County to vote on federal funds plan

Interest from ARPA set for general operations

By Bethanie Gengler Oshkosh Herald

The Winnebago County Board of Supervisors is set to consider a resolution that would allocate $1.4 million in interest earnings from the American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) to fund county government projects and funnel future interest earnings to the county's general fund.

According to a memo from the county executive, the final rule from the U.S. Treasury on ARPA spending expressly allows interest on the federal funds to be placed in the general fund.

The county received $33.3 million in federal pandemic relief in 2021 and 2022, which it designated the "Spirit Fund" to be spent in the spirit of ARPA.

The funds were divided into the categories of "county government projects" proposed by the county executive and department heads; and "government identified projects" intended to be a partnership among county departments and the community.

To date, the county has approved 65 projects and disbursed $23.5 million in

City roundabouts get some visual attention

By Jonathan Richie Oshkosh Herald

The Oshkosh roundabouts have received a much-needed rejuvenation.

City landscape operations manager Travis Derks said the project has been a success.

"They look beautiful," Derks said, "much better than how they looked before."

Derks reported to the Common Council earlier this year that the Jackson Street and Murdock Avenue roundabout was the first to be installed in the city and since then, 11 more have been installed to replace traffic lights along Interstate 41 and U.S. 45.

He said that since initial installation there has been minimal maintenance on the interior of the roundabouts after they began to look overgrown. All 12 will have a similar look with medium-sized shrubs, trees and a rock ring to cut down on the use of mulch.

The roundabouts on Witzel and 9th avenues were completed last week along with Jackson Street/Murdock Avenue. The DOT had asked the city to delay the work at Oshkosh Avenue and Algoma Avenue but are scheduled to be completed this week.

The plants are all salt tolerant so in the winter they won't wither and die when city trucks go through with salt brine when preparing for winter storms. All grass was taken out as well to help lessen the maintenance needed.

The project was made possible by the Oshkosh Area Community Foundation and Oshkosh Convention & Visitors Bureau. The project cost just over $200,000 with a private-public partnership funding some of it and the city budgeting $150,000.

GO Transit shifting to new fare system through WisGo

Oshkosh Herald

Public transportation service GO Transit has adopted the WisGo fare collection system and mobile app that provides riders with mobile payments and fare capping, replacing the current Token Transit fare app by the end of the year.

WisGo is available through the Umo Mobility app where users can load their wallets and use WisGo to pay for bus fares. GO Transit now offers fare capping with additional rides free once the cap is reached, eliminating the need for prepurchased passes. Riders can pay as they go, with all rides contributing to the daily or monthly fare caps.

Regular fare riders pay $2 per ride with a cap of $4 per day, reduced-fare riders pay $1 per ride with a daily cap of $2 and the monthly fare cap is $40.

GO Transit is offering free WisGo cards with a $5 fare purchase through the end of the year. Riders can pick up and reload WisGo cards at the GO Transit Office.

City Hall or Oshkosh Public Library. Next year the cards will be available for $2. Riders can also load their WisGo cards with money at various pass outlets around the city.

"Our goal is to make public transportation more accessible and convenient for everyone in the Greater Oshkosh area," stated Steve Tomasik, transit operation manager. "Fare capping provides equity for all riders as everyone pays the same whether they pay as they go or pay upfront.

He said nearly 200 riders used WisGo in the first 24 hours of being introduced.

The WisGo fare collection system also eliminates the need for transfers as riders will not be charged a fare within 90 minutes of paying a previous one. Fare capping and transfers are not eligible if paying with cash. Physical transfer passes will not be issued after Dec. 31.

For details, contact GO Transit at 920-232-5342 or visit oshkoshwi.gov/Transit.

Smelly situation on south side gets attention

Oshkosh Herald

The Oshkosh Public Works Department is continuing to monitor a strong odor recently reported on the city's south side.

Following the reports of the smelly situation, the city has resumed using an odor neutralizer in the sewer system. The chemical neutralizes hydrogen sulfide, which is often known as the rotten egg and gas smell.

"We're continuing to follow up on this odd situation," said Public Works director James Rabe said.

Child care training location secured for Advocap project

Oshkosh Herald

Community support agency Advocap has secured three acres of land on Jackson Street in Oshkosh to build a child care business startup facility that received funding from the city through its federal ARPA funds.

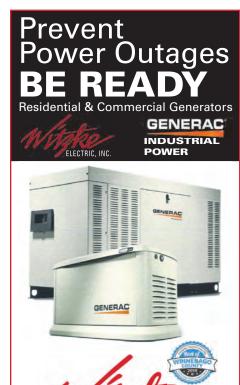

Amid the increasing demand for accessible child care options and ongoing staffing shortages, Advocap's incubator initiative is designed to empower low-income entrepreneurs to start their own in-home child care businesses.

Advocap will support child care entrepreneurs through its Business and Workforce Development Department, assisting with business plans, marketing, licensing, and training and development.

The city allocated $217,660 to Advocap that will cover about 25% of construction costs. The project also received a grant from the U.S. Small Business Administration that also will go toward construction. The Oshkosh Area Community Foundation has provided funding to equip the incubator with essential appliances.

Advocap is working with a local engineering firm on the design of the building and will create a capital campaign for the remaining project funding. The organization expects to break ground by mid-2025 with completion in early 2026.

Rental spaces will simulate an in-home child care environment, allowing participants to comply with care regulations while offering technical assistance and resources to succeed in their ventures as small business owners.

Each participant will have their own space within the incubator facility, according to Advocap's application to the city. The shared space will have separate incubators running their business independently and offer a flexible space to accommodate different age ranges and allow for new providers to move in when a business owner expands and moves out.

"With staffing shortages as one of the biggest hurdles for existing centers, we wanted to create a new path for aspiring child care providers," said Tanya Marcoe, Advocap executive director. "This incubator will do just that by helping individuals launch their own businesses while increasing child care availability in the community."

More than 60 individuals have expressed a desire to move their child care businesses into the incubator once it is operational.

The future facility's location is between the Christian Community Childcare Center at 3870 Jackson St. to its south and a dog kennel at 3792 Jackson.

Advocap is a private nonprofit dedicated to reducing poverty and promoting self-sufficiency in Winnebago, Fond du Lac and Green Lake counties. The organization's current workforce development programs includes skills enhancement and adult education programs that can access funding for child care, tuition and books.

Those interested in starting a child care business – in-home or center based – can contact Kathy or Libby at 920-922-7760.

Pedestrian killed in hit-and-run incident

Oshkosh Herald

One man is in custody after a pedestrian was struck and killed early Saturday morning.

Oshkosh police reported the crash took place before 3 a.m. Saturday near the intersection of New York Avenue and Goss Court. When officers arrived on the scene they found a pedestrian lying in the roadway and appeared to have been struck by a vehicle.

The vehicle left the scene before officers arrived; initial reports suggest the vehicle may have traveled west after the crash. Lifesaving measures were attempted on the victim but the unidentified person was pronounced dead at the scene.

The crash remains under investigation and police are encouraging anyone in the area that may have a security camera to review the footage between the hours of midnight and 3 a.m. Saturday.

Police announced over the weekend they have a 21-year-old Oshkosh man in custody. Winnebago County Jail records show Drake J. Dodge was booked into the facility Saturday on charges of hit-and-run resulting in death. Official charges had not been filed by press time.

Education advocates release voter guides

Oshkosh Herald

In cooperation with the League of Women Voters in Winnebago County and Appleton/Fox Cities, Fox Cities Advocates for Public Education (FCA4PE) surveyed all legislative candidates in the area with the responses released in its K-12 Public Education Voter Guide.

Eleven legislative districts were surveyed with 13 candidates responding and nine others who did not respond. The nonpartisan group did not identify candidates by political party and encourages voters to use the issues to inform their opinions.

The survey asked for written responses on the issues of public school funding, special education reimbursement, private school vouchers and mental health concerns.

The voter guides can be found on the Fox Cities Advocates for Public Education Facebook page.

Education funding makes up about a-third of Wisconsin's biennial budget that supports the more than 80% of Wisconsin children who attend public schools.

Business grows mission to help disabled gain independence

Focus on Freedom offers children, parent programs By MaryBeth Matzek

Herald contributor

Marla Kopecky Penney worked for 20 years with people who had disabilities and noticed a gap between the support systems at home, in the community and at school.

She decided to launch Focus on Freedom to help those families in 2019. Five years later, the organization is busier than ever.

"I noticed there wasn't a lot of wraparound care, independent living skills or career planning for disabled children and adults," Penney said. "We come in and provide these much-needed training and skills."

Focus on Freedom works with clients in Winnebago and Outagamie counties starting at age 8 who have physical, cognitive or developmental challenges, including autism, Down syndrome and cerebral palsy. The program is paid through the Children's Long-Term Support (CLTS) waiver program.

The business offers multiple programs for clients including daily living skills training, career planning and respite care. For caregivers, Focus on Freedom provides communication coaching, communication consulting and foundations in caregiving programs.

"Through our personalized, one-on-one training, we focus on building self-confidence and empowering individuals with disabilities to reach their goals and live as independently as possible," Penney said.

Daily living skills training helps customers master age-appropriate daily routines and activities independently, such as hygiene skills, food preparation and doing the laundry.

"Daily living skills can also be about finding hobbies whether it's putting a puzzle together or working on arts and crafts since for many children, technology is their sole source of leisure," Penney said. "We also practice going out in restaurants and how you behave in one type of restaurant is different than a fast-food restaurant."

Penney also provides clients with career planning assistance. For many students with disabilities, they are not sure of what they will do after high school. She works with students to uncover their interests and chart a plan forward.

"Some students want to attend college so what does that look like for them? For example, we can focus on study skills," Penney said. "We also talk about emailing teachers and not being afraid to ask questions."

For students unsure of what they want to do after high school, Focus on Freedom offers job shadowing opportunities.

"A client may have one view of what a career is like versus the reality, so job shadowing helps with that," she said.

Focus on Freedom also provides programs for families, including a communications program. Parents are also asked to attend a fundamental skills program since "there's no manual on how to parent children with disabilities," Penney said. "We provide the family and client with communication supports and talk about modeling behavior for their child."

Some children with disabilities, for example, take what parents say literally. If a parent says, "I'll be there in a minute," they think it will really be a minute so Focus on Freedom employees help parents learn how to phrase things so their child understands correctly.

Focus on Freedom continues to work with clients as long as there are more goals for them to achieve and they are making progress.

For people living outside of Focus on Freedom's service area or who are on a waitlist, they can sign up for assistance through Empower Freedom. The program provides quick read articles, social stories to help children learn different skills and quick link resources. There is a fee, but Penney said it's reasonable since she wants families to feel empowered.

"My goal is to help as many families as possible," she said.

Miles Kimball project joins South Main neighborhood

MK Lofts development revives historic location

By Dan Roherty Oshkosh Herald

The former Miles Kimball building at South Main and 9th Avenue is welcoming its first housing tenants as the new apartment development weathered supply-chain and other challenges since renovations began on the historic location in 2021.

MK Lofts becomes the Sawdust District's first new housing addition to open on South Main Street ahead of other projects in the works to transform the former industrial and manufacturing neighborhood. CR Structures Group restored the early 1900s building into 28 units while preserving the original framework of the former home to national merchandiser Miles Kimball Co. Before that it housed A. Streich & Brothers Wagons, which built beer and other horse-drawn delivery wagons.

"One of the most remarkable aspects is that this 120-year-old mass timber structure allowed us to preserve the original wood beams, columns and soaring 13foot wood ceilings, which we've beautifully exposed in the units," said Kip N. Golden, executive vice president for CR Structures. "The result is a collection of truly stunning and unique apartments."

The city had worked with earlier redevelopment plans for the building that included two separate tax increment district (TID) agreements to help housing and other projects get off the ground on the south side.

"Over the years, many proposals were made for the site, some even suggesting demolition. We're proud to have saved and revitalized this piece of Oshkosh's history for the community," said Golden, who noted overwhelming response from residents sharing stories and historic photos of their grandparents or relatives who worked there during its earlier business era.

workforce shortages currently common to the construction industry slowed the $6.5 million project, but the local investors behind MK Lofts are now taking leases ranging from $999 for studio units to $1,800 for two-bedroom units.

"Despite these obstacles, I'm incredibly proud of our team at CR Structures Group for stepping up, meeting these challenges head-on, and bringing this project to fruition," Golden said.

Miles Kimball Co. was a national leader in the direct merchandise business cards, gifts, household items, food products – starting in 1935 when Kimball began to market personalized Christmas cards before producing catalogs at that location.

Alberta Kimball took over as president of operations after husband Miles' death in 1949 and expanded the business with more than 46 million catalogs produced by 1992. The corporate name later became Silver Star Brands to reflect several other names under its ownership.

Next up for that neighborhood's housing surge is the three-building, 295-unit Mill on Main project across the street being built by T. Wall Enterprises, expected to break ground in November and offer leases in 2026. Just north of MK Lofts on the same side of Main is a 1.3-acre lot targeted for a 92-unit residential development.

Golden welcomes those housing projects along with the retail and other business growth they are expected to help generate.

"There's a saying, 'A rising tide lifts all boats,' and I believe that holds true for this area," Golden said. "The surrounding developments will complement our own and help bring even more activity to this growing redevelopment zone."

First Congregational celebrates 175 years of changing lives

By Cheryl Hentz

First Congregational Church in Oshkosh, which turned 175 years old this year, is finalizing plans to celebrate that milestone and several other events during a special jazz worship service at 10 a.m. Sunday at 137 Algoma Blvd. that is open to the public.

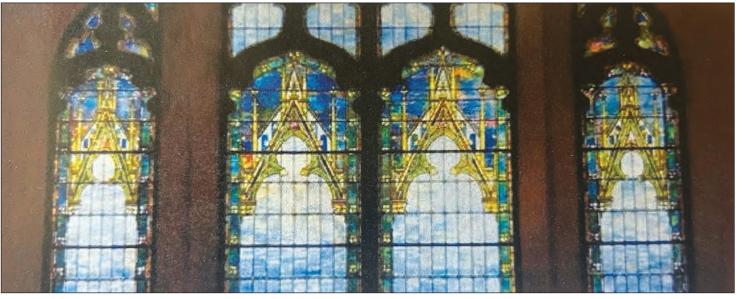

The theme for this service – Celebrating the Past with Gratitude and Living into the Future with Joy and Courage - gives thanks for 175 years of faith and community impact by the people of the church, acknowledgement of trying times of the past while looking toward new paths of ministry to the church and community beyond its walls.

It is a pivotal time for the congregation as it comes out of the pandemic, bid farewell in August to the retiring Rev. Nancy Taylor after nearly eight years of leadership, and welcoming the 25th pastor of the church, the Rev. Julie Eklund.

The Revs. Ralph and Carol DiBiasio-Snyder, co-pastors from 1988 until their retirement in 2015, will offer some historical insights while looking ahead. As part of that look toward the future, Eklund has recorded a video greeting for the service.

There will be no formal sermon but the preaching will be in the music. Congregational singing will be accompanied by organist/pianist/choir director Bridget Duffy-Ulrich. The church's other organist/ pianist and former choir director, Joanne Peterson, will perform an organ postlude.

The service will feature local jazz trio Janet Planet, John Harmon and Mark Urness, who will perform pre-service music, as well as seven pieces of music - including some newly released songs. The musical event is sponsored by the Jim Weiland Memorial Fund, honoring a longtime FCC member who loved playing piano and performing at concerts and other events with local groups and combos, including Geriatric Jazz.

After worship, everyone is invited to the church's Fellowship Hall for a social time.

First Congregational Church was formed - "gathered" is the proper Congregational term - on July 9, 1849, when 12 early settlers in the community signed a covenant to form a church. By a vote of 10 to 2 they chose to be a Congregational church, rather than Presbyterian or other denomination. These charter members, and those who quickly followed them, were of New England stock, among the first white settlers in the city.

They built their first sanctuary on Main Street but soon outgrew it and started a new building on the site of the church's present-day educational building. That building was lost in a fire in 1870, and a new sanctuary built in 1873.

The church windows were made by the Tiffany Co. in New York and installed when the sanctuary was built in 1911. In January 1912, the church's current sanctuary designed by noted architect William Waters was dedicated.

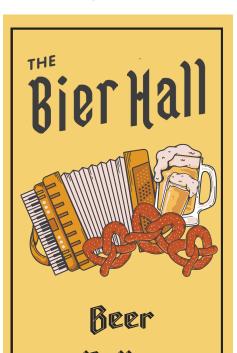

FCC's impressive pipe organ, also installed in 1911, was commissioned and built by Casavant Freres, French-Canadian organ builder in Saint-Hyacinthe, Quebec. It has long been recognized as one of the finest instruments of its kind in the Midwest. Groups come from miles around to perform recitals at FCC, using its pipe organ as accompaniment.

County earnings

ARPA dollars, according to the county's new online Spirit Fund dashboard.

With not all ARPA dollars having been disbursed, the county has continued to collect interest earnings on the money, which now amounts to $2.5 million. Of that, $1.4 million in interest was earned from the funds in the government identified projects category and an additional $152,000 in that category has not been allocated.

The ARPA Strategy and Outcome Commission held two meetings in September to discuss the interest and how to proceed with the remaining resources.

Under a proposal from the county executive's office, the interest and remaining unallocated government identified project funds with a combined total of $1.5 million would be used for county government projects. Interest accrued beginning Nov. 1 would be moved to the general fund for use in county operations.

Examples of county government projects funded with ARPA dollars include a Facilities Condition Assessment and a Facilities Master Plan, which are planning documents that the executive's office wrote are overdue and their completion necessary for budgeting decisions moving forward.

"Based on those documents, the county would be in (a) better position to ensure effective investment of the remaining dollars," the county executive's office wrote.

Aside from decisions on the interest earnings and unallocated funds, the ARPA Commission also approved funding several county needs including $400,000 for demolition of an airport hangar; $700,000 for a road paver; $505,000 for a chip spreader; and $125,405 for the purchase of two vehicles and installation of equipment for the morgue.

Several representatives from the Larsen-Winchester Sanitary District have attended the last few ARPA Commission meetings to voice concerns over state regulations on ammonia and phosphorus discharge limitations, which the existing treatment facility is unable to meet. To comply with the unfunded mandate, the total estimated project costs are $4.6 million. Larsen-Winchester representatives asked for ARPA assistance to offset the cost.

The commission members discussed the fairness of awarding ARPA dollars to Larsen-Winchester at this late stage in the distribution process and did not take any action on the request.

The County Board will review and vote on the recommendation to allocate the interest earnings to the county government and the latest approved ARPA expenditures at an upcoming meeting.

Whooping cough cases on increase in county

Oshkosh Herald Pertussis, more commonly known as whooping cough, has been increasing in Wisconsin and nationwide in the past few months.

As of Sept. 30, Winnebago County had 21 confirmed cases, compared with only one case in 2023.

Bacteria causes pertussis and easily spreads from person to person by contact with an infected person's saliva through talking, coughing or sneezing.

Winnebago County Public Health recommends residents contact a medical provider if they have symptoms or suspect they've been exposed. Infected people can spread pertussis up to three weeks after the cough begins if they are not treated with antibiotics. Initial symptoms may be similar to the common cold and can last for one to two weeks. Symptoms can progress to an uncontrollable, violent cough that makes it hard to breathe.

Pertussis affects people of all ages but can be serious or result in hospitalization for babies under 1, pregnant women and immunocompromised individuals. Older siblings, parents or caregivers who might not know they have the disease can spread it to babies before symptoms appear.

Contact a medical provider or check the Wisconsin Immunization Registry on vaccination status. Winnebago County Public Health offers the DTaP and Tdap vaccines for those eligible. For more information on the Vaccine for Children Program eligibility, call 920-232-3000.

next three years instead of a large increase, and that the village had about a month to decide if they wanted to opt out of the agreement. The contract between the village and Oshkosh expires at the end of 2026.

"Staying with Oshkosh is best for the village because we want people to know when they call 911 they will get incredibly great service," Fuller said.

The fourth ambulance unit would cost $782,195 and includes salaries for eight firefighters, all licensed paramedics. The department has a top rating of Insurance Services Office (ISO) Class 1 and was named Wisconsin's 2022 EMS Service of the Year.

Oshkosh's cost will be covered by a combination of city funds and money coming in from the service rate increase.

The rate increase will help but there will still be long response times to some of the distant areas the Oshkosh Fire Department covers. The average response time in the city last year was 6 minutes and 50 seconds. The average response to the Town of Poygan, which is the farthest according to OFD data, took 29 minutes and 9 seconds. The average call in Oshkosh can be handled in an hour with the unit back to the station and prepared for another call. If a call comes in for the Town of Utica it can take up to 2 hours and 15 minutes to get that unit back to the station.

About 85% of department calls are for EMS services, which Stanley said is typical nationwide.

In August, Stanley presented data showing the need for a fourth ambulance unit based on the amount of time the three units were spending on calls outside of Oshkosh.

The three-ambulance system has been in place since 2005 and designed to cover 25 square miles and 67,000 people, not the 250 square miles and 100,000 it currently serves.

Stanley told the council the three-unit system was no longer sustainable. He told the Herald last week that given the population and demographics of the area, the department will most likely need to expand to a fifth unit in the next five to six years.

The Fire Department recently had three new ambulances delivered that were ordered about three years ago as part of its general replacement process.

Mental health first aid training session offered

Oshkosh Herald

NAMI Oshkosh and Trinity Episcopal Church are sponsoring mental health first aid training, a skills-based course to give people the tools to identify, understand and respond to someone who might be struggling with a mental health or substance use challenge.

The session is set from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Nov. 9 at the church, 203 Algoma Blvd.

Mental health first aid prepares participants to interact with a person experiencing a mental health crisis and connect them with appropriate support and resources when necessary.

The training will be taught by Anita Kinsley, a Trinity parishioner and certified instructor. Training materials, breakfast, lunch, snacks and beverages will be provided by NAMI Oshkosh.

For information or to sign up, call 920-657-1148 or email info@namioshkosh.org.

Oshkosh Herald

The Oshkosh Fire Department has three new ambulances in the fleet as part of general replacement of vehicles. The department will be adding a fourth ambulance unit next summer to keep up with the call increases.

The ambulances were set up last week to ensure they have the same inside system as the ambulances currently in use.

EMS Division Chief Aaron Droessler said it's important for EMS personnel to know where a piece of equipment is in the critical time on a call.

"These are sorely needed and we're ready to get them on the road," he said.

The new ambulances were set to be on the road this week with a slightly different color scheme to match the fire engines.

Mini truck carries flowers where they're needed

By MaryBeth Matzek HERALD CONTRIBUTOR

Sami Schmidt was so excited to launch Mobile Mini Truck that she started before finding the truck she needed for her mobile flower truck business.

April 2023, In Schmidt began meeting with people about different events they would need flowers for as she and wife Emily hunted to find the right truck, which they would use to take to events and display their flowers. They found the vintage pale yellow 1969 Dodge pickup truck that July while seated in a diner scrolling through Facebook Marketplace.

"Another possibility fell through. We saw the ad and went to look at the truck and everything fell into place," Sami Schmidt said.

Schmidt, who has an interior design degree from Fox Valley Technical College, worked in interior and commercial design when she decided to launch her own business.

"I knew I wanted to work for myself and looked at several different options and settled on the mobile flower market," she said. "The truck is great. It's mobile so we can take our business to different places and it's a great way to meet people. People either come up to ask questions about the truck, the flowers or both."

The distinctive truck includes custom-built holders in the truck's bed that fit Mobile Mini Truck's flower buckets that Schmidt handpicks at various women-owned flower farms, including North Road Flower Farm in Pickett, a vendor at the Oshkosh Farmers Market.

The resulting overall displays can be rented out for a variety of events.

Mobile Mini Trucks can be booked for special events such as bridal showers, weddings and birthday parties. The truck also attends events such as farmers markets where they sell flowers. Coming up, the business will attend multiple fall-related events such as Octoberfest in Appleton.

"We're excited about the exposure we will have at the upcoming events. Our business continues to grow through word of mouth or people see us at an event, start asking questions and that leads to more bookings," Schmidt said, adding the truck is "pretty booked" for September and October.

She gets her flowers from a handful of women flower growers, including one wholesaler. Schmidt chooses the flowers based on the growers' input and what's in season.

"I think it's important to support other women-owned businesses," she said.

As the only flower bar with a truck in the area, Mobile Mini Trucks stands out, Schmidt said.

"We are pretty unique and get requests to travel to the Milwaukee or Madison areas for events," she said.

While Sami handles the customer-facing side of the business, Emily focuses on the behind-the-scenes activities, such as billing. She also led the truck's build-out.

The truck is in operation from May through the end of October. During the rest of the year, Mobile Mini Trucks focuses on indoor activities such as birthday parties, weddings, indoor classes or bloom bars, where people can put together their own bouquets using the flowers provided.

"We are definitely more experience orientated with our activities during the winter," Sami Schmidt said. "We have threetiered stands that hold our flower buckets that we can easily bring indoors for events or classes."

Schmidt envisions the flower truck as the first in what she hopes is a business featuring several different types of trucks.

"I could see us having a book truck or a tap truck," she said. "This is just the beginning, which is why I named the business Mobile Mini Trucks instead of having the word 'flower' in the title."

Demler excels at setting the table for Warriors

By Tim Froberg Herald contributor

Setters are considered to be the quarterbacks of their volleyball teams.

Meet Maliha Demler, the Jordan Love of the Valley Christian Warriors.

The Valley Christian setter was a firstteam all-Trailways East selection as a junior and is the Warriors' all-time program leader in assists. Demler broke Lizzy Jonas' previous team record of 2,190 assists earlier this season.

Demler is also a team captain and leader.

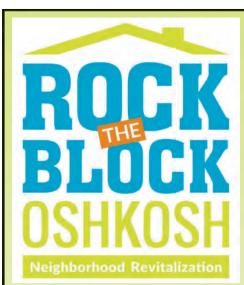

"Maliha has been a great leader for our program and has had a great career here," said Valley Christian coach Lizzy Potratz. "What I appreciate more than her setting has been her humility and how she leads by example. She sets a great example on and off the court and is a natural leader.

"Being a vocal leader is not Maliha's strength, but she has filled that role many times and pushes her teammates. She is great with words and when she has something to say, you can tell the team is listening."

Demler is a fourth-year starter, who generated 791 assists, 49 kills and 42 service aces her junior year and 667 assists, 33 kill and 41 aces as a sophomore. She broke into the Warriors lineup as a freshman in 2021 and had 302 assists, eight kills and 12 aces.

"One thing I really appreciate about Maliha is that she will step outside her comfort zone to do what is necessary," said Potratz. "She is coachable and willing to do what you ask of her. We couldn't ask for a more humble leader."

Demler has been a setter since she start-

Valley Christian senior Maliha Demler is a returning first-team all-conference selection as a setter and has the Warriors primed for another lengthy postseason run.

ed playing the game in the fifth grade.

"I like being in the middle of everything," said Demler. "I really like the idea that when you get a good set, your hitters have a good chance of getting a good hit."

Volleyball and the setter position runs in Demler's family. Maliha's mother, Jennelle, was a setter in her prep volleyball days at Faith Christian School in Williams Bay and went on to play college volleyball for two years at Marantha Baptist Bible College.

Maliha also has a cousin, Taylor Birr, who was a standout setter at Pulaski High School and later played college volleyball at the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point. Maliha's father, Jason Demler, was a four-year boys' basketball starter at Valley Christian.

"I guess it (setting) is in my blood because my mom was a setter," Demler said. "My mom might give me some advice on how to be a leader, but she doesn't try and coach me on how to play. My cousin (Birr) was someone I always looked up to and she was a big influence on me playing volleyball and being a setter."

Setting involves far more than just bumping the ball for hitters. The setters are responsible for calling plays and various sets.

"If anyone watches me play, I'm holding up fingers telling them what to run," she said. "I like that one-on-one connection you have with your hitters and passers."

Demler is a rarity among prep volleyball

players in that she does not play club volleyball during the non-prep season.

"To be honest, the main reason I don't do it is because I'm very involved with my church," Demler said. "It's something I'm very passionate about. A lot of tournaments and club practices happen on Sundays when I want to be at church or there are practices on Wednesday nights when I go to youth group. It (volleyball) isn't something I want to prioritize over church."

Demler also plays prep tennis and is part of a special coed program in which girls often find themselves competing against boys. Demler played doubles competition the past few years with another Warriors' volleyball player, Stella Wright, who has graduated.

"Personally, I enjoy playing against boys because it forces you to improve your game," Demler said. "Stella and I didn't win too many matches, but we won some and we definitely progressed as the season went along. Tennis is more of a fun sport for me. I never put too much pressure on myself."

Demler is a high-honors student at Valley Christian with a grade-point-average close to 4.0. She plans to attend Fox Valley Technical College next fall and major in business management.

"My dad owns a business (Jireh Brick and Stone)," said Maliha. "Watching him be his own boss has kind of rubbed off on me. Starting my own business some day is the goal."

With Demler at the controls, Valley Christian is enjoying a strong volleyball season. The Warriors were a Division 4 sectional finalist last season and hope to take another step in 2024 and advance to the state tournament at the Resch Center.

"My teammates are so versatile," Demler said. "Everyone can play anywhere and that makes it more fun. I'm very excited about where we can go in the postseason."

Spartans clinch first playoff berth since 2016

By Steve Clark Oshkosh Herald

The Oshkosh North football team had plenty of reason to celebrate after Friday night's 58-13 thumping of Green Bay West.

Playing on their home turf field for the first time was certainly special and it's always a plus when a team can enjoy a victory in its annual Homecoming game.

But maybe the biggest reason there were as many ear-to-ear smiles by the guys toting their helmets and wearing the eye black as there were is because the triumph means that Oshkosh North will be WIAA playoff bound for the first time since 2016.

"It's amazing. It's a great feeling and prideful for our school," senior linebacker Connor Palmquist said. "We are going to the playoffs which is something that hasn't been done here in forever. I can't ask for anything more from these guys. The energy is amazing."

The Spartans rode a 28-point first quarter to a 42-7 halftime lead and had no trouble dispatching the Wildcats to improve to 4-1 in the Fox River Class Conference South.

And for a program that has won just six games in the last three seasons and scored just 76 points in finishing 1-8 in 2023, the turnaround the Spartans have shown is remarkable.

"We keep preaching we are a playoff team and it feels really good," Spartans head coach Luke Ott said. "The kids believe they are where they need to be. We are beating teams that we should and controlling a lot of our own destiny."

The Spartans seized control against the Wildcats right from the get-go, marching 65 yards in nine plays on its opening possession for a touchdown.

North never faced a third down on the march, which was capped by a beautiful laser throw from Bryce Ott to Logan Schettle in the back of the end zone for a 12-yard touchdown.

The Spartans' defense then forced a three-and-out and needed just three plays of their own to add to the lead, with Jamare Scott taking a pitch around the right side for a 3-yard touchdown run and a 14-0 lead less than six minutes into the game.

Scott, who had a 27-yard run to set up the score and finished with 102 yards on just 12 carries in the game, said the Spartans' prolific passing game has helped open things up for him on the ground.

"When Bryce is throwing the ball, it opens up the run game for me. I love having a quarterback who can throw the ball," Scott said. "I have way more confidence coming into Friday nights now (compared with last season) because I know we have a good chance of winning against the teams we play."

The only hiccup of the first half for North came after taking the 14-0 lead, when West struck for a 71-yard touchdown pass on the first play after the kickoff.

That was the only first down the Spartans allowed on the first five possessions for the Wildcats, forcing three three-andouts while also getting an interception by Jaykwon Jones.

Valley Christian drops five-set thriller to Crusaders

By Steve Clark Oshkosh Herald

Valley Christian scored the final three points of the fourth set to extend the match and then took the lead early in the fifth set, but couldn't hold off Central Wisconsin Christian last Thursday night.

In a matchup of the top two teams in the Trailways East it was the Crusaders that managed to hand the Warriors 23-25, 25-21, 25-19, 26-28, 16-14 loss inside a jam-packed Valley Christian High School gym on the team's Dig Pink night.

"They can fight and they can come back. It is completely in them," Valley Christian head coach Lizzy Potratz said. "I'm super proud of them and we will learn from this. We have had some really good comebacks but this was not the performance we needed and they realize that."

The Warriors ended up playing their second five-set match in three days after knocking off Lourdes Academy on Tuesday.

Thursday night's showdown nearly didn't make it to a fifth set as the Warriors had to fight back from the Crusaders having match point twice in the fourth set.

Anna Giannopoulos' spiked through a Crusader block saved the first match point and tied the fourth set at 24 before Central Wisconsin Christian surged back in front 26-25, but missed a serve to again even the match.

Brynn Weinaug then served out the set for Valley Christian as the Warriors evened the match at two sets apiece.

"They have done it before and so we know we can come back," Potratz said. "They are showing the fight and the fact they have that kind of fight is huge."

Lizzie Fink opened the fifth set with a kill to stake the Warriors to the early lead and Valley Christian scored seven of the next 11 points to take an 8-4 advantage.

Central Wisconsin Christian answered back by rattling off eight straight points to take the lead before a Halle Weyenberg kill stopped the Crusaders' string.

A kill from Giannopoulos and a stuff block from Alaina Wojtowski brought the Warriors to within a point before the Warriors had another run of three straight points – two kills from Giannopoulos and an ace from Weyenberg – to take a 14-13 lead and earn Valley Christian a match point. The Warriors, however, weren't able to finish things off as Central Wisconsin to finish things off as Central Wisconsin Christian scored the next three points to collect the win and drop the Warriors into sole possession of second place in the conference.

"I think their effort was just a little but better than us tonight," Potratz said. "Credit to them, they came and fought. They had bodies flying all over and that makes the difference in volleyball." Valley Christian took its biggest lead of the first set 1t 14-10 on an ace by Giannopoulos buit the Crusaders answered with five straight points to regain the lead and neither team led by more than three points the rest of the set.

Fink's spike through a Crusaders' block got the Warriors to set point at 24-21, while a tip from the junior after Central Wisconsin Christian had closed to within a point earned Valley Christian the win and a 1-0 lead.

The Crusaders took the lead for good at 15-14 of the second set and held Valley Christian off the rest of the way to even Oshkosh North erupted for four second-half goals and bounced back from a rough outing the game before to collect a 4-0 win over Plymouth in a nonconference match Thursday.

Shepherd Johnson scored early in the second half to ignite the scoring barrage as the Spartans halted a two-game losing skid.

"It was a good win for us on a couple of levels," Spartans head coach Sean Johnson said. "It was good for the players' psyche. We have been struggling with inconsistency and the players have been frustrated. Hopefully, we can build on the positive feelings and build some positive momentum."

The second-half barrage came after a rough start to the match for the Spartans, who weren't able to generate much offense and nearly conceded an own-goal over the first 15 minutes.

The Spartans had a couple of scoring opportunities to close out the half, though, but had a free kick clank off the goal post, while a rebound shot from Mto Wasekye Jean was saved by the Plymouth goalkeeper to send the game into intermission scoreless.

Despite those missed chances, the opportunities seemed to awaken the North offense and the Spartans came out firing in the second half.

Shepherd Johnson scored from about 40 yards out three minutes into the second half to get the ball rolling for the offense and North never looked back once it got the lead.

Jean extended the lead to 2-0 about two minutes later after the Spartans peppered the Plymouth goal with a bevy of shots.

North goalkeeper Lungwe Ramadahni then got into the scoring mix in the 61st minute when he converted a penalty kick after Plymouth was whistled for a yellow card in the penalty area.

The Spartans would tack on a fourth goal in the 67th minute from Daudi Makechi to close out the scoring.

"We were working on a new tactical alignment and we're committed to getting our reserves more playing time," Johnson said. "Accomplishing that in the context of a win is always helpful.

"Plymouth is a great program. I really respect what they do and the tradition they have. They are a challenging opponent and it took us a while to solve the challenge in our favor."

"We locked in after that touchdown," Palmquist said. "We got the troops together and got everybody riled up. We got everybody focused after that."

Bryce Ott connected with Scott for a 47-yard touchdown on a screen pass as North regained a 14-point lead.

Ott then found Dalton Clark for a 35-yard touchdown pass to cap the four-touchdown first quarter for the Spartans.

Clark added a 45-yard punt for a touchdown in the second quarter - his second straight game with a punt return for a score – and then hauled in a 17-yard touchdown pass from Ott to push the lead to 42-7 with still more than seven minutes left in the first half.

Ott, who hadn't played in the second half in either of the past two games, finished 9-of-11 for 166 yards and five touchdowns. Over his last three games after coming back from injury, the junior signal-caller is a combined 26-for-32 for 401 yards and has thrown 17 touchdowns without an interception this season.

The Warriors took an early 6-3 lead in the fourth set - highlighted by two kills from Raven Meyer and an ace from Maliha Demler - but Central Wisconsin Christian scored seven of the next eight points and stayed in front the rest of the set.

Giannopoulos had a huge night for the Warriors finishing with 27 kills - and just five errors - to lead the Valley Christian hitters, while also finishing with a teamhigh 20 digs.

"Anna was definitely going after it tonight," Potratz said. "We know it's in her.

ship and focus to the offense. When he has a little swagger, it means our offense is usually going to play well," Luke Ott said. "Our receivers are making plays for him and Jamare is doing a great job. Our kids are dialed in."

Bryce Ott added his final touchdown pass on the first drive of the third quarter, connecting with Schettle for an 8-yard score, while Charlie Clark tallied the final North touchdown on a 1-yard run in relief of Bryce Ott.

Oshkosh North is now in a three-way tie for second place in the FRCC South along with Menasha and Sheboygan North and will travel to face the Golden Raiders on Friday. The Spartans will then wrap up the regular season at Green Bay Notre Dame, which is undefeated and ranked No. 1 in the state in Division 3.

But no matter what happens the next two weeks, the Spartans will have at least one more game on the schedule after ending its playoff drought.

"It feels great to finally be in the playoffs. We are the first team in a long time to make it and now we are on the wall of the weight room (where playoff teams are posted)," Scott said. "It definitely feels worth all of the work to get the switch and make the playoffs."

She does so many good things for us."

Fink added 11 kills for the Warriors, while Meyer added nine and Demler racked up 48 assists in the match.

Weyenberg and Aubryn Lehman each chipped in 19 digs with Demler adding 10.

The Warriors will wrap up the regular season next Tuesday with a nonconference match at Berlin before heading into the WIAA Tournament where they will look to make their second straight trip to sectionals.

"I don't think we have truly peaked as a team yet," Potratz said. "We can clean up a few of the things we need to clean up and they are a team to be reckoned with. If they can stay consistent, I don't think there is anybody they can't beat."

Sports specialization can generate more overuse injuries

ThedaCare Communications

The popularity of professional athletes and sports events can lead kids and their parents to dream of sports stardom and scholarships. This has also led to a new trend that is concerning – sports specialization.

The American Academy of Pediatrics and National Athletic Training Association warn against sports specialization at a young age. They point to studies showing it can lead to an increase in overuse injuries, overtraining, and burnout.

"We understand that parents want the best for their kids," said Dr. Nickolas Linkous, a sports medicine and orthopedic surgeon with ThedaCare Orthopedic Care. "Some may believe that focusing on a single sport can lead to greatness. Unfortunately, it can also lead to physical and mental health issues. Participating in multiple sports is better for a child or teen's physical and psychological health."

When children participate in the same sport for most of the year, they are at higher risk of developing an overuse and other types of injuries, according to a study from the American Journal of Sports Medicine. Common overuse injuries include tendon damage, stress fractures, and knee and joint pain.

"When kids play only one sport, it often doesn't provide time for the child's body to rest or recover. A small injury can get worse quickly," Linkous explained. "Resting is important, especially as children's and teens' bodies are still growing. Repetitive motion is tough on their bones and muscles."

Beyond physical issues, training for a single sport throughout the year can potentially lead to burnout or psychological stress. The constant pressure to compete can be difficult for kids and teens. This comes on top of regular stressors, such as fitting in with peers and performing well in school.

Kids spending a lot of time at their sport also may miss out on valuable social interactions with their peers who are not a part of that activity. In addition, they may become overly anxious about their playing time and performance.

"It's important for children to have time to play and participate in non-sports activities," Linkous said. "It's all about balance. Parents should try to avoid overscheduling and spending too much time on any single sport."

Linkous recognizes there's a lot of pressure for children and teens to specialize. However, it's best to hold off as long as possible.

The American Academy of Pediatrics recommends delaying specialization for most sports until after puberty (around 15 or 16 years of age for most kids). This will minimize the risks and lead to a higher likelihood of athletic success.

The National Athletic Training Association suggests tips to vary your child's sports activities:

• One at a time. Children and teens should play only one sport per season.

• Eight-month rule. A teen or child should not participate in the same sport for more than eight months of the year.

• Hours per week. Young athletes should not participate in an organized sport or activity more hours per week than their age. For example, a 10-year-old should not practice or play their sport for more than 10 hours per week.

• Rest days. Kids and teens should have two days per week when they are not practicing or playing their sport.

• End-of-season break. When a season ends, kids should step away from that sport to provide their body time to physically and mentally recover. Jumping from a sport's club season right into a school season raises the chance for injury or burnout.

family by his side, born October 28, 1944 to Melvin Sheldon and Lucy Kasper. After many tries, he finally met the love of his life and married Dian Collins (Radke, Vickery) on February 4, 1989.

John worked for Mercury Marine in the prop department for 37 and a half years. He was an avid Packer fan, who was quite an armchair quarterback. His family enjoyed having stories of his antics from his younger years.

He was blessed with a huge family. Surviving him are his wife, Dian Sheldon; children, Kim (Rick) Rothe of Killeen, TX, Thomas Radke (Chari Kempf) of Oshkosh, Tracey (Craig) Doehling of Athol, ID, Ted Radke (Christy Steinert) er, he spent his time going to car shows, riding his motorcycle, and spending time with his friends, doing what 21 year olds do.

His infectious smile lit up the room and was the life of whatever party he attended. He had an unforgettable sense of humor and a memorable laugh that usually included knee slaps. He could talk with anybody, and never feared a deep conversation. Kaleb loved to travel, with his favorite place being Nashville. He dreamed of traveling the world with eyes wide open, with the love of his life, to such places as Mexico, Jamaica, and Japan.

Kaleb positively impacted those he came in touch with. He was caring, loving, and genuine. Kaleb made sure to spend special moments with his little brothers and family. He was conscious about his health by eating right as well as making time to work out. Kaleb was curious about how things worked and always tried to find the "why" in life from a young age.

Please join us in reminiscing on how Kaleb made an impact on all our lives on Thursday, October 10, 2024, from 3:00 pm-7:00 pm at Fiss-Bills Poklasny Funeral Home, located at 865 S.
