently held by Stephanie Carlin and Liz Szilagyi. All of Winnebago County's 36 supervisory district seats will be on the spring ballot.

ARPA funds

of the biggest and easiest losses can be seen through room tax revenues generated by the rental of hotel rooms and purchase of amenities when tourists visit.

The city received $1 million from the Community Foundation in 2007 to assist with Convention & Visitors Bureau improvements and the organization has been paying back this loan using room tax.

In 2020 alone, finance director Russ Van Gompel said the CVB lost $1 million in room tax funding.

"The idea was for the loan to be repaid after other debt obligations were met, and through a portion of food and beverage sale proceeds at the Convention Center," a memo to council reads. "Over the course of 14 years, the amount remaining on the loan remains slightly over $900,000."

City Manager Mark Rohloff said this payment through ARPA funds allows the city to erase the CVB's "moral obligation" to repay the Community Foundation by paying off the loan the city took on more than a decade ago.

Car flips on Oregon

No injuries were reported when this vehicle rolled over in the 1000 block of Oregon Street about 8:30 p.m. last Tuesday. Passer-by Mark Allermann said he was able to pop a side airbag and unbuckle the 31-year-old male driver to get him out after the single vehicle accident before police arrived at the scene and later issued an inattentive driving citation.

Grand holiday mixes national and local, live and livestream

The Four Phantoms, composed of four powerhouse performers who have had the title role in "The Phantom of the Opera" more than 10,000 times combined, headline the holiday season at The Grand.

Christmas with the Four Phantoms returns with a show that includes a special Christmas music set inserted to be performed for the first time at its Oshkosh shows Dec. 16-18.

Franco D'Ambrosio, John Cudia, Brent Barrett and Ciaran Sheehan have performed the title role in "Phantom" on Broadway as well as in San Francisco, Toronto, Las Vegas and Germany. They will be joined by Kaley Ann Voorhees, who in 2015 became the youngest to perform the role of Christine Daae in the Broadway production.

"Having these four dynamic and sensational stage talents, performing in the intimacy of The Grand, is an experience unlike any other," said Joseph Ferlo, director of The Grand. "The fact that they have included a special Christmas set is a special treat."

"We love coming to Oshkosh, it's become like a second home," said Four Phantoms' producer Lee Tofanelli. "Instead of a one-and-done performance, this enables us to settle into a residency, to become a part of the community for the time we are there. Christmas with the Four Phantoms is our way of saying 'thank you' to a community that always makes us feel welcome."

The Grand also welcomes touring sensation Masters of Soul, with the songs and performers that defined Motown and soul music, at 7:30 p.m. Friday both live and on livestream. The show features music by The Temptations, Gladys Knight and the Pips, and Diana Ross and The Supremes. The show will also include a special "Motown Christmas" set.

Swing in the Holidays with Janet Planet - backed by the UW Oshkosh Jazz Ensemble directed by Marty Robinson - will be another seasonal performance at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

iday special last season amid the pandemic that reached 32 states and four countries. The new tradition continues with "The Night Before the Night Before" hosted on stage by Sundae and Mr. Goessl and available for livestream. Virtuoso guitarist Jason Goessl and vocalist Kate Voss (Sundae), who have been likened to "Les Paul and Billie Holliday at a cocktail party," will be joined by special guests Erin Boehme and Mike Kubicki, Hannah Rose, and Elle McBelle and Danny Jerabek, for a holiday celebration at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 23.

The annual Christmas Carol Sing presented at The Grand by the Oshkosh Community Band returns at 7 p.m. Dec. 12 after being suspended last year because of the pandemic.

The band will open the program with a band arrangement of Gustav Holst's "Christmas Day (Fantasy on Old Carols)" and secular tunes and songs from other cultures.

The concert will close with the combined band, all singing groups and members of the audience performing familiar carols, including a German verse of "Silent Night" and closing with "Joy to the World."

Masks will be required. Admission is free but donations will be accepted to benefit Christine Ann Domestic Abuse Services.

Knights impressive in home basketball opener

By Dustin Riese
HERALD CONTRIBUTOR

Things looked much different for the Lourdes boys basketball team as it kicked off the 2021-22 season last week. Fresh off their state championship from a season ago, the Knights needed to replace all five starters from that team as they were a senior dominant team and have been for years.

After opening the season with a nice win over Winneconne on the road, the Knights followed that with a 66-52 win Saturday night over a tough Laconia team thanks to a balanced offensive attack.

"I thought we played well tonight," Lourdes coach Dennis Ruedinger said. "I know it is still early in the year, but the kids have responded so far. They understand how to defend on defense, and we have done a great job sharing the basketball. Those are both things that need to happen to be a successful team."

After Laconia took a quick 3-0 lead, Lourdes would not trail again after going on a 10-1 run.

The Knights defense set the tone throughout the game, using another 10-0 run midway through the first half as they jumped to a 25-10 lead.

"We have all the respect in the world for Laconia," he said. "They are a great high school basketball team and have been for a long time. To be successful, we need to rely on our defense; every great team has to. Scoring efficiently is one of the things that you need to do every night, but so is playing tough defense, which we did tonight."

Laconia needed its best player Jaeden Grade to step up, and he did by making several shots over the next few minutes. He teamed up with Dakota Deich to pull the Spartans within 30-24 as the big lead started to evaporate. Despite that brief run, the Knights did a great job keeping Grade in check as Lourdes ended the first half on an 8-0 run courtesy of Jack Seibold and Malith Liabwell for a 38-24 halftime advantage.

Hot shooting from the Knights continued with Dominic Kane sparking a 9-0 run to begin the second half and pushed the lead to 47-24. Add that to how they finished the first half and Lourdes went on a 17-0 run to take a two-possession game and flip it into a one-sided affair.

The early portion of the second half was dominated by the Knights as virtually everyone who was on the court got involved in some way. However, much like their game against Winneconne earlier in the week, the Knights' big lead started to deteriorate.

With the Knights becoming stagnant on offense, the Spartans responded by letting Deich and Ethan Pinno take over to lead a 22-10 run to pull within 57-48. Lucas Schettle ended that run with a three, but Sawyer Shultis answered with a three of his own keeping things close at 60-51.

"Quite honestly, our biggest issue during games has been conditioning," Ruedinger said on the Laconia run. "When we get tired, we are not as good of a team, and we struggle to make shots and defend. Right now, it is still early, but we are nowhere near conditioned enough to play a full 36-minute game. That is something we really need to work on."

The Knights were able to hold the Spartans to only one more point after that surge to secure the win.

"One thing that is a strength of ours is that we have plenty of kids who are capable of scoring," he said. "The key to our team no matter what season it is has to be the passion in the program. Lourdes basketball is special to a lot of people, and I am not just talking about the players. That passion demands a certain amount of work and intensity and when the kids give it their all, good things are going to happen."

UWO football coach retires after 15 years

UW Oshkosh

Pat Cerroni, who spearheaded a program revival by winning more games, capturing more conference championships and earning more national postseason appearances than any football coach in University of Wisconsin Oshkosh history, announced his retirement Monday after leading the Titans for 15 seasons.

Cerroni has been reassigned to another position on campus and will serve that appointment until officially retiring from the university July 5.

"Twenty-one years ago, I walked onto this campus and never realized what an impact it would make of my life," Cerroni said. "It has been a great journey. In my time all decisions that we made were based on one simple question: 'What is the best for the football program?'"

"It's never easy saying goodbye, and it's hard to know when the best time is to walk away. I feel in my heart this is the perfect opportunity and what is best. My wife and I have been discussing this for over a year and right now it feels right."

Cerroni replaced Phil Meyer in 2007 and compiled a 109-45 record (.707 winning percentage) with four Wisconsin Intercollegiate Athletic Conference championships and five NCAA Division III postseason appearances.

North dominates Menasha to tip off new basketball season

By Dustin Riese
HERALD CONTRIBUTOR

The first game of a high school season is identified as a measuring stick to see where a program is. Looking to build off a strong finish last season, the Oshkosh North boys basketball team is a talented club with high hopes for what could be a strong season.

If their first game was any indication, this will be a fun team to watch as they jumped on Menasha early and often on their way to an easy 84-46 victory.

The Spartans quickly moved to 2-0 after beating Waukesha West on Saturday, 81-63.

“I was pleased with our effort,” head coach Brad Weber said. “For the first game, we had the typical mistakes and poor execution that happens as you knock off the rust. Our energy was good and we shared the ball well.”

Steve Clark is one of the best sophomores in the game and North also has a highly regarded freshman in Xzayvion Mitchell, who scored eight of his team’s first 12 points to help the Spartans grab an early 12-0 lead.

The Spartans jumped out to a 23-2 lead as the defense led the way, forcing Menasha into tough situations.

“Defense will determine how successful our season will be,” Weber said. “Our guys found out how important defense is during our postseason run last year. It has to be a constant for us if we want to win games and reach the goals we have set for our team.”

No matter what the Blue Jays tried to do offensively, the Spartans defense was having none of it as they led 40-18 at the break.

Clark and Evan Chopp combined for 41 points as both hit the 20-point mark. Chopp knocked down five second-half triples as he gave the Spartans some great minutes off the bench.

Those are the types of efforts Weber hopes can happen far more frequently when specific guys are called upon.

“We have a skilled group of players,” he said. “We are so tough to defend when we move the ball and get each other open. We have to keep rehearsing our reads and keep taking pride in our execution even if it doesn’t equal points. The more we move the ball, the better looks we will get as a team.”

“We got in some foul trouble in the first half so we had key guys on the bench. The beauty of this team is our depth. We have good players battling for minutes each night. We don’t want to put ourselves in that situation each night, but it is nice to know that we can survive those scenarios.”

Herd jerseys back Kids Foundation

The Wisconsin Herd has partnered with BMO Harris bank to raise money for the Oshkosh Kids Foundation with special jerseys that feature the artwork of five area students.

The jerseys were worn during the Herd’s game Monday against the Windy City Bulls, where fans were able to bid for them at the game or online.

Students were asked to draw a picture of what the Herd meant to them. Pictures included Pointer with cheese antlers and images showcasing inclusivity within basketball. Some 2,300 students submitted their artwork and five were chosen to be featured on the jerseys.

The winners are from Lourdes Academy, two from Oakwood Elementary in Oshkosh, Clayton Elementary in Neenah and Kimberly High School. Each winner received one of the jerseys with their last name on it and a $50 gift card.

The auction remains open until noon Friday at herd.cbo.io.

Seckar gives Spartans a point player to build around

By Tim Froberg
HERALD CONTRIBUTOR

The blueprints to building a successful basketball team start with a point guard.

Oshkosh North always seems to have a good one, and expect that pattern to continue this winter with Reed Seckar.

The skilled 6-foot senior is one of the top returning boys' basketball players in the Oshkosh area.

A third-year varsity player who received all-conference honorable mention, Seckar was North's third-leading scorer last season (8.5 points per game) and finished second in assists (2.4).

"Reed is a high-level IQ kid," said North coach Brad Weber. "He sees the court well and has an immense amount of skill. He's an elite shooter."

Seckar has strong all-around skills and can really drain it from downtown. He led the Spartans in 3-pointers made (47), shooting 45.2 percent from beyond the arc, highest among North's rotational players.

"I've always been more of a perimeter shooter and I'm trying to get better at penetrating and scoring inside a little more," Seckar said. "But really I just want to win."

Seckar's advanced shooting skills give him the potential to be a scoring point guard, but he understands the importance of ball distribution.

"I like playing point," he said. "I like having the ball in my hands and making decisions and the best plays for my team."

Add an outgoing personality to the mix and all the ingredients are there for a top-notch point guard.

"He has a great sense of humor," Weber said. "He's that guy that everyone on the team likes and can connect with."

Submitted photo

Reed Seckar leads the Spartans this season as point guard.

Seckar takes the game seriously but makes sure his teammates are laughing and having fun.

"If everyone hates one another, you're not going to play well on the court," he said. "So I try and keep it light and funny."

Seckar hails from a prominent basketball family. His father, Frank, was one of the finest prep basketball players to ever play in Oshkosh. Frank was a four-year starter at North for legendary coach Frank Schade and was named by The Associated Press as the state's Player of the Year for the 1991-92 season. Frank, who works as an engineer for Amcor, landed a Division

1 scholarship to Vanderbilt where he averaged 10.5 points and 3.6 assists in a solid collegiate career.

Reed's mother, Jodi (Buege), also played basketball at Oshkosh West. Reed's sister, Paige, a 6-0 sophomore, is a promising player on the current Wildcats team.

"There's some old tapes we'll watch of my dad sometimes and yeah, he was really good," Reed said. "He's been huge in helping me out. He was always my coach growing up and has spent a lot of time with me, watching game film, shooting at the Y and telling me things I can work on. He can be tough at times, but he wants what's best for me."

Reed was in eighth grade when Weber's Spartans, led by Tyrese Haliburton, Quincy Anderson and Shane Wissink, won the Division 1 state championship in March 2018. The monumental feat inspired Seckar to set high goals on the court.

"It was really cool to see that happen and think, 'That could be me some day,'" Seckar said. "I knew quite a bit of the players and guys like Tyrese, Quincy and Shane would work with us in summer camps."

Seckar's skills extend to the classroom. He's a high-honors student who carries a 3.9 grade-point-average. Seckar plans to play college basketball but hasn't settled on a school. Until then, he's focused on leading a North team determined to improve on last year's 10-18 overall record and eighth-place (5-13) finish in the Fox Valley Association.

"With a year's experience, we're going to be very competitive," he said. "I'm very excited about this team."

Richard Campbell

Beloved husband, father, grandfather, friend, and 50-year resident of Oshkosh,

Wisconsin, Richard (Dick) Campbell (89) passed away in his sleep on November 12, 2021 due to heart failure. His parents, Kenneth and Marie (Umbach) Campbell welcomed their youngest son into the world on June 30, 1932 in Indianapolis, Indiana. Dick was raised in a family where making the world a better place by "being useful" was a prominent theme. He held his first job, a newspaper route delivering the Indianapolis Star on his bicycle, for eight years from 5th -12th grades. Sports were an important part of Dick's childhood. He was a talented athlete, lettering in football, basketball, and baseball at Broad Ripple High School (1946-1950) and Butler University (1950-1954). In 1950 he earned the Indianapolis High School Athlete of the Year Award and was humbled by the distinction. As a teenager, his dream was to be a professional baseball player. That dream changed when he graduated from Butler with a degree in education and a commission as a 2nd Lieutenant through the Air Force ROTC program. He and his beloved wife Marilyn (Shaw) were married in Indianapolis in 1954, one month before he began pilot training.

Dick was honored to serve in the Air Force as a pilot/officer in a Strategic Air Command squadron flying KC-97 refueling tankers out of Dow Air Force Base in Bangor, Maine and also Thule, Greenland. He returned to civilian life as a USAF Captain and his path turned toward a rich professional career with the YMCA. He retired in 1993 after serving 35 years at YMCAs in Indianapolis, Milwaukee, Racine, and finally Oshkosh, as the executive director from 1971-1993. Dick was a selfless servant-leader, widely respected and admired for his kindness, generosity, and compassion for everyone he encountered. He lived the Golden Rule every single day.

He was an avid "student of history" and a voracious reader. Dick created thirteen PowerPoint presentations, which he called "Great Moments in History." From 1999-2020 he made 602 presentations to almost 22,000 people at schools, service groups, libraries, and museums in 49 cities in Wisconsin and also many times in Fairbanks, Alaska. Educating others, sharing fascinating stories, and making history come alive for people of all ages was immensely rewarding for him, most recently at the 2021 EAA Convention where Dick shared seven different presentations about important aviation events. (All thirteen talks can be viewed on YouTube: Dick Campbell's History Presentations.)

A dedicated community volunteer, Dick had a zest for life and was involved in many Oshkosh organizations: Downtown Rotary Club, EAA Museum Docents, Chamber of Commerce SCORE, Meals on Wheels, and United Way. He loved reading stories to the children in the YMCA daycare and you'd frequently find him there, laughing and sharing favorite picture books with the kids.

Friends and family were paramount in Dick's life. He and Marilyn recently celebrated 67 wonderful years together. Dick was a devoted father to his three children, Susan, Cathy, and Bob. Family Time was a priority and there are myriad stories full of laughter, graced with the simple pleasures that occur when people who deeply love each other are shaping a life together. There was always a dearly loved family dog sharing their adventures.

Dick's ardent curiosity was evident in his ubiquitous quest to learn new things and to have new experiences in nearby or far-away places. He loved all his Elder Hostel, Road Scholar, and history excursions. He and Marilyn visited their daughter, Susan, in Alaska dozens of times. For 67 years, he meticulously organized scrapbooks of his family's life together, beginning a new one each year on August 29, his and Marilyn's wedding anniversary. These scrapbooks are family treasures. Dick nurtured his friendships and kept in touch with dear friends, many from his childhood, college, and Air Force days, saving each letter and card in his scrapbooks. His family and friends recognize the profound ways their lives were graced by Dick's presence. They will always remember what Dick would say at the end of every letter and conversation, "I love you BIG!"

Dick was predeceased by his parents, his brother Donald, and his sister JoAnn. He is survived by his wife Marilyn, his daughter Susan Campbell and her partner Jon Miller (Fairbanks, AK), his daughter Cathryn Sisson and her husband Bill (Onalaska, WI), his son Bob Campbell and his wife Sarah Adumat, his grandson Dane Campbell and his wife Katie, and their children Sophie, Thatcher, and Ruby, his granddaughter Megan Thiele and her husband Eric (Ely, MN), and his granddaughter Kyra Werner and her husband Zach, and their children Micah and Addie.

A Celebration of Life will be held at Peace Lutheran Church (240 W. 9th Ave. Oshkosh, WI) on Friday, December 3. Visitation with the family will be held from 12-2pm, and the Memorial Service will begin at 2pm. Dick's family is grateful to be able to gather with friends to celebrate his life during the ongoing COVID pandemic and is striving to do this safely. Following Dick's example to live his life exemplifying care and concern for his family and community, masks are required for all guests - whether vaccinated or unvaccinated.

In lieu of flowers, please consider a donation to the Dick Campbell Memorial Fund. To donate online visit the Oshkosh Area Community Foundation: oshkoshareaf.org/fund and search Dick Campbell. To donate by mail please make checks payable to: Oshkosh Area Community Foundation, 230 Ohio St., Suite 100, Oshkosh, WI 54902 (in the memo please include Dick's name). Funds given to this memorial will support the Oshkosh Area YMCA, the Oshkosh Area Humane Society, and the Oshkosh Downtown Rotary.
